Adenauer Feels Language Is Too Broad —Allies Ready to Leave Door Open for Negotiation.

WASHINGTON, July 6—A snag has developed in the dispatch of a Western answer to the Russian Berlin memorandum due to West German worries over the breadth and scope of the proposed reply.

West Germany's Ambassador to Washington, William G. Grewe, flew to Bonn to explain to Chancellor Adenauer what the Western proposals meant and conveyed back to Washington Adenauer's objections.

It is hoped that difficulties can be straightened out by cable, but the dispatch of the Western answer, which had been expected today probably will be postponed until next week.

Despite the secrecy in the matter, it is understood that Adenauer fears that the language of the proposed Western reply to the Soviet memo is so broad as to provide loopholes which the Russians could exploit.

Six-Month Deadline.

The essence of Premier Khrushchev's Berlin statement, handed to President Kennedy in their Vienna meeting, was a demand that the Western Allies agree to his conditions for a demilitarized, free city of Berlin within six months or have their rights in Berlin "extinguished" when Russia signs a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk discussed the proposed Western answer to Khrushchev in a half-hour conference yesterday morning. Afterward Rusk called in the British, French and West German envoys for an unscheduled two-hour meeting.

Officials said the Allies were united on the essentials of the answer which will reject Soviet attempts to infringe on Western rights to stay in Berlin and protect the freedom of its 2,500,000 citizens from Communist pressure.

The answer will leave the door open to negotiation. It is expected that the reply will contain some of the elements of the Western peace plan for Berlin put forward by the Western foreign ministers in negotiations with the Russians at Geneva in May 1959.

ULBRICHT ECHOES
SOVIET DEMANDS

BERLIN, July 6 (AP)—Walter Ulbricht, East German Communist leader, vowed today to put an end to West Berlin "as a stronghold of the cold war" when he gets a peace treaty with Russia.

Premier Khrushchev has promised him one by the end of the year.

Ulbricht has made clear in the past that he wants full control over land and air routes to Berlin. He also has said he will insist on the closing of the big reception center at Marienfelde.

BARNES CLAIMS
200 BURGLARIES
IN 5 1/2 MONTHS

Crimes Followed Release for Turning Over Plates of Prison Counterfeiters.

Robert Earl Barnes has told authorities he committed about 200 burglaries in St. Louis and St. Louis county in the five and a half months since his release from the state penitentiary, police reported today.

Barnes was freed last Jan. 7 after having his 15-year sentence for burglary, larceny and passing bogus checks commuted by then Gov. James T. Blair Jr. Gov. Blair commuted the sentence when Barnes turned over to Prison Warden E. V. Nash a set of plates used in the penitentiary to print counterfeit $10 bills.

Since his most recent arrest, last Friday, the 27-year-old Barnes has been pointing out to the police places he broke into and furnishing information as to where he disposed of much of the loot.

Among the 200 burglaries Barnes claims to have committed, 36 were of residences in southwest St. Louis, police said. Others were in north St. Louis. Barnes said he committed more burglaries in the county than in the city.

Two Deputies Fired.

As a result of statements Barnes made to Circuit Attorney Daniel P. Reardon Jr., two deputy sheriffs were fired yesterday by Sheriff Martin Tozer. Sheriff Tozer said the information furnished by Barnes showed that the two deputies were involved in transactions with the burglar.

The two who were dismissed are John Stevens, chief criminal deputy, and Adrian Beckerle, a deputy assigned to the Municipal Courts Building.

Reardon said there was no evidence linking Barnes with any other deputies, but that Barnes would be questioned further about how he disposed of the thousands of dollars in burglary loot. He has admitted stealing fur, jewelry, household appliances, shotguns, typewriters, radios and television sets.

Barnes succeeded in securing his release from prison 18 months before he was eligible for parole consideration by offering Warden Nash engravings from what the prisoner described as an enormous counterfeiting ring operating in the prison printing shop.

Prison authorities already had turned up one bogus $10 bill and were investigating the counterfeiting operation. After Barnes

Too-Cautious, Distracted, Irrate Drivers Called Accident-Prone

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—A driver distracted by noisy children, a teen-age motorist irritated by another driver and overly cautious persons are among the more accident-prone motorists, a Northwestern University traffic institute study indicates.

The paper, prepared by Dr. Mary F. Young of Downey Veterans Administration Hospital, was read yesterday at the fortieth anniversary meeting of

RUSSIA ACCUSES
U.S. OF BUZZING
SHIPS 300 TIMES

MOSCOW, July 6 (UPI)—The Soviet Union charged today that American planes buzzed Russian ships 300 times in acts of "high seas piracy."

The official Soviet trades union newspaper Trud said several of these incidents took place near Cuba and charged that "nearly all Soviet ships off Cuban shores are subjected to such provocations."

Trud said the "piratic sorties" are made from bases located outside the United States, including those in Spain, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Among the few details Trud offered was that an American hydroplane carrying the number 0144 circled over the Soviet ship I. Sechenov near Havana, a United States destroyer numbered 837 came "impermissibly close" to the ship, and another hydroplane numbered 128387 dived at its deck at 4 a.m. July 2.

In Washington, the State Department rejected the Soviet complaint on the buzzing of ships.

Press officer Lincoln White said, "We've heard such complaints before."

FIREMAN TAKES THROTTLE, TRAIN
HITS WIFE'S AUTO

SALEM, Va., July 6 (UPI)—Railroad fireman E. O. Howard took the controls of a Norfolk and Western freight train yesterday when it rolled through this Roanoke (Va.) suburb. He had no special reason for doing it, other than to give the engineer a rest.

The train moved slowly across a series of rail crossings in the city. When an automobile moved onto the tracks at one of the crossings the train's momentum prevented a quick stop. The train struck the car while Howard held the brake.

Only one person was in the automobile—Howard's wife. She was taken to a hospital in serious condition.

Police were investigating the case today.

SQUATTERS, FARMERS CLASH

CURITIBA, Brazil, July 6 (UPI)—Heavy military reinforcements were rushed to the Argentine border town of Medianeira yesterday following two clashes between farmers and squatters in which five persons were killed and four others wounded.

The casualties included four soldiers killed and four wounded. The army imposed martial law in the area to halt the disorders. Police said professional agitators were behind the rioting, which started three days ago when squatters attempted forcible seizure of lots owned by the Alto Parana Land Co.

HOFFA VOICES
RIVAL TO AFL-CIO

Gives Labor Body 18 Months to Readmit Teamsters Union—Assails Meany.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., July 6 (AP)—James R. Hoffa threatened today to start a rival union labor federation unless the AFL-CIO readmits the Teamsters Union within 18 months.

The Teamsters president said he had talked with practically all AFL-CIO chiefs and they want him back—all except AFL-CIO president George Meany, whom Hoffa called "a thick-headed Irishman."

Hoffa said he is sure even his Detroit rival, auto workers president Walter Reuther, favors canceling the Teamsters' three-year-old expulsion on corruption charges.

Could Work With Both.

Hoffa said he could work with both Meany and Reuther despite personality conflicts to bring all unions into one federation.

In Detroit Reuther was asked about a report that National Maritime Union president Joseph Curran told the Teamsters that Reuther was willing to have the Teamsters return to the AFL-CIO.

"Obviously I would like to see a unified labor movement but it would have to be on the basis of all organizations which belong being willing to accept the standards of trade union morality," Reuther said.

He added: "Under no circumstances would I take the Teamsters back carte blanche."

A dues increase and broad new powers approved yesterday helped Hoffa to consolidate his control over the Teamsters. He dealt his opposition a series of setbacks. These apparently removed the only obstacle blocking his way to a new five-year term as union president.

Hoffa's biggest triumph was convention approval of a yearly increase of $12,000,000 in dues.

U.S. ENDS FISCAL YEAR WITH RECORD-HIGH DEBT

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Government wound up its bookkeeping year with the federal debt at $289,211,154,060.05, the highest level of any fiscal year-end in history.

The daily Treasury statement for June 30, issued today, showed that the debt climbed about $2,700,000,000 from a year ago, because of higher spending and less-than-anticipated revenues.

Because of various factors, the debt rise does not reflect accurately the excess of spending over revenues, expected to be about three billion dollars.

The precise deficit figure is expected to be available within a few days.

BRITISH REQUEST
ALL NATIONS TO RESPECT KUWAIT
RIGHT TO LIBERTY

Offer Resolution in U.N. for Appeal and Welcome Effort by Arab League to Resolve Dispute.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 6 (AP)—Britain submitted a resolution to the United Nations Security Council today calling on all states to respect the "independence and territorial integrity of Kuwait."

The resolution was presented as the council met for another round of debate on the situation in the oil-rich desert sheikdom, which says its independence is threatened by neighboring Iraq.

The resolution urged all concerned to work for peace and tranquility in the area. It would have the council agree to keep the situation under review.

The resolution would have the Council take note of the fact that Britain had sent troops to Kuwait after an appeal by its ruler, and that Britain will withdraw the forces "as soon as the ruler considers the threat to Kuwait is removed."

It also takes note of statements by Iraq that it will employ only peaceful means "in pursuance of its policy," and welcomes a "constructive steps which may be taken by the Arab League" to resolve the dispute.

RUSSIA AND U.A.R. SUPPORTING IRAQ

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 6—Russia, the United Arab Republic and Iraq all demanded that Britain withdraw its troops from the sheikdom of Kuwait, as the Security Council continued its consideration of the situation late yesterday.

No one expects Britain to accede to these demands until the threat by Iraq to take over Kuwait subsides. A representative of Kuwait repeated what the British had said last Sunday at the first Security Council meeting on the situation—that British troops would be withdrawn when the threat was over.

Kuwait Clarifies Position.

(A Kuwait spokesman told a press conference today that his country will not agree to the withdrawal of British troops until the United Nations gives it "good and strong guarantees" that its independence will be respected, United Press International said.)

(Abdel Azziz Hussein, director of education who came here to press Kuwait's complaint, made clear that a pledge from Iraq not to use force in the current crisis would not be sufficient to ally forces that Iraq would try to overwhelm Kuwait.)

(He said admission of Kuwait to the United Nations as a member nation and withdrawal of Iraqi claims to Kuwait are prime conditions for any request for the British to withdraw their armed forces.)

"(We want a resolution from the Council recognizing that Kuwait is an independent country and that the claim of Iraq to Kuwait has no basis," he declared.)

Britain ended its protectorate over Kuwait last month but

OFFICER ACCUSED OF ROBBERIES
HE INVESTIGATED

BANNING, Calif., July 6 (AP)—Former police Patrolman Thomas M. Every is in jail, accused of committing robberies and then investigating them himself.

Every, 27 years old, was arrested yesterday and charged with six counts of armed robbery. He had been on the Banning force three years when he was fired last Jan. 10 for an undisclosed reason.

Police Chief Harry Moore said Every admitted six robberies, using this method: When he decided to rob a store, Every would park his police car several blocks away, change from his policeman's uniform into old clothes, rob the store, return to the police car and again change clothes.

When radio instructions came for Every to investigate the robbery, he would return to the scene and make an official investigation.

Said Chief Moore: "This was a tough case to crack because he knew everything we did." He did not say how police happened to catch Every.

Slips Into 4 Feet of Water—Fully-Clothed Woman Pulls Her Out.

By JAMES DEAKIN
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6—Three-year-old Caroline Kennedy was pulled last Thursday from a swimming pool, where the water was over her head, by Mrs. William Saltonstall, who leaped into the pool fully clothed to make the rescue.

The President's daughter, who cannot swim, was not hurt or frightened by the incident but did express surprise, as one Washington newspaper reported today, that Mrs. Saltonstall was "in the pool with all her clothes on."

FORECLOSURES
50 PCT. INCREASE

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—The Government today reported a definite increase in mortgage foreclosures on nonfarm houses in the first three months of 1961.

The Federal Home Loan Bank board reported 16,891 foreclosures, up roughly 50 per cent from the first quarter of 1960.

The 1960-61 recession, which reached its low point in February, was believed to be the major cause of the sharp increase.

In 1960, the board said, the rate of foreclosures per 1000 mortgaged homes rose to 2.65, compared to 2.34 in 1959. The 1960 rate was the highest in 10 years.

The board said the recent level of foreclosures falls far below the levels of the depression of the 1930s. Even as late as the first quarter of 1940, there were 18,695 foreclosures and in earlier depression years the level was several times higher.

TWO KISS FREEDOM GOODBY

ROME, July 6 (AP)—A good-bye kiss has put Vittorio Graziani and Angelina Rosi in jail for two months. They exchanged the kiss on Piazza Ungheria last August. A policeman arrested them on a charge of acting in an obscene manner in public. A court agreed Tuesday that the kiss was too prolonged and ardent and imposed the jail sentence.

Farmer Garst Is Accused by Red Press of Underpaying Hired Men

MOSCOW, July 6 (AP)—Iowa corn farmer Roswell Garst, once regarded as a warm friend of Nikita Khrushchev, is being described in the Soviet press as a man who underpays his hired hands. And some of his political ideas were called "somewhat naive."

This portrait of Garst was written for the official newspaper Rural Life by A. Romanov, one of the Soviet journalists who recently toured the United States at the invitation of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. After a visit to the Garst farm, Romanov wrote:

"On his 5000 acres of land he employs 20 men, who know well how to handle farm machinery and are real masters in their trade."

"He does not pay them much: $1.10 an hour on weekdays and $1.70 on Sundays."

Romanov approvingly noted that Garst called the arms race a "world craze" but he added: "Some of his views as, for example, the idea of dividing the world into literate and illiterate, rang somewhat naive."

In Coon Rapids, Ia., Garst called Romanov a "three-hour expert." He recalled that Romanov visited the farm last May 14. "He stayed about three hours," Garst said, "and then went home and wrote about our operations. That would be like me going to the Soviet Union, staying three hours, and writing all about Russia—full of inaccuracies."

U.S. SURPRISED; POSSIBILITY OF SOVIET-CHINESE
RIFT CONSIDERED

Impact on Berlin Also Studied—Moscow Gives Seoul Threat, West's Intransigence as Reasons.

MOSCOW, July 6 (AP)—Premier Khrushchev announced today the Soviet Union has signed a mutual defense treaty with Communist North Korea, and pictured it as necessary because of Western resistance to easing world tensions.

The Soviet leader, in a long speech, said the treaty was aimed at countering "a growing threat" of aggression from South Korea, but he also pictured the East-West quarrel over the future of West Berlin as a factor.

(Official Washington, reportedly surprised by the announcement of the pact, studied it for the possibility that it reflected a deepening rift between Moscow and Red China, and also for indications of a possible bearing on Khrushchev's maneuvers regarding Berlin.)

Premier's Explanation.

The treaty, Khrushchev said, provides for mutual aid in the event of an armed attack on either the Soviet Union or North Korea.

He said the recent coup in South Korea establishing a "regime of open military-fascist dictatorship" poses a threat and he considered it his duty to "warn the aggressive forces that if an attack is made on the (North) Korean Democratic Republic, then the Soviet Union will look upon this attack as an attack upon itself."

"We, of course, are not in favor of military agreements," Khrushchev said in his speech to a Soviet-North Korean friendship meeting in Moscow. "But we had to sign this treaty of a defensive nature because the governments of the United States, Japan and other powers have turned down all our proposals toward the relaxation of tensions and insuring security in the area of the Far East."

His Reference to Berlin.

Khrushchev also brought up Berlin in this connection. He said the Communist nations want peace, and added:

"But it must not be overlooked that the ruling circles of the Western powers do not want a relaxation of international tension and seek to delay the solution of pressing international problems. This applies above all to the problems left unsettled from the last war. Especially alarming is the fact that there still is no German peace treaty."

Khrushchev then said the Soviet stand on the German question remains unchanged. He has said Moscow will sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany and thus "normalize" West Berlin, an isolated enclave 110 miles inside Communist territory. The West contends it will not surrender its rights of access to West Berlin.

The Premier's speech, however, roamed over all corners of the globe in support of his contention that the Communist movement is marching toward world supremacy. He appealed for tight unity of the entire world Communist camp.

Red China's Role.

Publication of the North Korean-Soviet treaty in itself raised speculation in Moscow that the Soviet Union has replaced Communist China as chief protector of North Korea. The Chinese Communists sent "volunteers" to intervene in the Korean War. But Premier Kim Il-sung of North Korea, on hand for today's ceremonies, made a point of mentioning that all the Red Chinese "volunteers" had gone, while United States forces remain in South Korea. Forces in South Korea are predominantly American.

U.S. GOING AHEAD WITH MONGOLIA RECOGNITION IN SPITE OF CHIANG

Ready to Ignore Wrath of Formosa President in Starting Relations With Red-Sponsored Area.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—The Kennedy Administration was reported today to ignore the wrath of Nationalist China and establish diplomatic relations with the Soviet-sponsored Mongolian People's Republic.

Official sources said preparations were being made to send a United States mission to the capital, Ulan Bator, to agree on the level of representation in each country.

The United States decision is expected to encounter criticism from some Congressmen who back Nationalist China's contention that Communist Outer Mongolia is territory rightly belonging to the Chinese.

The United States ambassador to Nationalist China, Everett Drumright, who left Taipei today for consultations in Washington, has urged the State Department repeatedly to delay action.

He has reported that his relations with President Chiang Kai-shek have become almost impossible because of tension on the Mongolian issue and Nationalist resentment at the possibility of Red China's admission to the United Nations.

The question of possible United States relations with Outer Mongolia stems from Russia's refusal at the last United Nations General Assembly to agree to admit the new African nation of Mauritania unless Outer Mongolia was admitted.

The United States, which consistently has opposed Mongolia's entry, agreed to investigate whether the territory was really sovereign and able to assume international obligations.

The minister of the United States embassy in Moscow, Edwin M. Freers, conferred with the Mongolian ambassador there and the result was a decision to establish relations.

The State Department still is split on the move, but President Kennedy apparently supported a group, headed by Under Secretary Chester Bowles, who urged the step as a way to get a listening post in Communist Asia.

Nationalist China's Foreign Minister Shen Chang-huan has said Nationalist China will use its veto in the U.N. Security Council to block Outer Mongolia's admission.

Vice President Chen Cheng has gone a step farther in saying that Nationalist China will leave the United Nations if Outer Mongolia is accepted.

The Chinese Nationalists regard the United States talks with Outer Mongolia as an indication that the firm stand by the United States against mainland China also may be weakening. United States officials consider this suspicion unjustified.

A suspicion was evident in Formosa that Washington's policy might be tending toward a diplomatic concept of two Chinas, one an independent Formosa ruled by the Chinese Nationalists and the other the mainland ruled by Mao Tse-tung.

Nationalist and Communist China, which disagree on almost everything else, are equally adamant against any such concept.

U.S. Reported Shelving Two-Seat China Plan.

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—The United States Government has shelved a plan to seat both Red China and Nationalist China in the United Nations, the Sun-News said today.

"United States authorities are saying 'premature publicity' prompted the President and (Secretary of State Dean) Rusk to put the plan in mothballs," the newspaper said. A Sun-News dispatch from Washington June 23 said the United States Government was considering such a plan.

Frederick Kuh, of the Sun-News Washington bureau, said in today's dispatch that "the State Department christened it 'the successor state theory.' This postulated that instead of the old single China there are now two successors: Communist China on the mainland and the Nationalist regime on Taiwan (Formosa)."

"Under the successor state plan, China's one seat in the United Nations would be split in two. Nationalist China would retain its seats in the U.N. Security Council and the (General) Assembly. Communist China would be granted a seat only in the Assembly, for which it would have to apply to the Assembly's credential committee," the newspaper said.

"The whole move was designed for two purposes: (1) To keep Nationalist China in the United Nations. (2) To jockey a formula which would jockey Communist China into refusing to enter the U.N."

Kuh said the President faced mounting opposition from Republicans and conservative Democrats concerning what they regarded as a plot to admit Red China to the U.N. assembly.

Algerian Rioters Under Arrest

Algerians Are Back at Work After Strike; 80 Dead, 300 Hurt

ALGIERS, July 6 (AP)—Most of Algeria's Moslems returned to work today after a 24-hour general strike and riots in which French forces killed 80 Moslems and wounded about 300.

Some tension remained in outlying areas where Moslems were burying their dead. Troops in yesterday's trouble spots remained on the alert.

The French reported six of their men dead and 20 wounded after the violence yesterday.

(United Press International said French soldiers and police used tear gas today to head off trouble at a Moslem funeral at nearby Kolea. Later, police used tear gas at Constantine, where 20,000 Moslems turned out for the funeral of two persons. Rebel assailants opened fire on the mourners, three of whom were reported wounded.)

90 Per Cent Effective.

The 24-hour strike, called by the Algerian rebel leaders to protest against President De Gaulle's threat to partition Algeria into European and Moslem enclaves, was 90 per cent effective.

There were demonstrations of support in neighboring Tunisia and Morocco. Ferhat Abbas, head of the rebel exile government, told a crowd of Moroccans in Casablanca:

"Algeria is one and indivisible. It is not a gruyere cheese which can be carved up."

Chances Dimmed.

A high French official in Algiers admitted the disorders hardly contribute to chances of peaceful co-existence between Algeria's 9,000,000 Moslems and 1,000,000 Europeans or to association of an independent Algeria with France.

De Gaulle threatened last week to partition Algeria if no agreement on Algeria's future talks with France is reached. Before yesterday's violence French officials said peace talks between the French and the rebels, suspended since June 13, probably would be resumed next week.

Yesterday's demonstration was one of the most powerful displays of pro-rebel feeling among Algeria's Moslems since the rebellion broke out nearly seven years ago. French officials conceded it showed virtually complete Moslem support for independence from France.

Increased Bitterness.

The bloody repression of the rioters put France in an awkward position and increased tension and bitterness among the Moslem populace.

The chief government spokesman, Jacques Coup de Prejac, accused the rebels of hypocrisy.

RACKETEERS ARE SUBPENAED FOR SENATE INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senators planning a massive investigation of coast-to-coast racketeering reported today they quietly are issuing subpoenas for big-shot gamblers, narcotics and white slavery mobsters.

Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, chairman of the Senate investigations subcommittee, announced previously such an inquiry was getting under way. He has declined to identify any of those about whom the inquiry will center.

The subcommittee has had a great deal of experience with witnesses making sudden trips outside the country once word gets out that they are under investigation.

SOUTH VIET NAM TO FREE 583 POLITICAL PRISONERS

SAIGON, July 6 (AP)—The South Viet Nam government says it will release 583 political prisoners in honor of the celebration tomorrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem's seventh year in office.

Critics of the government charge that as many as 40,000 persons are being held as political prisoners. Government sources say that several thousand only are held, the bulk of them for Communist activities. Critics charge that many are in custody for non-Communist activities opposing Diem's regime.

in pushing "irresponsible persons, frequently women and children" into the French line of fire.

Hunger Strike.

Algerian prisoners in France started a hunger strike in protest against the shooting. The French National Assembly suspended business for a moment's silence as a tribute to the dead.

The French army in Algeria, already shaken by purges and trials that followed the abortive mutiny against De Gaulle's government last April, expressed a bitterness that alarmed civilian officials.

Many officers blamed the demonstrations on the government's unilateral cease-fire order. They said rebel guerrillas have been able to regroup and reorganize in a number of areas because of the army's inactivity. A French spokesman said 14 of the Moslem dead were rebel soldiers in uniform.

The government called a halt last month to the anti-rebel offensive at the start of the peace talks at Evian-les-Bains. The rebels rejected the order as a propaganda move and vowed to fight on.

Yesterday's violence sharpened the apprehensions of Algeria's Europeans, who fear they will suffer at the hands of the Moslems should France ever pull out of Algeria.

There were demonstrations of support in neighboring Tunisia and Morocco. Ferhat Abbas, head of the rebel exile government, told a crowd of Moroccans in Casablanca:

Chances Dimmed.

SAN MARINO WILL GET $224,000 FOR ONE BOMBING RAID

SAN MARINO, July 6 (AP)—The little Republic of San Marino, at peace since before the Middle Ages, agreed yesterday to accept $224,000 ($224,000) from Britain for one day of war damage.

After 16 years of haggling with London, the San Marino Grand Council (parliament) voted 32 to 17 to accept the British offer.

Communist and Socialist members voted no.

San Marino, 38 square miles and with 15,000 citizens, lies in the Apennine mountains of east central Italy near Rimini. It claims to be the oldest republic in Europe, dating from the fourth century.

Royal Air Force bombers blasted the republic June 26, 1944, killing 59 residents and causing extensive damage. The bombing presumably was a mistake because San Marino was at war with no one.

Britain had offered the same award right after World War II. The Grand Council rejected it then as "a ridiculous offer."

U.S. FILES TWO VOTER BIAS SUITS IN MISSISSIPPI

First Cases in State Charge Discrimination Against Negroes by Poll Registrars.

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy today filed two suits in Mississippi charging discrimination against eligible Negro voters in Clarke and Forrest counties.

The suits, brought under the 1957 and 1960 civil rights acts, named the state and the registrars of the two counties as defendants. They are the first voting rights actions in Mississippi. Similar actions have been brought in Louisiana, Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee.

In Jackson, Gov. Ross Barnett said, "I don't understand why they want to interfere with local self-government. Local self-government is the thing that made this nation great."

Other Voting Actions.

Department of Justice officials said other voting rights investigations are pending "in a number of additional Mississippi counties."

Concerning the suits involving Clarke and Forrest counties, the Attorney General said:

"Our investigations have disclosed a clear-cut pattern of discrimination. We made the basic facts of our investigations available to the state and local officials concerned and have attempted to prevail upon them to remedy the situation themselves."

"These suits were filed today because the situation has not been rectified nor are there assurances that it ever will be rectified by local action."

The key provision of the 1957 civil rights act gives the Justice Department authority to seek federal court injunctions to enforce the right of every citizen to vote, regardless of race.

Appointment of Referees.

The 1960 act provides for appointment by federal judges of referees empowered to determine voting qualifications of Negroes turned down by local registrars.

They could be appointed only in areas where the Justice Department, acting under the 1957 act, had won a suit for a federal court order requiring registration of one Negro or more.

Last Five Major Appropriation Bills Are Signed by Gov. Dalton

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 6—The last five major appropriation bills to provide operational funds for the various departments and agencies of the state government during the 1961-63 biennium, which started July 1, were signed today by Gov. John M. Dalton. They became effective immediately.

Allotments authorized in appropriation measures signed so far by the Governor, including those approved today, total $1,233,826,662, an increase of $38,000,000 over appropriations for the two-year period ended last Friday.

Still awaiting Dalton's approval are two money bills. One of these, as passed by the Legislature, would provide $22,428,903 for capital improvements. The other is the omnibus appropriation bill allocating slightly more than $11,000,000.

Dalton indicated to reporters he probably will make some changes in both the remaining bills. He made only four minor changes in the measures providing major operational funds, reducing four allotments by a total of $139,198.

Followed Recommendations.

It was the first time veteran Capitol observers could recall that a Governor of the state had not made substantial changes in operational funds. One reason for this was that the appropriations approved by the General Assembly closely followed the governors' budget recommendations.

Another reason was that the unencumbered balance in the state treasury at the end of the last biennium, June 30, was $7,000,000 greater than had originally been expected. The balance was $27,000,000.

Dalton said he was "pleasantly surprised" when he found out that the balance on hand was greater than had been anticipated last January. He said it had been caused primarily from a sharp increase in the last two months in state income tax collections.

He said he thought enactment of the withholding system for collection of the state income tax, which went into effect last Saturday, and realization by the people that they were going to have the tax withheld caused many persons to pay up.

Dalton estimated on the basis of anticipated revenues, including tax increases enacted at his request and tightening of collection procedures, that the state will end the current biennium on June 30, 1963, with a treasury balance of $15,060,000.

Major allotments provided in the appropriation bills are: Public schools, $257,060,827, an increase of $77,517,278 over the last two years. This includes $229,000,000 to fully finance the school foundation program.

State universities and colleges, $66,198,906, an increase of $13,364,037. Dalton said the increase of about 25 per cent is needed to accommodate increasing enrollment and maintain quality of instruction.

Highways, $380,328,646, an increase of $75,328,646 over estimated expenditures of the State Highway Department during the last two-year period. About $110,000,000 of this is federal funds.

Public welfare, $298,731,684, the bulk of which is in federal funds. This is an increased allotment of $8,626,375.

Division of Mental Diseases, $54,053,686, an increase of $3,208,145. The Governor said the legislature approved amounts he had recommended for each of the seven institutions under control of the division and also voted a lump sum of $2,400,000 for use in any of the institutions when the division can find new trained personnel or can expand its services.

Dalton said the allotment for the division of mental diseases "will allow a good start on the 10-year mental health improvement program."

Elected officials, judiciary and legislature, $14,437,065, an increase of $1,343,883.

Correctional institutions, $14,748,108, an increase of $1,100,397. Conservation and recreation, $13,020,275, an increase of $2,127,789.

Health program, $22,505,617, an increase of $1,170,529.

A bill increasing retirement benefits of state employees 20 per cent and of Missouri legislators 150 per cent was signed yesterday by Dalton. It will take effect Oct. 13.

Under the recently enacted law, the average pension paid general state employees will be increased from about $28 to $32.60 a month.

HOUSING OFFERED IN WASHINGTON TO NEGRO DIPLOMATS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Several Washington real estate owners offered today to open large luxury apartment buildings to Negro diplomats in response to an appeal from President Kennedy.

Harris Wofford, special assistant to the President, conveyed Mr. Kennedy's views to a closed meeting of Washington real estate leaders called by the State Department to curb housing discrimination against African diplomats in the nation's capital.

Mr. Kennedy's protocol chief, Angier Biddle Duke, reported that the real estate owners had shown a "most co-operative and positive attitude" toward easing the discrimination, which Mr. Kennedy believes is giving the United States a bad name around the world.

Tighe E. Woods, former federal housing expediter who now heads a diplomatic housing committee for the Washington Real Estate Board, named three downtown apartment buildings in good locations which he said he would lease to African diplomats. He said other promises were made at the closed session, but did not specify them.

SUITS IN BOSTON PLANE CRASH REACH $2,500,000

BOSTON, July 6 (UPI)—Damage suits totaling $2,500,000 have been filed against the Federal Government, airlines and aircraft firms as a result of an Eastern Air Lines crash in Boston Harbor last Oct. 4.

The widows of four victims filed suits totaling $1,200,000 yesterday in federal district court. Previously five other widows sued for a total of $1,300,000.

The suits name the Government, Eastern Air Lines, Lockheed Aircraft Corp., builder of the Electra, and General Motors Corp., builder of the plane's turbo-prop engines. Birds were sucked into the engine air intakes on takeoff, just before the crash.

more generous to its own members covered by the pension system. In revising the plan, it provided that the retirement benefit of any legislator who serves six years or more in the General Assembly will be increased from $10 to $25 a month for each two years of service in the Legislature.

However, the maximum benefit any legislator might receive on retirement, regardless of length of service, would be two thirds of his $400-a-month base pay, or $266.66 a month.

OZARKS PARK OPPONENTS AND BACKERS CLASH IN WASHINGTON

Leo Drey, Large Landowner, Criticizes U.S. Acquisition of Big Tracts of Land Along Rivers.

By THOMAS W. OTTENAD
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6—Supporters and opponents of a bill establishing a new national recreational area in the Missouri Ozarks as part of the national park system clashed at a congressional hearing today.

The proposal won strong support from the state of Missouri, members of the Missouri delegation in Congress, the Agriculture and Interior Departments and others.

Principal opposition came from Leo Drey of St. Louis, a large landowner whose property would be affected by the proposed development, and the American Forestry Association. A minor amendment to the proposal to make sure it would not prohibit a contemplated water reservoir project in Arkansas was suggested by Senator J. William Fulbright (Dem.), Arkansas.

The measure under consideration by a Senate subcommittee on public lands would authorize the Department of the Interior to acquire 113,000 acres of land along the Current, Jack's Fork and Eleven Point rivers and place the area under jurisdiction of the National Park Service as the Ozark rivers national monument. The bill was introduced by Senators Stuart Symington and Edward V. Long and Representative Richard H. Ichord. All are Missouri Democrats.

Curtis Measure. Also pending is a rival proposal introduced by Representative Thomas B. Curtis (Rep.), Webster Groves, for a somewhat different development of the area by the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture. There was no disagreement among those testifying as to the objective of preserving the unspoiled natural beauty of the wild Ozark countryside. The principal difference was over the form the project should take and which agency should carry it out.

Drey supported Curtis' bill, arguing that the Forest Service "would be better able to preserve the natural beauty of these streams with the least possible damage to their fragile nature and the least possible disruption of the lives of the region's inhabitants, and yet at a savings in public funds."

He said that the plan contemplated by the Park Service through attracting large numbers of visitors would destroy the very wilderness values it seeks to preserve.

Would Buy Little Land. In place of the purchase of lands contemplated under the Park Service plan, Drey favored the Curtis bill under which the Forest Service would acquire only relatively little land, leaving most of it in the hands of private owners. Easements and other methods would be used to protect the streams from undesirable uses.

Drey suggested that under the Curtis plan lakes might be created on small tributary streams, thus relieving the major rivers of some of the pressures for recreational use. The Forest Service program would encourage timber production, thus improving economic conditions in the area, he added.

Drey said he owns about 135,000 acres of Missouri Ozark timberland. One-tenth of this lies within the boundaries of the proposed monument. He said he hopes to make an eventual profit from lumbering operations on the land although in the meantime he is attempting to improve the land through proper management practices.

Under questioning by Senator Lee Metcalf (Dem.), Montana, Drey agreed it would be possible for the National Park Service plan and a Forest Service development to be carried out simultaneously. Under this approach the Forest Service would have responsibility for protecting lands in the watersheds of the three streams but presum-

Shipment to City Hall

Business machines for high-speed electronic calculation being lifted into second floor window at City Hall yesterday.

NEW ELECTRONIC DEVICES TO SPEED MUNICIPAL WORK

A new set of electronic business machines arrived at City Hall yesterday and was hoisted in through a window. This proved to be simpler and more convenient than sliding the pieces up stairways on boards, as was done when similar equipment was brought in four years ago.

One of the first jobs to be done on the new electronic equipment will be the printing of payroll checks. It will take three to four hours to do what has taken three women about 10 days to do in the past.

Comptroller John H. Poelker plans to use the machines for real estate tax bills, building inspection statistics and a new accounting system for the health and hospital divisions.

The machines are rented at a cost of $36,000 a year, which covers servicing.

ably the streams and the area included in the monument would remain under the National Park Service.

Drey made it plain, however, that he was opposed to bringing the Park Service into the area.

Plan Not Supported. Observers felt that much of the impact of the Curtis plan was lessened by the failure of the Agriculture Department to support it, despite the fact that the Forest Service is part of the department.

George A. Selke, assistant to the Secretary of Agriculture, endorsed the Park Service proposal. He said that since only 3000 acres of federally owned forest lands would be taken over by the monument, officials of the Agriculture Department felt it would be "selfish" to oppose placing the monument under the Park Service.

"Our loss of 3000 acres is not important compared with the gains that would be realized by making 113,000 acres available for public recreation use," he told the subcommittee.

Fulbright warned the subcommittee that the pending Symington-Long-Ichord bill would preclude construction of the proposed Water Valley Reservoir project on the Eleven Point river near Pocahontas, Ark.

He suggested an amendment specifying that establishment of the Ozark monument would not prohibit construction of the reservoir. The reservoir would extend up to a maximum of six miles inside the proposed monument boundaries on the Eleven Point river, he estimated. He said this impingement might be reduced through selection of a reservoir site farther down stream.

Expects Agreement. Symington told the Post-Dispatch he was "entirely confident" that he and Fulbright could reach a mutually satisfactory agreement. He pointed out that the Arkansas project is only in the study stage. It has been stymied by local opposition since it was authorized in 1938.

The Park Service plan was strongly endorsed in a statement from Missouri Gov. John M. Dalton, read by Joseph Jaeger Jr., director of the State Park Board. Jaeger said: "It is the reasoned decision of the state of Missouri that this plan can best serve the national objectives desired, not only by a majority of Missourians, but by citizens of this nation as well."

Summerfield Leaves Hospital. ROGERS CITY, Mich., July 6 (UPI)—Attendants at Rogers City Hospital reported that former Postmaster General Arthur E. THREE ROBBED, AFFTON SAVINGS OFFICE ROBBER GETS 15 YEARS

Two Hotel Clerks, Oil Station Attendant Accosted by Intruder in Brown Suit.

Two St. Louis hotel clerks and an East Side gasoline station attendant were held up and robbed early today, apparently by the same neatly dressed young man, police reported.

The first holdup was reported at 2 a.m. by James O'Donnell, night clerk at the Adolphus Hotel, 5004 Delmar boulevard. O'Donnell said he was robbed of $43 by a man wearing a brown suit, white shirt and necktie, who held a hand in his coat pocket as if concealing a revolver. The man demanded "all the money" and cautioned O'Donnell to "wait two minutes after I leave."

About 4:30 a.m., Harry Block, clerk at the Belcher Hotel, 407 Lucas avenue, was held up by a man answering the same description, who held a hand in a coat pocket. He stole $35 and fled.

An hour later Bobby Hartline, attendant at a service station at Sixteenth street and Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, was accosted by a man in a brown suit, white shirt and tie, who held one hand in a coat pocket and demanded cash. The robber stole $25 and fled in a car driven by a second man, Hartline reported.

Mrs. Leonard Mastorakos, 8230 Marvale lane, Affton, suffered a fractured nose when she was knocked down and robbed by a man in a passageway at Barnes Hospital last night.

Mrs. Mastorakos, who was visiting her husband, a patient in the hospital, said she was seized from behind by the man, who grabbed her hair and shoved her to the floor. The robber, a Negro, fled with her purse, containing $15. Mrs. Mastorakos was admitted to the hospital.

Lawrence McIrvine, attendant at a gasoline station at 3002 North Florissant avenue, was held up early today by three young men, one armed with a revolver. The robbers stole $25 in currency and McIrvine's coin changer, and fled in an automobile.

The automobile was abandoned later at Twentieth and Dodier streets. A check of the license number showed the car had been stolen, police reported.

MERCHANTS EXCHANGE POST

Addison H. Douglass, 401 Westrick place, Kirkwood, has been elected second vice president of the St. Louis Merchants Exchange for the rest of the year, succeeding the late George L. Sparks, it was announced today.

Douglass, assistant vice president and southern regional manager of Cargill, Inc., 5100 Oakland avenue, was formerly a director of the exchange.

Lloyd Weston Sentenced—His Accomplice, Frank E. Cook, Gets 8 Years.

Lloyd Weston and his nephew, Frank E. Cook, were sentenced today to 15 and eight years in prison, respectively, by United States District Judge George H. Moore for the armed robbery of the Reliance Federal Savings and Loan Association, 8930 Gravois road, Affton, last June 12.

Both men had pleaded guilty of the robbery in which $2030 was stolen and several employees were threatened. The men were arrested in an apartment they shared in the 3400 block of Seth avenue, Gardenville, an hour after the robbery. They were traced through the license number of the automobile in which they fled.

Judge Moore directed that Cook, 47 years old, be given consideration for parole after he has served two years of his sentence. Normally, a prisoner must serve at least one-third of his term before becoming eligible for parole.

Refused to Accept Loot. In the discussion that preceded the sentencing, Cook told the court he had refused to accept any of the loot.

When asked why he had taken part in the holdup, Cook replied that Weston had chided him over the financial help Weston had given Cook and the latter's wife.

"He (Weston) said I didn't have the guts to help him," Cook related. "He said he and my aunt would lose their home and be thrown out on the streets if I didn't help him get some money." Cook conceded that Weston had helped the younger pair.

In his testimony Weston denied that he had a weapon during the holdup.

Weston also told the court that $25 had been found in Cook's wallet and $600 in a coat belonging to Cook after the pair was arrested.

Said Coat Was Not His. Cook, in turn, insisted Weston had put the money in Cook's wallet. He also said the coat in which the $600 had been found belonged to a relative of Weston and not to him.

Court records show that the 65-year-old Weston had been fined $500 by Judge Moore in 1952 for failure to pay federal admission taxes on a show he promoted.

Assistant United States Attorney W. Francis Murrell dismissed an additional charge against Weston of holding up the savings and loan association on a previous occasion. Weston had denied the holdup.

Killed by Hay Unloader. FLEMINGTON, N.J., July 6 (AP)—Shirley Ecker, 17 years old, was fatally injured yesterday when she was caught on the blades of an automatic hay unloader and pulled into the machine.

County Council Gets Third Plan For Legislature Redistricting

Democrats Expected to Be Able to Win 9 of 14 Seats—Broader Range of Population.

A third plan for division of St. Louis county into 14 state representative districts, instead of the present nine, was presented to the County Council yesterday.

It was generally agreed that Democrats, holding six of the nine seats, can win at least nine of the 14 under the new allotment, which is made necessary by the county's gain in population.

The latest plan provides for changes in six districts. It was offered by the two Democrats on the redistricting committee. The only Republican member, Councilman John F. Molloy, Seventh District, resigned in April, saying the first two plans were unfair to Republicans.

Molloy said yesterday he did not like the third plan any better than the others.

More Acceptable. Councilman Albert M. Bailey, Sixth District Democrat, a member of the committee, said he thought it would be more acceptable than the others. This was the first to be offered in ordinance form.

The third proposal would embrace a broader range of population among the districts—from 47,338 in the smallest to 55,678 in the largest. Previously the spread was from 48,157 to 51,790.

The other Democrat on the redistricting committee is Maurice Abramson, Third District.

The only Republican Councilman other than Molloy is Edward E. Murphy Jr., Fourth District. He said he needed more time to study the plan before commenting on it.

Changes Listed. Changes are proposed in the Fourth, Fifth, Eighth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Districts, as follows:

Fourth—To include 36 precincts of St. Ferdinand Township with population of 55,678, rather than 33 with 49,053.

Fifth—Twenty-three precincts of Normandy Township and 11 of St. Ferdinand, with population of 50,216, rather than 20 and 14, respectively, with 51,054.

Eighth—All of Washington and Hadley Townships and four precincts in Normandy, with 47,338, instead of all Washington, 16 of Hadley and seven of Normandy with 49,846.

Ninth—All of Lincoln Township, two precincts of Clayton and 24 of Jefferson, with 47,813, rather than the same plus two precincts in Hadley with an over-all total of 50,692.

Tenth—Thirty-four precincts in Clayton Township, five in Jefferson and 11 in Bonhomme, with 53,976, rather than 32 in Clayton, five in Jefferson and four in Bonhomme with 51,790.

Eleventh—All of Meramec Township and 30 precincts in Bonhomme with 47,446, instead of all Meramec and 37 in Bonhomme with 49,632.

Charter Committee. In other action, Council Chairman Russell A. Grantham suggested the appointment of a charter revision committee to get to work as soon as possible and be prepared with a plan if a constitutional amendment is adopted by state voters next year.

This is the amendment recently passed by the Legislature to enable county voters to broaden the powers of the council in municipalities and unincorporated areas.

Grantham said it would be important to inform the people as to the needs before asking them to vote on the charter amendment. With adequate information, he said, much opposition would be eliminated.

Samuel D. Lohmaster, operator of a flying field, informed the council that he would release his airport permit to Haglin & Co., which is seeking rezoning of a 1037-acre adjacent tract for an airport near Gumbo. Councilman Molloy, who is sponsoring the airport bill, said he expects passage at next week's meeting.

A three-month check of dogs in a large part of northern St. Louis county showed no rabies, the council was informed by Dr. C. Howe Eller, Health Commissioner. The check was ordered March 29 after two dogs were found to be rabid. Of 344 dogs caught, 261 were destroyed and 83 were returned to their owners.

PLANNED BLAST DEMOLISHED MOUNTAIN, RUSSIANS SAY

MOSCOW, July 6 (UPI)—A "powerful peaceful explosion" has demolished one of the mountains of the Caucasus, a Soviet newspaper reported yesterday.

The Sovietskaya Rossiya said preparations for the blast took six months. It said the explosion released tens of thousands of cubic meters of dolomite—a raw material used in the glass industry.

STRIKE IS SETTLED AT 12 SODA PLANTS

3-Year Contract OK'd—Production Due to Resume Monday.

The five-week strike of soft drink bottlers at 12 St. Louis plants ended today with acceptance by union members of a new three-year wage contract. Production is scheduled to be resumed next Monday, it was announced. Drivers for the soft drink plants accepted a new wage agreement June 5.

The vote to accept the management offer was 155 to 66 following a meeting lasting more than two hours at Painters Hall, 2501 Fifty-ninth street.

Maurice Schechter, attorney for Local 303, Soft Drink & Mineral Water Workers Union, said the agreement calls for a wage increase of 10 cents an hour each year for three years. The former wage scale, under a contract expiring last June 1, was $2.32½ an hour.

With fringe benefits, including additional holidays, more liberal vacations, sick leave and other concessions, Schechter said the "package" would cost employers a total of 46½ cents an hour in the third year. The 12 plants employ 227 bottlers.

The strike, called June 1, dried up soft drink sources in St. Louis and St. Louis county. Stocks soon were exhausted and stores offered substitutes, some of which were shipped from Illinois plants. Major bottling firms affected included Coca-Cola, Pepsi-Cola, Vess, Seven-Up, Canada Dry and Royal Crown.

The final contract draft was worked out at an all-night session last night in which United States conciliator George W. Squires participated. Former State Senator Edward J. Hogan Jr. is business agent for the local. Charles H. Spoehrer, attorney, represented employers.

ONE KILLED, 20 HURT WHEN BUS HITS TREE

CENTREVILLE, Va., July 6 (AP)—One woman was killed and 20 persons were injured early today when a Trailways Express bus left rain-slick highway 29-211 east of Centreville and hit a tree.

The dead woman was Mrs. Margie Biscoe, 32 years old, Washington, D. C., who was thrown from the bus.

Six ambulances sped with injured persons to the Fairfax (Va.) County Hospital, jamming emergency facilities and taxing the three doctors on duty. More physicians were called in.

REPORTS BEING RAPED IN HOME IN WEST END

The mother of two young children reported that she was raped yesterday in her West End home by a young man who forced his way into the house after she answered the door.

Grabbing the victim by the throat, the man forced her into a bedroom, where the attack took place. The woman's youngest child was asleep in an adjoining bedroom and a second child was playing outdoors. Following the attack, the assailant searched for money, but found none and fled, the victim said.

Get at least $25 for any old camera on purchase of a new Zeiss Ikon Tenax from Stanley Photo Service

Here's 35mm photography at its best. And without exposure worries. The fabulous Tenax automatic does everything but aim itself and snap the shutter. That's a privilege reserved for you. (After all, you'll want some credit for the brilliant, razor-sharp pictures Tenax delivers.) Tenax is a distinguished camera, one you'll carry with justifiable pride. From the tip of its eagle-eye Zeiss Tessar f/2.8 lens to the luxurious leather carrying case it comes in, Tenax is precision-crafted quality. Understandably so, too. It's made by Zeiss Ikon, one of the most honored names in the business. Why not trade in and trade up to Tenax? Bring any old camera in to Stanley Photo. Act now while savings are extraordinary. It's a grand investment that will repay you with a lifetime of picture-taking pleasure.

Come to our Zeiss Ikon In-Store Demonstration

A Zeiss Ikon Factory Representative will be at Stanley Photo stores to tell you all about the Tenax, the Contarex (shown at right), and other fine Zeiss Ikon equipment. Don't miss this opportunity to learn first-hand about the kind of equipment that makes 35mm photography so popular today. Demonstration hours for this week are listed below.

GIZENGA TROOPS AT HOMES OF LEGISLATORS

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo, July 6 (AP)—Antoine Gizenga's leftist Stanleyville government quietly is deploying troops around the home towns of Parliament members from the north-east Congo, possibly to pressure the legislators to vote as Gizenga wants them to if Parliament convenes, United Nations military intelligence officers reported today.

"This is no game they're playing," said a U.N. officer. "These troops are being deployed according to a well thought out plan and it's 99 per cent certain that Gizenga has Parliament in mind."

"It doesn't happen in my country but this sort of thing is recognized Communist strategy."

U.N. Can't Intervene.
The United Nations is powerless to interfere with Gizenga's troop movements in Oriental and Kivu provinces, which are nominally loyal to his Communist-backed government.

However, when a Stanleyville unit recently tried to move on the north Katanga town of Kaballo, U.N. officials intervened and the troops were firmly persuaded to withdraw.

Officially, the United Nations is maintaining silence on the motives behind the reported Stanleyville troop movements. Privately, U.N. intelligence officers are convinced the show of force is designed to pressure wavering legislators from Kivu and Oriental provinces into taking the Gizenga line.

Invite Reprisals.
Legislators who swung over to supporting President Joseph Kasavubu's Western-aligned Leopoldville Government would invite reprisals from Stanleyville troops when they returned home. Their families would be menaced.

When the reconvening of Parliament first was proposed, the Stanleyville regime asked that U.N. protection be accorded not only to parliamentarians but also to their families at home.

Condition Deleted.
Western diplomats noted that no such condition was included in the final request to the United Nations.

In Leopoldville yesterday President Kasavubu called on the presidents of the two houses of Parliament to fix a date for the long-suspended legislature to reopen. A presidential decree specified only that it be after July 15.

GAMBLERS WANT TO MAKE OLD TOWBOAT INTO CASINO

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, July 6—A further element was introduced in the saga of the sternwheeler Mississippi today—its possible future use as a floating gambling casino.

A spokesman for Representative J. Kenneth Gray (Dem.), Illinois, said reports that gamblers were interested in bidding on the 33-year-old paddlewheel towboat are a factor behind Gray's plans to obtain the vessel as a museum. The Army Engineers, it was announced yesterday, agreed to postpone the sale of the vessel by sealed bids until Congress acts on Gray's bill to transfer the ship to Illinois or until Congress adjourns.

A spokesman for Gray said it would be possible for any private group to bid on the vessel in the engineers' sale and it would be more appropriate to have the vessel as a museum rather than "come to an ignominious end" as a gambling casino.

FTC CHANGES RULES TO SPEED ACTION IN CASES

WASHINGTON, July 6. — The Federal Trade Commission announced yesterday far-reaching rule changes designed to speed the disposition of its cases.

The new rules, effective July 21, are designed to stop delaying tactics by respondents.

"We have good reason to hope that our revised rules will help the commission shake itself loose from a lifelong incapacity to act soon enough," Paul Rand Dixon, the FTC chairman, said at a press conference. Dixon has made it clear since becoming head of the FTC that modernizing the machinery of the agency was one of his major goals.

Under the new regulations, which replace those in effect since 1935, all negotiations toward a settlement of a case by a consent order will be conducted prior to the issuance of the FTC complaint.

These negotiations will be under the FTC's new four-man Office of Consent Orders, instead of under hearing examiners.

When a company has been notified of an alleged violation by the FTC it will have 10 days to file an answer indicating whether it intends to comply in a consent order.

If the reply is negative, or if there is no reply, then a complaint will be issued by the FTC and the litigation will start. Unlike the present procedure, once a complaint is served, a company will be denied any opportunity to settle for a consent order.

At present, once a complaint is issued, there is a considerable time lag before negotiations begin. In this time a firm can continue what may be a deceptive practice.

The new procedure will mean less public attention for any firm signing a consent order. There now are generally three occasions for entry into the public record: The complaint of the FTC, the reply or denial by the company, and the consent order. Under the new system the signing of the consent order will be the only occasion for the public record.

In another major rule change, the commission ordered that the hearing of cases "shall proceed with all reasonable expedition." Unless the commission otherwise orders, all hearings will proceed at once place and will continue without suspension, except for weekends and holidays, until completed.

In another major change, the commission decided to stiffen the requirements for review of a case. This was done to prevent what officials consider time-wasting review of hearing examiners' initial decisions.

PACKAGING HEARINGS LEAD TO HUNDREDS OF PROTESTS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Recent Senate anti-trust subcommittee hearings on deceptive packaging and labeling practices have touched off "a virtual consumer uprising," Chairman Philip A. Hart (Dem.), Michigan, said today.

Hart said his office has been flooded with hundreds of packages, labels, and actual products submitted by consumers protesting against misrepresentation.

He said at least one trade association, the Produce Packaging Association Inc., of Newark, Del., has informed him that as a result of the hearings the association has formed a trade practices committee. The association said the committee "will thoroughly study fresh fruit and vegetable marketing practices and will establish a code of packaging practice standards for industry adoption in co-operation with other trade associations."

WEST END CONFERENCE ELECTS BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Rev. Dr. Harry P. Phillips Jr., pastor of the West Presbyterian Church, 5872 Maple avenue, has been re-elected chairman of the board of directors of the West End Community Conference. It was announced today.

Other officers elected to the board of directors are Mrs. William G. Porter, 6030 Cates avenue, Mrs. Robert C. Voss, 8 Windermere place, and Edward H. Tenney Jr., 5475 Cabanne avenue, vice chairmen; Mrs. Louis P. Amoureux, 5565 Bartmer ave., recording secretary; Mrs. H. Edward Giles, 5967 Plymouth avenue, acting corresponding secretary, and Harold L. Hilton, 5822 Oakhurst place, treasurer.

The board of directors will meet at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the community conference office, 5737 Cates avenue. The latest West End report, which covers the past six-year history of the area, is now available to the public, Mrs. Voss announced.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH Thurs., July 6, 1961 7A

Police said she had been raped by a man, 25 to 30 years old, early yesterday in the bedroom of her home on Madison street. Police said the man entered the home by forcing open a rear window. He assaulted the girl at knife-point, she reported.

agreed to provide military assistance if requested by Kuwait's ruler. The current crisis was caused by a statement June 24 by Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem, laying claim to the neighboring sheikdom.

Francis T. P. Plimpton, speaking for the United States, supported the independence of Kuwait, the British action in sending troops to Kuwait, and urged that the government of Iraq give Kuwait "assurances."

Valerian Zorin of the Soviet Union, although going beyond previous Soviet statements in attacking Britain, was careful not to involve Russia in the dispute between two Arab countries. He attempted to present the situation in Kuwait as another example of imperialism, comparable to Belgian action in the Congo and the British, French and Israeli attack on Egypt in 1956.

"British troops must immediately be withdrawn from Kuwait," Zorin declared. The Security Council, he said, should adopt measures to assure British withdrawal.

"The real cause of the threat to peace is the existence of British troops and naval units in and in the vicinity of Kuwait," the Russian said. These troops, he charged, could "at any moment provoke another armed conflict." Only their removal, Zorin said, "will prevent events from taking a dangerous development."

Zorin did not make specific suggestions for a Security Council resolution. He said it would not be possible to tackle the dispute between Iraq and Kuwait until British troops have been withdrawn.

Won't Use Force, Iraq Insists.

Adnan Pachachi of Iraq repeated previous assurances that, though Iraq claims that Kuwait is part of Iraq, it did not intend to press this claim by other than peaceful means.

"It is the duty of the Security Council to assure the immediate withdrawal of this aggressive British force," he declared.

Kuwait's Hussein quoted a series of communications between officials of Iraq and the Kuwait government, to show that Iraq, among "most of the nations of the world," recognized Kuwait as an independent nation.

In any event, Hussein declared that Iraq had moved troops to the Kuwait border, "ready to strike," at the same time Premier Kassem was threatening to take over Kuwait. Britain, Hussein said, had responded to Kuwait's requests for help.

"We are fully conscious," he said, "that there should not be one foreign soldier on the soil of Kuwait, but they can be removed only when sufficient guarantees are given that our freedom and independence are secure."

U.A.R. Modifies Demand.

Omar Loufi of the United Arab Republic changed his position somewhat in supporting the demand that British troops leave Kuwait. He did not, however, demand—as did Russia—that the troops leave "immediately."

Also, he supported the independence of Kuwait, and urged that the whole dispute be "settled within the framework of the Arab League."

Some delegates were taken by surprise when Loufi demanded the withdrawal of British troops; he had not made such a demand on Sunday.

(The U.A.R. permitted British warships bound for the defense of Kuwait to pass through the Suez canal today. Fourteen ships, including tankers, destroyers and the aircraft carrier Centaur, started moving through the canal at midnight. They entered at Port Said at the north.

(This was the largest force of British warships to navigate the canal since Britain and the U.A.R. broke relations in 1956 over the British-French invasion of Suez.)

Complicated Situation. From the U.N. debate and from private conversations in the corridors a complex set of issues are revealed in the Kuwait case.

Kuwait is a territory the size of Connecticut, which produces some 40 per cent of the petroleum consumed by Britain. British eagerness to secure its oil supplies, especially with a possible Berlin crisis looming, certainly is one reason for the British troop movements.

Diplomats believe, however, that other British considerations are involved, including a desire to keep the whole complex system of sheikdoms and emirates in the Persian gulf area from toppling. Admittedly, that system needs some overhauling; Britain was beginning to do that in granting independence to Kuwait June 19—the event which precipitated the present crisis.

Why Kassem of Iraq chose this moment to advance his claim to Kuwait in threatening terms is another question. He must have known, diplomats reason, that Britain would resist such a claim on behalf of the ruling sheik of Kuwait. The new Kuwait-British agreement provides for British defense measures, if requested.

Internal Issue in Iraq. The most likely explanation for Kassem's action seems to be that he was impelled by internal political considerations. Union with Kuwait is said by Arab diplomats to be a burning emotional issue among many people in Iraq. Among other considerations, there are some 50,000 Iraqis living in Kuwait, among a population that probably totals not much more than 200,000.

Many non-citizens besides Iraqis live there.

Another complicating factor is the ambition of the United Arab Republic to include Kuwait within its projected "Arab nation"—presumably led from Cairo. Loufi, the U.A.R. spokesman, while eschewing annexation of Kuwait by Iraq, said that "unity of the Arab peoples by their freely expressed will," was another matter. He mentioned specifically the unity of Syria with Egypt to form the U.A.R.

BRITISH TROOPS TO MINE BORDER

KUWAIT, July 6 (AP) — Britain's commander in Kuwait has ordered the desert frontier mined, charging that Iraqi forces across the border appear to be building up at an increased pace.

Brig. Derek Horsford, defending his decision to mine the frontier, declared: "I have been ordered to come in and organize the defense of this country. If I am caught short, then I would deserve the sack."

British military sources said the Iraqis, despite their continued insistence that they would get control of the oil-rich sheikdom only by peaceful means, appear poised for offensive action.

Troop Movement Ended. The Defense Ministry in London announced that Britain has completed movement of British troops into Kuwait.

"It is hoped that as a result the situation is stabilized for the moment," the ministry said.

The buildup of British troops began last Saturday with the landing of 600 royal marine commandos. The British force now in Kuwait is estimated unofficially at more than 5000 troops, backed by warships and fighter and bomber planes.

Six hundred British marine commandos who set up a forward defense line in the desert five days ago, were relieved by fresh troops yesterday after about a third of them suffered from heat exhaustion. Most of them quickly recovered but some were flown for treatment to the commando carrier Bulwark off Kuwait.

Meanwhile, Arab League Secretary General Abdel Khalek Hassouna, trying to mediate through talks with the Arab governments, was in Saudi Arabia today after conferring with Sheikh Abdullah of Kuwait and Premier Kassem of Iraq.

Radio Mecca said King Saud, who has sent troops to join with the British in defending Kuwait, had expressed his "urgent wish" to Hassouna that the Persian gulf nation be admitted to the Arab League as a full-fledged member without delay. Iraq opposes admitting Kuwait to the Arab alliance because it would constitute recognition of Kuwait's independence.

Hoffa Wins

Delegates overwhelmingly approved the dues hike despite protests that local union officers would have a hard time selling it to members.

The convention boosted Hoffa's annual salary by 50 per cent and killed a proposal to put his re-election up to the rank-and-file members.

Purse Strings Loosened.

The convention voted today to pay full legal costs of any of its officers or employees involved in court proceedings that the union determines are "unfounded or politically motivated."

Hoffa also pushed through a new constitutional provision apparently loosening the purse strings on local union treasurers. From now on the locals can invest in any property, real or personal, and leave money deposited in banks without interest. Locals can make loans "direct and indirect for such purposes and with such security, if any, as they deem appropriate and with such arrangements for repayment as they deem appropriate."

Edward H. Painter, local 70, Oakland, Calif., was booed and shouted down in an attempt to raise strike benefits higher than Hoffa proposed. Hoffa reminded Painter that he was one of a small group that had unsuccessfully opposed a dues increase at last night's session.

Pay Goes to $75,000. Hoffa gavelled through the convention yesterday the salary increase from $50,000 to $75,000 a year making him the highest-paid union official in the land. He said he deserved it because he presided over the biggest United States labor organization.

The dues increase would boost Hoffa's headquarters revenue to about $20,000,000 a year. It would increase each member's dues requirements by $1 a month.

The leadership defended the increase by saying the Teamsters' present levy was the lowest of any major union in the country.

Wages of Teamsters vary considerably from around $1 an hour up to $2.50 an hour for some of the higher-paid truck drivers. Dues range between $3 and $6 a month, although some locals charge as high as $8 a month.

Hoffa ran a well drilled night session of the convention to push through his program. Among measures adopted as bait for other unions to come into the Teamsters is a new plan to give officials of adopted unions full rights to generous Teamsters pensions.

The convention earlier voted overwhelmingly to limit the right of rank-and-file members to hold office or become delegates to future conventions.

Debate Cut Short.

Hoffa, presiding at the rostrum, kept a tight rein on debate from a console panel at his elbow. The buttons on the panel controlled the floor microphones.

He gave almost everyone a chance to speak, but made sure each spoke briefly.

Milton J. Liss, president of Newark (N.J.), Local 478, and Hoffa's only announced opponent for re-election, lost an attempt to water down one of Hoffa's proposals.

The proposal automatically makes all elected local officers delegates to future conventions. Liss supported an amendment offered by Painter to simply allow locals to send their officers to conventions. Painter's amendment was shouted down in favor of the mandatory wording Hoffa wanted.

More Domination.

This means that the teamsters conventions, already substantially dominated by Hoffa adherents, will be more so in the future. Hoffa said that if ordinary members want to attend future conventions they ought to run for local office.

Delegates similarly yelled practically unanimous approval of a Hoffa rules change saying that Teamsters members can run for national union office only after serving as local officers for at least two years.

Members will be disqualified from running for local office unless they attend at least 50 per cent of all local union meetings.

Among other changes overwhelmingly approved was an extension of jurisdiction to cover all workers in all industries regardless of work claims made by other unions.

Red Treaty

with Soviet Premier Khrushchev's contention that the pact was necessary because of the actions of United States, Japan and other powers in the Pacific.

White said the fact is that "it was the North Korean regime which committed aggression against the Republic of Korea in 1950 and which has done nothing whatever to ease tensions in the area since that time."

China-Soviet Rivalry.

White's comment was the first State Department reaction to announcement of the treaty.

United States officials, surprised at announcement of the new mutual defense pact, said it undoubtedly was still another sign of the rivalry between the Soviet Union and Red China.

The chief reason for this view is that, in Washington eyes, North Korea has been regarded as falling within the Red Chinese sphere of influence. Some new formal arrangement between the North Korean Red regime and Communist China would have been much less surprising than the pact with Russia which Moscow announced.

But while United States officials assigned first significance to the Russian-Chinese aspects of the development, they also were studying it to see whether it might have a bearing on Khrushchev's maneuvers on Berlin.

Other Signs of Rift.

The disclosure of the North Korean pact was the latest development in a week of international surprises dealing with relations between Moscow and Peking.

These began Sunday with the publication in London of a report that Khrushchev has circulated among European Communist leaders an attack on the Red Chinese leadership. He reportedly charged the Red Chinese with pursuing a line that could lead to a world war and failing to support Moscow's "peaceful co-existence" policy.

There followed a disclosure in Moscow that the Soviet Union was virtually ignoring a celebration at Peking of the fortieth anniversary of the Chinese Communist party. At the same time, it sent a high-level Russian delegation to neighboring Mongolia to celebrate the fourteenth anniversary of the Mongolian Communist party.

ceded the signing of the treaty may have been somewhat influenced by the recent political uphaeals in South Korea, indicating political instability there and the possibility of a more aggressive policy on Korean unification. But they said this only provided an occasion for making a treaty, because a treaty itself would hardly change the basic military balance in the area.

The prestige of Red China, and beyond that of Russia, has long been committed to the defense of North Korea, just as the prestige of the United States, with or without a treaty, is committed to the defense of South Korea.

turned over the two plates in the Fall of 1960, the investigation continued and about five more counterfeit $10 bills were found, Nash said today.

Nash said that as far as he knows no counterfeit bills were taken out of the penitentiary. He said that at the time the operation was uncovered it was very small, but that Barnes's co-operation may have come in time to prevent it from becoming large-scale.

Barnes had served almost five years of his sentence when he was released.

Besides investigating the joint's alleged association with the two deputy sheriffs, authorities in the city and county were looking into his dealings with two professional bondsmen, Mrs. Sally M. Leick and John J. Walsh.

The information on the two deputy sheriffs was presented to Tozer yesterday by Reardon. At the conclusion of their conference, Beckerle was summoned to Reardon's office and confronted with the information. When he declined to confirm or deny the allegations, Tozer said: "There's nothing for me to do but fire you."

Stevens could not be questioned because he is vacationing in the Ozarks.

Sheriff Tozer said Stevens telephoned him today from the Ozarks. He quoted Stevens as saying: "Whatever information they've got it's only the word of a hoodlum. I have never had anything to do with the guy. I will be in this afternoon to see you."

Beckerle's home at 1040 Hanson drive, Bellefontaine Neighbors, was one of five places in the city and county searched by police last Saturday night. The officers, armed with search warrants, were attempting to recover clothing, jewelry and other items which Barnes told them he had stolen in burglaries this year.

The only item seized at Beck-erle's home was a fur coat which Beckerle contended his wife has owned for the past 25 years. Barnes was shown the fur and said he did not steal it.

Korean Mission to Africa.

JOHN BIRCH SOCIETY SEEKS LISTING OF ITS OPPONENTS

NEW YORK, July 6 (UPI)—The founder of the John Birch Society has asked its members to help compile "the most complete and most accurate files in America on the leading Communists (Communist sympathizers), Socialists and liberals." Robert Welch said he hoped to fill hundreds of filing cabinets with dossiers on "those who are trying to change the economic and political structure of this country so that it could be comfortably merged with Soviet Russia in a one-world Socialist government."

Writing in the July issue of his society's bulletin, Welch said he believed the largest nongovernmental file of this nature in America, which he did not identify, contains 1,500,000 names. He said he believes there are "not more than 300,000 to 500,000

RULES WORKERS CAN'T BE FIRED IN MOVE OF PLANT

DETROIT, July 6 (UPI) — A Michigan firm moving to Tennessee was under federal court order today to offer its Detroit employees a transfer and a job at its new location.

United States District Judge Fred W. Kaess ruled that employees have an "earned and vested right" of seniority and that this cannot be "denied unilaterally" or affected by a change in the location of their employer.

Judge Kaess issued his ruling yesterday in a suit brought by five employees of the Gemmer Manufacturing Co., which plans to move from Detroit to Lebanon, Tenn., on Sept. 2.

Local 80 of the United Auto Workers Union has charged that the Tennessee community floated a $2,400,000 bond issue to build a plant for the Detroit firm and in return Gemmer had pledged to hire only Lebanon area workers. The company had refused to offer transfers to its 720 Detroit workers.

Kaess also ruled that the workers' seniority rights outlive their union's contract with Gemmer. The union contract expires Oct. 1, and in another suit the union is demanding that the company honor the contract despite the move.

Gemmer is a division of Ross Gear & Tool Co. of Lafayette, Ind.

EDEN, AS EARL, ABOUT TO RESUME POLITICAL LIFE

LONDON, July 6 (UPI) — Sir Anthony Eden, his health restored and the wounds of the 1956 Suez crisis healed, prepared today to re-enter the political life of his country.

He was named an earl yesterday, giving him the right to sit in the House of Lords and enter debates on British affairs. For Eden, now 64 years old, it will be a modest comeback without the power he wielded as prime minister. The Daily Telegraph said Eden "will be by far the most authoritative independent voice in either house (of Parliament) on Europe."

Eden resigned as prime minister in January 1957, his life-long struggle for success as an ambassador of peace defeated by illness and by his decision to make war over Suez. Since Suez, he has undergone several intestinal operations. His official title, to be announced next week, probably will be Earl Eden of Leamington, his hometown constituency.

Luebke in Switzerland. BERN, Switzerland, July 6 (AP) — President Heinrich Luebke of West Germany arrived yesterday for a three-day state visit. It is the first official visit by a German chief of state since Kaiser Wilhelm II was in Switzerland before World War I.

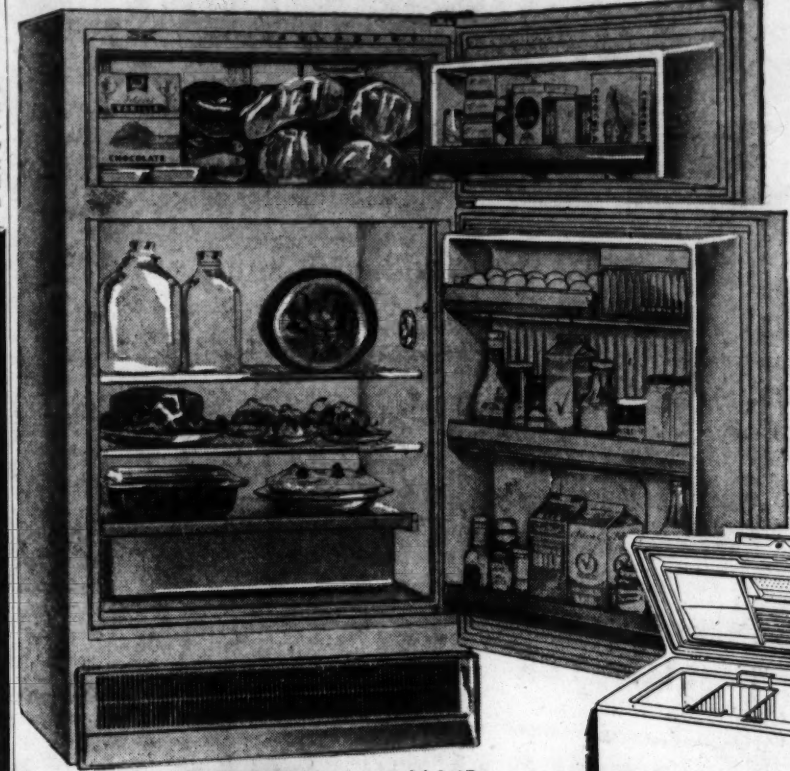

BRITISH NAVY SETS UP BRANCH TO GUARD SECRETS

LONDON, July 6 (AP) — The First Lord of the Admiralty said yesterday he is establishing a new security branch to prevent recurrence of recent leaks of Royal Navy secrets. Lord Carrington told the House of Lords his new department should remedy the most serious weaknesses of admiralty security. A government committee criticized admiralty security after a trial earlier this year disclosed a Soviet spy ring had access to some of the navy's prized secrets.

KENNEDY, AIDS TALK OVER OCDM REORGANIZATION

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—President Kennedy today discussed reorganization of the Office of Civil Defense and Mobilization with top-level advisers, but the White House withheld any announcement as to conclusions. There were reports the Defense Department had won a major role in civil defense.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said he might have something to say about the meeting later today.

Budget Director David Bell, the only participant reporters got to talk to, declined to discuss the meeting other than to say that President Kennedy would ask for an additional appropriation for civil defense in two or three weeks.

Bell said it is "an urgent matter in the President's mind," but that the amount of the increase has not yet been decided.

The two principals in a behind-the-scenes contest over roles in civil defense sat in on today's conference. They are Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who wanted the major role for his department, and Frank B. Ellis, director of the Office of Civil Defense and Mobilization, who wanted his agency to keep the major role.

Mr. Kennedy's reported decision in favor of McNamara would leave OCDM as something of a skeleton organization.

The president is understood to have plans to ask Congress for a tripling of the $105,000,000 previously asked for civil defense.

The supplemental appropriation involves spending in fiscal 1962, which began six days ago. The proposed budget of roughly $300,000,000 would permit the start of a nation-wide fallout shelter program advocated by Ellis, with the Pentagon running the main show.

Mr. Kennedy's message to Congress on urgent national needs outlined the essentials of the program, assigned chief responsibility to the Defense Department and announced that OCDM would become the "office for emergency planning" in his executive office.

Ellis, has insisted that final responsibility for civil defense operations and policy, as well as the co-ordination of the work of federal, state and local civil defense operations, should remain a civilian function under his agency. He wants the Pentagon to have responsibility for the intensified shelter drive, but operate under his directives. Organizations of governors and mayors have supported this view, but McNamara has taken the position that he should have sole authority to do the job assigned or he does not want the job.

Berlin Reply

where 500 refugees from Communism are taken in daily.

The only question, Ulbricht said today, was whether the process would be "easy and painless or more difficult." Ulbricht spoke for 90 minutes to the People's Chamber, East Germany's Soviet-style parliament.

Ulbricht presented what he called a "peace plan of the German people" for a neutralized Germany. Actually it was a warmed-over version of the Communist demand for two Germans, with the Communist east to have status equal to the west. It would have "both German states"—West Germany and Ulbricht's German Democratic Republic—sign a peace treaty with the wartime allies.

Ulbricht's plan provides for renunciation of force by both parts of Germany. The major victors of World War II would guarantee Germany's neutrality. Two German states would be represented at the United Nations. West Berlin would be a neutral, demilitarized free city until Germany is reunified.

Order on Socialization. After Ulbricht spoke, the People's Chamber heard an order by a member of the Communist party Politbureau to halt socialization of small business. It came from Friedrich Ebert, mayor of East Berlin.

Ebert acknowledged shortages of food and consumer goods have been plaguing the East German regime and weakening its international position. He said there had been "completely impossible and unpardonable disorder" in supply.

He put part of the blame on the socialization program, which has been closing privately owned shops and service establishments.

Ebert also said the shortages are due in part to the effort to make East Germany independent of West German steel and other industrial products. East German money and manpower have been diverted from the production of consumer goods in this drive. Communist leaders are afraid of a Western trade boycott, which has been threatened if they move against Berlin.

Spirited Report.

MIDDLETOWN, O., July 6 (UPI)—Patrolman Howard Watson, sent to investigate a report of an explosion, submitted this report: "This officer found one bottle of wine had been hidden in an oven of a gas stove. It exploded when the oven was lit and the spirits did speak."

FIRM HERE AMONG SIX SUE ON PRICE-FIXING CHARGE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, July 6—Fred Medart Manufacturing Co., St. Louis, is one of six firms from which the state of Arizona is seeking treble damages in a suit filed today in federal court alleging price fixing in the sale of folding gymnasium bleachers.

Arizona Attorney General Robert W. Pickrell did not specify the amount of damages sought. His petition charged the firms had adopted uniform base prices and imposed penalties for any deviation from the schedule. The civil suit was brought under the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

The other firms are Safeway Steel Products, Milwaukee; Brunswick Co., Chicago; Wayne

Iron Works, Wayne, Pa.; Universal Bleacher Co., Champaign, Ill.; and Consolidated Foundries & Manufacturing Co., Chicago. All except Safeway were fined a total of $84,500 earlier in a federal anti-trust action. Safeway pleaded innocent.

S. KOREA GOT $268,000,000 U.S. ECONOMIC AID LAST YEAR

SEOUL, July 6 (AP)—The United States embassy announced today that South Korea received a total of $268,000,000 economic aid from the United States in the fiscal year that ended June 30.

This compared with $198,000,000 the year before, the embassy said. American economic assistance to South Korea totals over $2,400,000,000 since 1954. No estimate of United States military aid was available.

Isle of Man No Longer. DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, July 6 (AP)—This tiny Irish Sea island became something of a misnomer this week when the Legislative Council voted to admit to the hitherto all-male lower chamber, the House of Keys.

MOULDER MAY RUN FOR LONG'S SEAT IN SENATE

BY HERBERT A. TRASK.
State Political Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 6 — The Missouri Democratic party was surprised yesterday by the announcement of United States Representative Morgan M. Moulder of Camden that he may run in the 1962 primary election against United States Senator Edward V. Long of Clarksville, the Democratic incumbent.

Moulder, who is serving his seventh two-year term in Congress, said he is still undecided whether to run for the Senate next year, or to seek re-election to the House in the proposed new Eighth Congressional District covering a large area in south central Missouri.

Under a redistricting bill passed by the Missouri Legislature in the closing minutes of the session last Friday night, Moulder's present congressional district, the eleventh, was eliminated. The bill, awaiting Gov. John M. Dalton's expected signature, reduces the number of Missouri districts from 11 to 10.

Moulder, a Democrat, ends up under this plan in the same congressional district with another Democratic incumbent, Representative Richard H. Ichord of Houston. Ichord, who is serving his first term in Congress, announced in Washington yesterday he will seek re-election in the new Eighth District.

The new Eighth covers 24 counties, including 10 from Moulder's discontinued Eleventh District and 14 from Ichord's present Eighth District. It runs from Saline county in west central Missouri to Jefferson county, just southwest of St. Louis, and extends southward almost to the Arkansas line.

"I might as well run statewide for the Senate as to run in a district that covers that much territory," Moulder, told the Post-Dispatch.

His announcement that he was eyeing the 1962 Senate race came as a surprise to state Democratic leaders. They had expressed confidence that Senator Long would not face serious primary opposition next year.

Long, former Missouri lieutenant governor, was appointed last year to the Senate to fill the vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis. Long was elected last November to fill the unexpired Hennings term, and shortly thereafter he announced he would seek re-election in 1962 for a full six-year term.

CHILD MADE ILL BY DRUGS

Mark Stief, 18 months old, was taken to Homer G. Phillips Hospital yesterday suffering from an overdose of drugs.

The child lapsed into unconsciousness after the mother, Mrs. Raymond Stief, discovered a broken medicine bottle in the home, 4427A Strudman place. Five of eight capsules the bottle had contained were missing, Mrs. Stief reported. The boy's condition is serious.

WALTER WOULD BLOCK 2 KENNEDY APPOINTMENTS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—Representative Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), moved today to block two Kennedy Administration appointments to top State Department security posts. He said he would try to abolish the jobs.

Walter, chairman of the Un-American Activities and of a judiciary subcommittee on immigration, told the House the appointments would place State Department security policies "in the hands of totally unqualified political appointees."

He introduced legislation which would eliminate the existing State Department security posts and set up two new offices requiring senatorial confirmation.

Walter's action was aimed at heading off the appointments of Salvatore A. Bontempo of Newark, N.J., as administrator of the department's Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, and Michel Cieplinski of New York as deputy administrator.

MILLIONAIRE ADMITS HITTING WOMAN LATER FOUND DEAD

CHARLOTTE, N. C., July 6 (UPI)—George King Cutter, millionaire real estate man, admitted yesterday he slapped his divorcee friend of 12 years at the couple's trysting place, a luxuriously converted bus, police said. Cutter said he returned later and found her dead.

Cutter, 48 years old, was charged with murder in the death of Mrs. Delette Nycum, 39, who was found dead in her bed by her 14-year-old son.

Cutter is president of Cutter Realty Co. and a member of the city's most exclusive clubs. Detective C. A. Allen said Cutter told police he beat the woman Monday evening and left her in the bus.

"He said he came back to check on her the next morning and found her dead," Allen said. "He then took her to her home and put her in bed."

Mrs. Nycum, the mother of two, had been divorced from her late husband for several years. Cutter, who has four children, is separated from his wife.

count said the water was about four feet deep at that point.

The President's daughter had been accompanied by a Secret Service man and a substitute nurse, since it was the day off for her regular nurse, Miss Maude Shaw. Mrs. Kennedy was not at the party.

Asked whether the Secret Service agent had been near the pool, Salinger explained that the Secret Service was guarding the premises but not doing life guard duty at the pool.

Mrs. Steers is the former Nina Auchincloss, daughter of Hugh D. Auchincloss, stepfather of Mrs. Kennedy.

TWO ACCUSED OF $184,626 FRAUD IN FIRM'S PAYROLL

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Two New York officers of the American Building Maintenance Co. of California were accused yesterday of a $184,626 payroll fraud.

Sidney Brettholz and Jerry Moskowitz, both of Bayside, Queens, were indicted by a New York county grand jury. Each indictment contained 186 counts ranging from conspiracy and grand larceny to forgery. Brettholz is New York regional director of the maintenance company; Moskowitz is assistant manager of the firm's New York office.

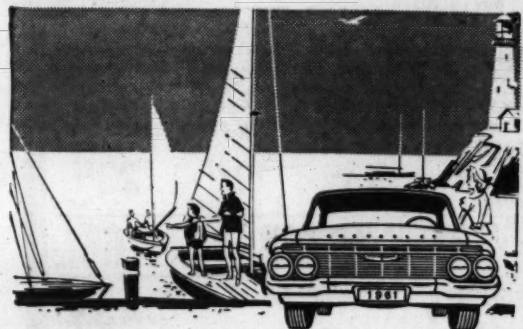

District Attorney Frank S.

Hogan said the two men had made out payroll checks on non-existent employees, cashed the checks and pocketed the money. He said Brettholz kept 90 per cent of the money and Moskowitz got the other 10 per cent. The payroll scheme started in July 1956 and was first exposed in August 1959, he said.

KENNEDY TO GIVE DECISION ON LOAN FOR NEW HAVEN

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)

President Kennedy received a report today from the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization on the eligibility of the debt-ridden New Haven Railroad to receive $5,500,000 Government loan.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said the President has not yet reached a final decision on the loan. He added that an announcement on the application will be made later today.

The railroad has asked for immediate help, and President Kennedy asked the ODCM for a quick decision on whether the New Haven qualifies for a certificate of defense essentiality.

The New Haven, which has been losing money since 1956, said it needs some money pending realization of benefits that it will receive under tax-relief legislation already passed by New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York City.

Actually the railroad asked for $12,500,000 in loans in a request filed June 15, but it said it needed the $5,500,000 immediately.

The New Haven already owes $35,523,400 in Government-backed loans, having repaid only $3,600,000 in past loans since 1955. The New Haven lost $15,000,000 last year and $30,000,000 up to May this year.

The line's service in Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island and Connecticut has deteriorated in both comfort and speed for its 28,000 daily commuters.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, the railroad's leading creditors, told the New Haven earlier this month that they would not participate in any more loans until the road's future was more certain.

Senator Willis A. Robertson (Dem.), Virginia, chairman of the Joint Committee on Defense Production, was reported to be opposed to a federal loan on grounds that it was illegal and would be throwing "good money after bad."

KIDNAPING WARRANT AGAINST GIRL, 15, IS CONSIDERED

BUFFALO, July 6 (UPI)—Authorities today considered seeking a warrant charging a 15-year-old girl with kidnaping. They said, however, it was doubtful the girl, Cheryl Jolis, would face the charges at this time. They said she would probably be sent to a state mental hospital.

Chief of Detectives John J. Whalen said yesterday police would ask for the warrant against her for kidnaping Richard Eddington, 5, on June 22, the day before 3-year-old Andrew Ashley was found trussed and drowned in a park lake.

In the cases involving the killing of the Ashley boy and the kidnaping of Susan Benedict, authorities said they did not think there was sufficient evidence for the girl's arrest.

Cheryl was identified by Richard and 5-year-old Susan as the person who took them from their

U.N.'s Reorganization Seems Certain; It Is Likely to Follow Hammarskjold's Plan Closely

He Hopes to Placate Russia Without Alienating U.S.—Appeals for Greater Support Among Smaller, Uncommitted Nations.

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(FIRST OF TWO ARTICLES)

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., July 6.

A REORGANIZATION OF the United Nations seems to be a certainty to those diplomats in the best position to know. The exact form of this reorganization cannot now be predicted, but it seems likely to follow fairly closely the suggestions put forward by Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold.

In addition, the organization will be faced with the task of electing a Secretary General a year from this coming September. Finally, it is considered at least possible that Communist China may become a member of the United Nations at about the same time a new Secretary General is being chosen.

All of this comes on top of the continued embroilment of the UN in African affairs, especially in the Congo. Trouble in Angola will be an added American issue before the General Assembly when it begins its next session Sept. 19.

In prospect for the United Nations, therefore, is a time of change such as it has not faced in the 16 years of its existence, diplomats believe. Whether the changes will be for the better, or will fatally weaken the organization, will to a great extent be determined in the next 18 months.

THE UN has been in a period of crisis since Hammarskjold found himself at loggerheads with Soviet Premier Khrushchev over events in The Congo a year ago. When Khrushchev came to New York last fall and pounded his desk in the General Assembly with his shoe he only gave emphasis to a fact that already existed.

One factor has been Khrushchev's anger at being thwarted in his efforts to achieve paramount influence in The Congo. Many Western diplomats, and some diplomats from nations not directly involved in the cold war competition believed a year ago that Khrushchev was out to wreck the United Nations, or at least to render it too weak to participate in another venture like that in The Congo.

Second thoughts, however, have raised some doubts on this point. It may be that Khrushchev also has had some second thoughts. In any event, efforts are now under way to meet some of Russia's objections to the organization and operation of the U.N., in the hope that a modicum of Soviet co-operation will follow, despite Russian disappointment over The Congo.

Some Americans will, of course, object to this procedure as giving in to Moscow. It is pointed out, however, that if Russia really wanted to wreck the United Nations it would merely have to withdraw—as, indeed, Khrushchev threatened to do last fall. The U.N. would have little significance without Russia—or without United States—participation.

THE ESSENCE of Hammarskjold's plan for reorganizing the United Nations is to attempt to placate Russia without alienating the United States. His method is to appeal for greater support among the smaller and uncommitted nations of the world. To understand why Hammarskjold and most well-informed diplomats believe a reorganization is indicated it is necessary to examine the background of the immediate issues and programs.

Since the United Nations was organized in 1945, many changes have taken place in the world. New nations have come into being. The distribution of real power among the older nations has shifted. Many diplomats feel that these changes have not been reflected adequately in the organization and operation of the U.N.

In addition, the U.N.—beginning in 1956—has assumed functions of greater significance than was foreseen by the men who wrote its charter at the San Francisco conference. The charter provides that the secretary general "shall perform such . . . functions as are entrusted to him by" the General Assembly and the Security Council. It also empowers the secretary general to "bring to the attention of the Security Council any matter which in his opinion may threaten the maintenance of international peace and security."

HAMMARSKJOLD, under these charter provisions, has taken the initiative in international conflicts to an extent never before attempted by an international civil servant. For the most part he has done this precisely because the nations of the world could not agree on what to do about situations that seemed to be leading down perilous paths.

The formula as it has developed is for the Security Council to pass a vague resolution, leaving it to Hammarskjold to work out the details. This has meant

Difficult Task Ahead in U.N. For Stevenson

Despite Cuban Fiasco, He Is Symbol of Freedom.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(1961, St. Louis Post-Dispatch)

UNITED NATIONS, July 6.

EXCEPT FOR THE ISSUE of Kuwait, which is not expected to stir any very deep conflict, this international arena is quiet. But it is only a momentary pause, a brief interlude, before the United Nations becomes again the storm center of the struggle between East and West.

Disarmament, China, perhaps sooner or later Berlin, the questions that deeply divide the two halves of the world, will be before the General Assembly. There is increasing evidence that the Soviet Union intends shortly after the Assembly convenes on Sept. 19 to charge the United States with refusing to discuss disarmament in any meaningful fashion.

That is why the proposal is being put forward that Washington take the initiative and document this same charge, possibly even going so far as to call for a special session of the Assembly as a forum. The position that Valerian Zorin, Soviet delegate to the U.N., has taken in talks in Washington with John J. McCloy, the President's special adviser on disarmament, is clearly in violation of the agreement reached in the spring between Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and Adlai E. Stevenson, the American U.N. delegate.

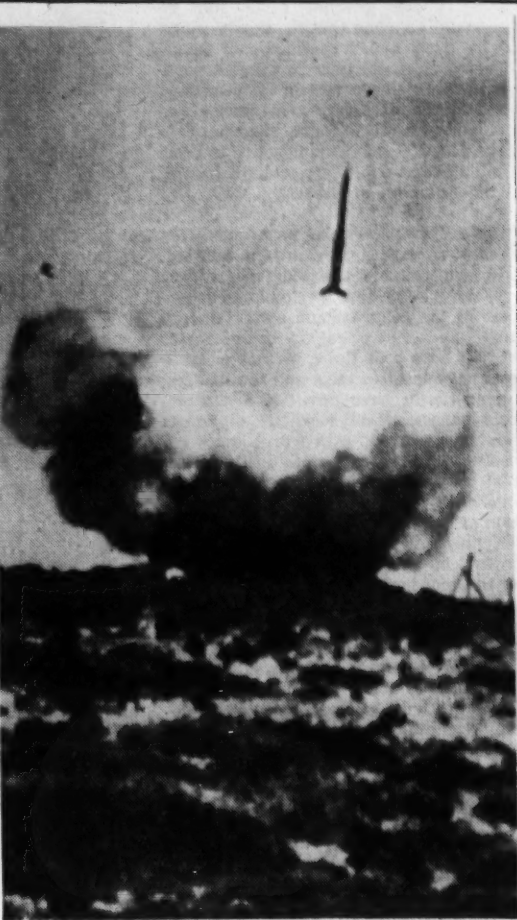

THE PRELIMINARY talks were to cover only the terms of reference—what nations were to participate in disarmament discussions at a later date. Zorin insists on trying to get McCloy to debate the main problems, including the Soviet proposal for control and total disarmament with control and inspection to follow, although what is to be controlled and inspected is highly doubtful.

For six months, Stevenson, now in Europe, as head of the American delegation has had a close and friendly relationship with the whole spectrum of U.N. officials saw it as a military act. Another newspaper urged the Arab nations to build up their arms.

Ben-Gurion said the three-stage solid fuel missile, launched yesterday from a secret site, was a "meteorological research rocket—definitely not a military matter."

An Arab League official said here that the Israeli development of the rocket "indicates Israel is still bent on aggression." The Arab states, he said, "will certainly give the most careful consideration to the development."

ARAB WORLD SEES ISRAEL'S ROCKET AS WAR THREAT

CAIRO, July 6 (UPI)—The Arab world today saw the launching of Israel's first rocket as proof that Israel is "bent on aggression."

One newspaper said the rocket showed that the Arab states must "attack the enemy," despite Israeli Prime Minister Ben-Gurion's assertion that the launching had "no military aim."

Governor Silent on Presidential Plans, but Aids Prepare.

By RICHARD P. HUNT

NEW YORK, July 6.

IN GOV. ROCKEFELLER'S office it is a breach of etiquette these days to talk about 1964. Nevertheless he keeps at hand a team capable of waging a presidential campaign at a moment's notice.

The Governor insists he is interested only in trying to get a Republican elected mayor of New York City this year, and in his own campaign for re-election in 1962.

"Beyond that," his aids say, "he has not given any thought to the future."

But some of the men around him are thinking of the future, and the Governor's posture of keeping his eye firmly fixed on Albany, rather than Washington, fits in well with their long-term strategy.

This strategy is to avoid becoming involved in a feud with former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the other leading contenders for the Republican nomination for the presidency three years from now.

AT THE SAME TIME Rockefeller is being urged to select areas where he can differ sharply and clearly from President Kennedy, establishing a position that is both liberal and different from the Democratic line. One area under study is civil rights.

In this way the Governor's advisers hope he may be able to steer safely between two perils.

On the one hand, they want him to avoid letting Nixon take over the role of the middle-of-the-road peacemaker figure in the Republican Party, standing between a liberal Rockefeller and a conservative Goldwater.

On the other hand, they want him to satisfy Republicans that he is a real member of his party, despite his old associations with the Democrats in the Roosevelt

FBI Inquiry Into Alleged Leak Viewed as Slap at Pentagon

President's Action Seems to Imply No Confidence in McNamara's Investigatory Powers.

By HANSON W. BALDWIN
© New York Times News Service

NEW YORK, July 6.

WHITE HOUSE-PENTAGON relations reached a new low last week as FBI agents "invaded" the Pentagon. The agents were sent there at the direct order of the President in an attempt to discover the source of an alleged leak about the nation's prospective military preparations to deal with the Berlin crisis.

It was apparently the first time the Federal Bureau of Investigation had superseded the security agencies maintained by the services within the Pentagon. The FBI's first target was the joint staff of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a top planning agency.

Military officers, already shaken by the President's expressed lack of confidence in the Joint Chiefs of Staff and by the appointment of Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor as military representative of the President, were disheartened. They viewed the use of the FBI as somewhat degrading. Some of them predicted the "leak" would not be traced to uniformed personnel and pointed out that the published material that had aroused the President had been discussed before a large audience in a State Department briefing.

THE STORY that prompted the FBI investigation was a brief account—entitled "Pentagon Plan" in the July 3 issue of Newsweek magazine. It suggested military measures that might be taken to meet the Berlin crisis. The measures proposed, according to Newsweek, included the evacuation of dependents in Germany and France; the reinforcement of United States forces in Germany; the declaration of a limited emergency, the call-up of four National Guard divisions and other steps.

All of these possibilities, and others, had been discussed openly in Washington for some time and were known to other publications. The President's reaction, therefore, surprised the Pentagon. His use of the FBI also widened the breach between the White House and the Pentagon, for, in effect, this action seemed to imply no confidence in the investigatory powers of the Secretary of Defense persuaded the President to retain Gen. Lemnitzer, but he did not oppose Gen. Taylor's appointment as military representative, although he was worried at the possible intrusion of another echelon between his office and the White House.

McNamara's concern about the way the Taylor position may work out is shared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff and especially by the Army. The reason is clear: It is feared that Gen.

The AMA's Confusion

The American Medical Association in convention became involved in its perennial diatribe against what it chooses to call "socialized medicine."

I think a careful look at terminology is in order. As I understand it, anything that is "socialized" is sponsored by the government, be it local, county, state or Federal government, and is financed by the government from public tax funds. The fire department, federal highway construction, etc., are examples of socialized programs at opposite ends of the governmental scale.

Also included as a "socialistic" endeavor would necessarily be the free health clinics available to persons with few financial resources. Free health clinics should not be confused, however, with government-planned health insurance such as has been proposed for the aged under the social security system. Health insurance is paid for by the persons who ultimately will benefit from it. Health insurance is not a dole system at all comparable with free clinics.

We will probably continue to have free clinics for people who need health care and can't afford it, but we will also continue to develop health insurance plans, public as well as private, which will diminish the need for free clinics. Where is the doctor who is opposed to socialized medicine and will dare to say that all free clinics should be abolished, as they are the only true examples of socialized medicine in the United States?

Frankly, I feel the AMA should be in the vanguard in assisting the Federal government in developing necessary standards for the implementation of a Federal health insurance system. If doctors are truly interested in serving the sick and disabled let them serve the ill in humane ways that will guarantee patients their economic integrity.

My comments above are directed at the dominating voices in the American Medical Association. I realize that the AMA does not speak for all doctors within the AMA and without who do not share the official opinion of the organization.

A Consolidated Terminal

Because the traveling public pays the bill, it would seem that their interests should come first, and be better served if the present bus terminal at Broadway and Delmar were moved to Union Station.

The railroads and the bus companies could jointly use these facilities, where there is ample room for all.

Several years ago the city of New Orleans consolidated its rail and bus facilities, which has proved very satisfactory. It would be far less expensive to do this than build a new bus terminal.

Sebastian Litman

Taxes for the Orchestra

The four-point program for the support of the orchestra outlined by the Steering Committee of the Friends of the St. Louis Symphony makes good sense.

The first point—city and state funds to help defray part of the annual cost of operating the orchestra—is critical.

There are precedents for municipal tax support of symphony orchestras in this country. For example, the voters of San Francisco in 1935 approved a one-half cent tax levy for the express purpose of helping to maintain the San Francisco Symphony. Additionally, the San Francisco orchestra receives a grant of $10,000 annually from the city's publicity and advertising fund.

These municipal funds are by no means sufficient to meet the orchestra's regular operating costs; ticket sales and donations by individuals and businesses provide the bulk of the money.

Cannot St. Louis meet in part the challenge posed by the present plight of its orchestra by giving it substantial tax support? Nothing could be more effective in restoring luster to our somewhat tarnished reputation as a city that cares about music.

Thomas M. Newell

Footnote on Survival

As a footnote to your good editorial on "National Survival" I should like to suggest that if salvation can be found, it must come about through a counter-movement of people—starting in this country and born of a vast moral regeneration.

Whether such a regeneration is possible, whether it is not perhaps already too late, no one can say. But it is surely a prerequisite of survival as a relatively free people.

The Decision on Nuclear Testing

The decision President Kennedy must make on whether to resume testing atomic weapons is as complex as it is portentous. Why this is so has been explained by members of the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch in a series of analytical articles published within the last fortnight. No one could read these dispatches without being impressed by the ramifications of this critical issue, in which fact, conjecture and emotion are intermingled. The main points, as our correspondents have presented them, are as follows:

National Security. There has been an unexpected moratorium on testing since October 1958. Whether the Soviet Union has been secretly testing underground is not known; President Kennedy has ordered an investigation to bring out as many facts as possible. A conclusive answer may not be obtainable. The theory that the Russians have not been testing rests not on their word but on the consequences to their world position should they be found out. Many competent persons think they have been testing. Bearing in mind that the United States and Russia have at hand the means to destroy one another, does the United States need to test new weapons and refinements of present ones?

New Devices. Some scientists think it is possible to produce a "clean" hydrogen bomb, that is, one devoid of lingering radioactive fallout. This would be the neutron bomb, which in one form would destroy human beings without wrecking their cities, and which in another would spread a cloud of neutrons above a potential target with the object of exploding or neutralizing nuclear warheads of incoming enemy missiles. If such a cloud were feasible it would obviously have enormous defensive potentialities, at least temporarily.

Who Would Gain More? The consensus seems to be that, technologically speaking, the Soviet Union has more to gain from renewed testing than the United States. But, in a different field, the country that first resumes testing risks loss of respect among nations and individuals seeking peace and disarmament. For further testing would stimulate the arms race. One theory is that the Russians want to push the United States into testing first, so they will have an excuse for resuming their own experiments. There could be elements of a Soviet trap in this situation.

World Opinion. The United States is unfortunately suspect in the matter of nuclear weapons, since this country is the only one to have used the atomic bomb in war. The fact that it was used on Japan has never been forgotten by Asians; nor has it been forgotten by Soviet propagandists. If it can be made to appear that the United States initiated a new test series, the trend to neutralism in England and the Scandinavian nations, as well as in Asia and Africa, would be increased.

Health. Underground tests would be harmless, but they would almost inevitably lead to testing above ground, since the argument would be made that the new weapons should be tried under conditions of actual use. There is a moral issue in whether countries have the right to risk in above-ground tests a measure of increase in cancer and birth abnormalities and some shortening of life expectancy through radioactive fallout. The United States would try to limit fallout; would the Russians, or others?

Domestic Pressures. The most persistent advocates of renewed testing are the military, who are responsible for the defense of the country; the Atomic Energy Commission and members of the congressional atomic energy committee, and some scientists. United States setbacks in Laos and Cuba, virtual collapse of the Geneva test-ban talks and the looming crisis over Berlin have provided arguments for preparedness. Many scientists, diplomats and persons concerned with moral issues oppose testing or have a go-slow attitude. To his great credit, Mr. Kennedy has refused to be panicked by the advocates of a quick resumption of testing.

Mr. Kennedy is responsible for the safety of the nation, and as President and Commander in Chief he is privy to classified information not generally available. His ultimate decision will be based on this as well as on the points that can be appraised and debated by the public. We think the evidence in the public domain argues for a continuation of the testing moratorium, at least until all diplomatic approaches have been exhausted and until it is clear beyond doubt that the Russians cannot be shaken in their advocacy of the troika principle. This implies Soviet veto power over the machinery of policing a test-ban and is unacceptable to the West.

If the President concludes, on the basis of his special knowledge and after careful, unhurried and detached study, that the national security demands a resumption of testing, he will have to proceed, and he will surely have the country's support. But regardless of what this decision may be, the Administration should give the widest world publicity, before the United Nations and by other means, to the genuine and sustained effort the United States has made in pursuit of a test-ban agreement. This is a highly creditable record, and it should be universally known.

John Donne, testifying to the unity of mankind, and of another from words of the most supreme affirmation in the Book of Ecclesiastes: "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh; but the earth abideth forever. . . The sun also ariseth, and the sun goeth down, and hasteth to the place where he arose. . . All the rivers run into the sea; yet the sea is not full; unto the place from whence the rivers come, thither they return again."

Just About Unanimous

Strong indorsement of the Ozark Rivers National Monument is contained in a report being submitted by the Department of Agriculture at hearings on the proposal to preserve the Current, Jacks Fork and Eleven Point rivers in their natural state, the Post-Dispatch has learned.

This makes the backing of the bills introduced by Senators Symington and Long and Representative Ichord virtually unanimous. It is especially important since Representative Curtis of Webster Groves has introduced an alternative bill which would have placed the Ozark area under control of the United States Forest Service, an agency of the Department of Agriculture.

As stated in a Missouri legislative resolution, it was feared that this might delay the project by entangling it in federal inter-departmental rivalry. It is reported, however, that after a recent visit to Missouri where he discussed the matter, Secretary of Agriculture Freeman decided that he would not permit an agency in his jurisdiction to be drawn into such a damaging sham battle.

As a matter of fact, Representative Curtis has been no more than lukewarm in favor of his measure. In the last session, he introduced a bill which would have created the natural monument under the National Park Service; and lately he has been explaining that he introduced the Forest Service bill only to be sure that the presentation of alternatives would insure the choice of the best possible method of preserving the rivers and their banks. With the possible exception of some land owners, it seems that all concerned are now agreed that the agency for the job is the Park Service. And it is possible that committees of the Senate and the House will also come to this conclusion before the week's end.

Gen. MacArthur Returns

It is understandable that Gen. Douglas MacArthur should have a special place in the hearts of Filipinos, who showed their affection for him in many ways during his sentimental visit to the Philippines after an absence of 15 years. And this brilliant American officer, now 81 years old, spoke wisely when he told the Philippine Congress that modern weapons have "destroyed the possibility of war being a medium for the practical settlement of international differences."

"Global war has become a Frankenstein to destroy both sides," Gen. MacArthur said. "No longer is it a weapon of adventure—the short cut to international power. If you lose, you are annihilated. If you win, you stand only to lose. . . it contains now only the germs of suicide."

This truth is somewhat in contrast to the views Gen. MacArthur still holds on the Korean war. In his speech he again deplored the restraints put on him by Washington and said that had he been permitted to "see it through . . . we would have destroyed Red China's capability of waging modern war for generations to come; our failure to win that war was a major disaster for the free world."

What President Truman feared was that Gen. MacArthur's plans would have hopelessly and endlessly embroiled the United States in a Chinese morass. It is unfortunate that Gen. MacArthur cannot bring his insight of today to bear on the problems of the past.

"WE'VE GOT IT! A TRANQUILIZER FOR KEFAUVER!"

No Short Cut for Regulators

Administration's Tactical Error Being Overcome as Reforms Progress for 'Fourth Branch'

The Baltimore Sun

Implicit in the congressional rebuffs dealt to the Administration's plans for making over the dismally bad federal regulatory agencies is the need for skill practice at the White House.

Sober consideration of the facts of life as they prevail on Capitol Hill would have cautioned the presidential staff to make a different approach with its reorganization measures. Instead, Congress was offended on a series of counts and in consequence is methodically knocking down the proposals as each is brought up.

The Mirror
Public Opinion

James M. Landis, the White House specialist on the regulatory agencies, overlooked the elementary precaution of talking things over with the congressional leadership before sending plans to the Capitol.

Moreover, the short-cut approach tried by the White House sought to alter legislation by executive order, a course repugnant to the lawmakers. The legislature was already wary of what it suspected was an Administration plan to install at the White House a czar over the technically independent agencies which were created by Congress as its own agents.

Almost everyone in Congress shares the executive conviction that an overhaul of the regulatory commissions is long overdue. Legislation is beginning to move, and the outlook is that ultimately the Administration will get by this method much of what it had hoped to hasten by executive order.

Flexibility, the principal aim of the Landis proposals, is an acute need in all of the agencies. Long delays in rulings often defeat the purposes for which the commissions — the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Federal Communications Commission, the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission — were established as a fourth branch of government with quasi-judicial functions.

One Federal Trade Commission case dragged out for 17 years. The Federal Communications Commission habitually takes five years and longer to decide on awards of television channels, and the Civil Aeronautics Board needs three years to settle where and when an airliner shall fly. At that pace the CAB will be another century getting around to a review of the baggage allowance for airline passengers, still fixed at the poundage established in the horse-and-buggy age of air travel.

Turnovers in personnel, voluntary and otherwise, contribute to the slow action. Although appointments to the CAB are for six years, its chairmen have stayed an average of less than two. A significant number of agency members leave the Government for bigger pay in the industries they have been "regulating." Since the war the agencies have been a political dumping ground, peopled largely by hacks and lame ducks, and by weak sisters unable to withstand blandishments or pressure from favor seekers.

At bottom, the remedy for what ails the agencies is abler men on the commissions. There have been encouraging indications that the Administration understands this.

The scare thrown into the broadcasting business by the plainspoken new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission was a natural consequence of its years of dealing with docile commissioners in that agency.

Paul Rand Dixon, new chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, is already shaking that lethargic outfit.

Terms of commissioners overlap Administrations, and it will be the end of next year before President Kennedy gets working majorities on most of the watchdog agencies.

Between Book Ends A Lesson on Moholes

A HOLE IN THE BOTTOM OF THE SEA, by Willard Bascom. (Doubleday, 352 pgs., $4.95.)

Will the class please come to order while we attempt to launch a man into inner space. Since this plan is probably premature, let's at least drill a Mohole.

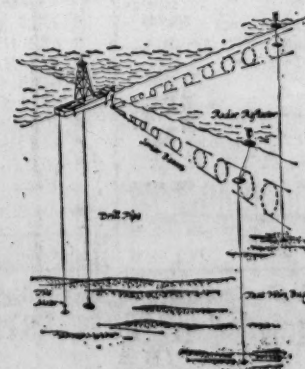

A what?

That's right, a Mohole. We are fortunate to have with us Mr. Willard Bascom, the scientific director of the A.M.S.O.C. Committee of the United States' National Academy of Sciences. A.M.S.O.C., as you all know, is the American Miscellaneous Society which takes an interest in all projects which seem a little cockeyed to more serious-minded, stuff-shirt societies. Mr. Bascom, would you please explain why you want to drill a Mohole.

Thank you, ladies and gentlemen, for your kind reception. The project in question is really very simple. Scientists want to know exactly what the interior of the earth is made of, so they plan to drill a hole, where the crust is thin, to get a sample. The thinnest place is under the ocean.

A great Yugoslavian scientist, Andrija Mohorovicic, while studying the seismic waves of an earthquake in 1908, made a momentous discovery. He noticed that the seismicographic stations were recording two sets of waves, one faster and one slower set. He found that their speed depended on the earth's layers, and the depth at which the seismic waves abruptly increase in velocity is now called the Mohorovicic discontinuity. Beneath it is the mantle, above it is the crust. The boundary is now known as the Moho. Our theories about the structures of the layers beneath the ocean need to be verified, and that's why we want to drill holes to bring up rock samples for further investigations—Moholes, what else?

The story of the world, geologically speaking, is still untold. All investigations indicate that the world is at least five billion years old, of which man has been around for about 250,000 years, of which at most 5000 years are recorded. In those five billion years a lot of things have happened. Continents were formed and have been shoved around during many geological revolutions, and the gaps between them were filled with water. But do not be too impressed with the fact that water covers two thirds of the globe's surface to an average depth of four kilometers, or about 2.5 miles, because this is only a thin film on the earth.

The questions which must be answered are the following: What is the age of the earth? What is the age of the crust, of the ocean, of the earliest sediments? How old is life itself? What is the structure of the oceanic crust? What is the density of the crustal components and the outer mantle? How much heat-creating radioactivity does each layer contain? Drilling a series of holes in the ocean may answer some of these questions. We also may get answers to questions which have not yet been asked. And let us not forget that the exploration of outer space will probably be incomplete without exploration of our own earth.

But how can it be done? Is there a drill that can possibly reach a depth of nearly 40,000 feet? It has been determined that the depth of various layers is at approximately 28,000 feet.

Since it is expected that beneath the sea we do not encounter the same high temperatures as in drilling on land, we are reasonably certain that we can drill our Moholes.

Surveys of the most advantageous sites have been made at many points. Most promising appears a spot between Guadalupe Island and the Mexican coast. But additional surveys will have to be made.

You may ask how the pipe is driven into the bottom of the ocean. The drill has a diamond bit. An elastic riser pipe of nylon-like plastic floats on buoys beneath the surface, and during the drilling the pipe is stretched up into the well by constant tension winches. In order to prevent the pipe from tearing from the bottom, the pipe will be weighted at the sea floor and cemented to the hard rocks of the second layer.

What scientific information do we expect from such an operation? We hope to obtain continuous core samples of all the rocks penetrated, we expect to conduct oceanographic measurements, and we intend to leave instruments in the completed hole which will take records over a period of years. When the hole is completed, scientists hope to have an essentially continuous rod-shaped core of rock about 2.5 inches in diameter and three miles long. The core barrels will be retrieved by a wire line equipped with a latching clip. Since it will be difficult to tell when the Moho is reached, we will have to drill hundreds of feet into the mantle to be sure.

Many other problems are connected with the Moho project, but time does not permit to touch on all of them. We don't know whether our investigation will bring about a change in man's concept of earth. But it is a task that has to be done.

Thank you, Mr. Bascom. And when the first Mohole has been drilled and the results have been evaluated, please come back with another report as exciting as the one you have given us. Class dismissed. Gerhardt Neumann

PARIS.

THE KUWAIT CRISIS REMINDS US that this century's most profound revolution is not that promoted by Lenin, but that which sprang from Wilson's vague ideas on self-determination. In fact there is a striking contrast between the results of two revolutions.

Since 1922 the Soviet Union, that is to say Russia without its present satellites, has been expanding at the rate of 30 square miles a day or 10,940 square miles a year. At the same time, while Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia lost their liberty to Moscow, 39 received freedom either by grant or by battle from the great imperial powers. Two events made trouble in Kuwait inevitable. The first was the 1946 oil strike in the tiny sheikdom which suddenly turned it into a treasure trove instead of a minor transshipment port to Bombay.

The second was the independence of India (and Pakistan) to which region the fate of Kuwait and the Persian Gulf is tightly linked. Under the suzerainty first of Persia, then of the declining Ottoman Empire, the gulf sheiks were allowed to establish relations with Britain's East India Company.

Artificial Boundaries.

These were followed by protectorate treaties between London as the Indian Raj, and the rulers of Kuwait, Bahrain, Qatar, the Trucial states and Muscat and Oman, all of which have oil. When India became sovereign, Britain's regional strength slackened.

Yet petroleum wealth alone is not necessarily justification for nationhood. The boundaries of these sheikdoms are artificial, just as were the boundaries established in Africa or some parts of Asia by European empires.

One might argue that the sheikdom of Abu Dhabi, still under British protection, has no more eventual claim to sovereignty than French Brittany.

25,992 AT SHRINE CIRCUS FOR FINAL PERFORMANCE

A total of 25,992 persons witnessed the sixth and final performance of the nineteenth annual Moolah Shrine circus and fireworks display at Public Schools Stadium last night.

The attendance figure established a record gate in the circus' history. Monday's total of 22,312 had broken the previous record. More than 100,000 persons attended the six performances this year.

Proceeds of the shows will be given to the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children and 23 other welfare agencies. Chairman of this year's circus was Stanley Wurtz, president of Stanley Photo Service.

'KISS ME KATE' IS NEXT AT OPERA

Opens Monday — Favorites of Other Years to Be in Cast.

"Kiss Me Kate" will open at the Municipal Opera for a week's engagement Monday at 8:15 p.m. with a cast containing favorites of previous seasons in Forest Park.

Featured in the cast will be Miss Patricia Morison, Earl Wrightson and Miss Peggy King. In addition, several Forest Park newcomers will be in the cast. They are Richard Tone, Miss Rosetta LaNoire and Scott and Norman Wallace, brothers.

Cole Porter's musical first appeared at the Municipal Opera in 1953 and was here again in 1956. Miss Morison will play the role of Lilli Vanessi, a part which she played in the original Broadway cast in 1948. She has appeared at Forest Park previously with "Kiss Me Kate" and "The King and I." She also has appeared in motion pictures and television.

Wrightson, playing Fred Graham, has been on the Jack Paar television show several times and played in "Knights of Song" last summer at Forest Park. He has starred on Broadway and played many supper clubs and concerts.

Miss King will play the part of Lois Lane. She played Esther in the Municipal Opera's 1960 production of "Meet Me in St. Louis" and had a leading role in the motion picture "Zero Hour." Miss King appeared as a singer on the George Gobel television show.

Completing the cast will be several Municipal Opera veterans. They are Lew Herbert, Joseph Cusanelli, Edmund Lyndeck, F. J. O'Neil and Pablo Flores.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. M. J. BOULICAULT

Funeral services for Mrs. Nellie Jane Boulicault, widow of Marcel Justin Boulicault, prominent St. Louis architect, were held today at the Lupton undertaking establishment, 7233 Delmar boulevard, University City, with burial in Valhalla cemetery.

Mrs. Boulicault died yesterday of leukemia at St. Luke's Hospital. She was 54 years old. Her husband died last Feb. 3 of cancer at the age of 64. Mrs. Boulicault lived at 4950 Lindell boulevard.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. William R. Simmons, Houston, Tex.; a sister, Mrs. Ruth Shirley, and three brothers, Perry, Charles and Tom Wise, all of Fort Worth, Tex., and a grandson.

Future Homemaker Officers

FUNERAL HELD IN OHIO FOR WILLIAM F. NESBIT

Funeral services for William F. Nesbit, former St. Louisan, were held today at New Concord, O., with burial there.

Mr. Nesbit, 50 years old, died Tuesday of a heart ailment at his home in Perrysburg, O., where he was in business. He was the son of the late Rev. Dr. Edwin C. Nesbit, pastor emeritus of Tyler Place Presbyterian Church. A graduate of John Burroughs School and Westminster College, Mr. Nesbit was connected with manufacturing firms in Detroit, St. Louis and Dallas before moving to Ohio. The Nesbit home formerly was at 2924 Allen avenue.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Sara Perry Ervin, formerly of Webster Groves; two sons, a daughter; his mother, and a sister, Mrs. Lawrence E. Laybourne, Toronto, Canada.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. OLGA FAERBER

Funeral services for Mrs. Olga Faerber, a yodeler of Swiss parentage, were held today at the Wacker-Heldler undertaking establishment, 3634 Gravois avenue. Burial was in Park Lawn Cemetery.

Mrs. Faerber, 88 years old, died Monday at Lutheran Hospital following on operation. She performed on Station KSD's first radio program in 1924 and sang in the St. Louis area.

Survivors include a son, Albert H. Biermann of East Chester, N.Y.; three grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

SISTER, BROTHER REUNITED FIRST TIME IN 37 YEARS

Frank Connelly, 250 Brackleigh lane, Florissant, is being visited this week by his sister, Mrs. Frances Mitchell, Dundee, Scotland, whom he had not seen in about 37 years.

Connelly left Scotland at the age of 3 after the death of his mother. He was adopted by an aunt and brought to the United States. His father, who at that time was employed in India, now lives in Dundee. Connelly has four other sisters who live in Scotland and England. He has not seen the other members of his family since coming to the United States.

He and his sister have spent many hours talking since her arrival Monday. Most of the conversation has been about their family and has lasted until late at night.

MME. DE GAULLE SENDS DOLL HOUSE TO CAROLINE

WASHINGTON, July 6 (UPI)—Madame Charles de Gaulle, wife of the French President, has sent a doll house to 3-year-old Caroline Kennedy.

The four-foot-high white doll house with a slanting red roof arrived at the White House about a week ago. It has white-curtained windows and flower boxes with roses adorning it. Across the front is written "Caroline."

The house was filled with stuffed animals for 9-month-old John F. Kennedy Jr. and dolls for Caroline.

SARA LOCKWOOD WILLIAMS DIES AT COLUMBIA, MO.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 6—Mrs. Sara Lockwood Williams, widow of Walter Williams, founder of the School of Journalism at the University of Missouri, died today at Boone County Hospital of cancer. She was 71 years old.

A graduate of the journalism school in 1913, she was married to Williams in 1927 while she was employed by the Honolulu Star-Bulletin. Mrs. Williams had taught journalism at the University of Missouri, University of Texas, Washington University in St. Louis and at a university in China. She also was the author of several books and numerous magazine articles.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

EXAMINATIONS MONDAY FOR TWO U.S. ACADEMIES

Civil service designation examinations to assist in selecting the 1962 candidates for the United States Merchant Marine Academy and the United States Air Force Academy from the East St. Louis congressional district will be at 8:30 a.m. Monday.

The examinations will be at 414 Federal Building, 750 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, and West Junior High School, 1513 State street, Alton, Representative Melvin Price (Dem.), Illinois announced.

High school graduates or students in their senior year of high school, 17 to 21 years old, are eligible.

IDEAS CALLED GIFT OF YOUTH TO WORLD

Future Homemakers' Near End of Four-Day Session Here.

The young idea is the gift that American youth can bring to a confused world through co-operation between individuals, correlation of spiritual and material values and family and national cohesion. 900 members of the Future Homemakers of America meeting here were told today.

The Rev. Walter K. Kerr, executive director of the Youth for God and Freedom Foundation, Tyler, Tex., discussed the values of "Youth in Today's World" before the four-day annual national meeting of high school home economics students, which ends today at the Chase and Park Plaza Hotel.

The Rev. Mr. Kerr said that although the Communist manifesto equates all history with class conflict, the United States must continue to prove that co-operation must underlie all worthwhile competition. He said the seeds of this co-operation lie in world youth, who "look on each other not as problems but as possibilities."

He observed further that although Communist youth are preoccupied with material values, most young persons see the need to correlate all aspects of life better than their parents do. Only cohesive values, on an international, national and personal scale, he said, can build a foundation for world peace.

The theme of the future homemaker's meeting is "Youth—Measure Your Values!" Delegates today participated in a survey to determine what values are important to high school economics students.

The survey was conducted by Glenn R. Hawkes, head of the Department of Child Development, Iowa State University.

At the closing session tonight, Hawkes and 22 adult advisers from the 250 accompanying the delegates will present the results of the 128-question survey. "From this will come a picture of seven major values and their relative importance to Future Homemakers," Hawkes said. He did not predict the results.

NEW KIWANIS PRESIDENT

TORONTO, July 6 (AP)—I. R. (Whitey) Witthuhn of Milwaukee was elected president of Kiwanis International yesterday. He succeeds J. O. Tally Jr. of Fayetteville, N.C., and will take his post Aug. 1.

Other officers elected include C. L. Morris, Springfield, Ill., one of three vice presidents.

HEMINGWAY BURIED BESIDE OLD FRIEND

Interment Near Body of Hunting Companion in Idaho.

KETCHUM, Idaho, July 6 (UPI)—Author Ernest Hemingway was buried today beside the grave of an old friend and hunting companion.

The 61-year-old Nobel and Pulitzer Prize winner died Sunday of a shotgun blast in the head. It was ruled self-inflicted, but authorities made no determination as to whether it was accidental.

The Hemingway family, three sons, a brother and three sisters, was brought together by the funeral for the first time in 30 years.

The author, an outdoorsman himself, was buried near Taylor Williams, hunting and fishing guide who was Mr. Hemingway's frequent companion for 20 years prior to his death in 1959.

Patrick Hemingway, one of the three sons, arrived in Ketchum last night from Africa where he had been hunting.

Mr. Hemingway's fourth wife, Mary, remained in seclusion until the simple graveside services. They were conducted by the Rev. Robert J. Waldmann, pastor of Sun Valley's Our Lady of the Snows Catholic Church.

FUNERAL TO BE TOMORROW FOR MISS AMANDA SUNKEL

Funeral services for Miss Amanda Sunkel, principal of the Jefferson School in Belleville for 32 years, will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at St. Luke's Catholic Church, 301 North Church street, Belleville. Burial will be in Mount Carmel Cemetery.

Miss Sunkel, 83 years old, died yesterday of infirmities at the Herald Nursing Home. She taught in the Belleville grade school system for 44 years, retiring in 1944. Her father, the late Frederick Sunkel, was mayor of Belleville from 1895 to 1897.

Surviving are two sisters, Miss Wilhelmina and Miss Eugenia Sunkel of 315 North Church street, with whom she lived.

LEMNITZER SAYS U.S. CAN'T YIELD ANOTHER YARD

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer has said the United States cannot afford to give up one more yard to Communism for "we have been on the losing end for too long a time."

Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said in testimony made public yesterday by the House Foreign Affairs Committee "that it is not for the military to decide" when a stand will have to be made.

He agreed with a questioner, however, that such a stand will have to be made.

Lemnitzer agreed with Representative Horace Seely-Brown (Rep.), Connecticut, that for the present the only alternative to further losses was to hold the line.

Lemnitzer gave his views in a discussion of Southeast Asia. He described the Communist guerrilla threat to South Viet Nam as "very dangerous."

Another top official voiced confidence in the power of NATO's nuclear striking force despite a hands-off attitude by France and Britain's independence in atomic weapons.

Assistant Secretary of State Foy D. Kohler told the committee the actual nuclear strength of NATO is high and amply provided for by atomic stockpiles in Europe, by delivery means in the hands of United States and allied forces and by the American promise to commit Polaris missile submarines in 1963.

Kohler said United States and NATO policy on nuclear capability was unchanged by the current emphasis on increasing conventional warfare strength in Europe. He defined that policy as a determination that nuclear weapons should be available in the NATO theater "and be used in case of need."

He testified that the concept of a nuclear force owned, manned and operated by NATO developed late in the Eisenhower Administration, is not being pushed since it is "not now considered a matter of great urgency."

WINS $100 IN ELEPHANT WEIGHT GUESSING CONTEST

Mrs. Ann Niemann, of 9415 Eastchester drive, Jennings, has won the elephant weight guessing contest, sponsored by Downtown St. Louis, Inc., it was announced yesterday at the final performance of the Moolah Shrine Circus.

Mrs. Niemann estimated the combined weight of the five elephants that performed in the circus at 25,376 pounds and 13 ounces. Their exact weight was 25,410 pounds, which was 33 pounds and three ounces more than Mrs. Niemann's guess. She was awarded a $100 gift certificate.

Other winners were Mrs. Leonard H. Battiger, 1200 Longridge, Bellefontaine Neighbors, second place; and Miss Carolyn Broda, 744 North 38th street, East St. Louis, third place.

WIFE FINDS HUSBAND DEAD WITH PISTOL AT HIS SIDE

Timothy V. Hartmann, 620 Union road, Affton, was found dead from a bullet wound yesterday in a bedroom at his home. A pistol was beside him.

His wife, Edna, said she had brought him home from a hospital, where he had undergone an operation, and had left him in the bedroom. She heard a shot shortly after she went into the kitchen, she said. Hartmann was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital from a wound in the right temple.

Hartmann, 58 years old, was a supervisor for an automobile parts manufacturer.

representation. Based on Stevenson's world travels and his stature as an eloquent spokesman for the great traditions of the West, he has added a dimension such as few individuals could have done.

Stevenson survived the unhappy business of Cuba, although not without the expenditure of some of the political capital accumulated from the past that has made him such an outstanding figure here. Contrary to those who have sought to put the blame on him for the Cuban fiasco by intimating that he intervened at a critical point, Stevenson's associates say he had no prior knowledge whatsoever of either of the two planned air strikes which were to have prepared the way for the invasion by the exile forces.

Because he knew nothing of the use of American planes, he made his eloquent speech insisting that American force had not been used and proclaiming the right of exiles to fight for the freedom of their own land. Whatever this may have cost him in terms of the diminution of his reputation among the delegates, he gave no public indication of what he felt. As a field commander who had suffered a loss along with his commander-in-chief, he accepted it as part of the fate of battle.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY, in sending Stevenson on his recent strenuous 18-day tour of 10 Latin American nations, showed that he understands what his U.N. delegate has to offer. This is, above all, the faith that millions not only in Latin America but everywhere have in him as a voice bespeaking the noblest and best in the inheritance that made this country a symbol of freedom and strength for oppressed peoples.

Certain of the cynical power operators now in Washington seem to have no comprehension of this role and what it means. In a wartime conference, Stalin, when the influence of the Vatican in a particular situation was raised, is supposed to have asked how many divisions the Pope could command. Apocryphal or not, this was an extreme example of the military reckoner with no understanding whatsoever of the underlying values that motivate Western man.

Hardly surprising in Stalin, who had made himself a complete despot over many millions of helpless people in a large area of the earth and who could abruptly reverse Soviet policy in the deal with Nazi Germany in 1939, power as power cannot be the motivating force where people have a free choice. The hard fact of force in being is an essential in a deeply divided world. But what people believe, the faith they hold, the ideals they cherish, these are as real as tanks and missiles.

It is his conviction of this that through all the ups and downs of his unhappy political career has continued to give Stevenson his following almost everywhere in the non-Communist world. If this asset is squandered needlessly, it will be a loss to the nation.

The task that Stevenson faces at the next Assembly meeting is likely to be far more difficult than what he has just been through. He does not make policy. That is done by the President and the Secretary of State. But the policy he carries out must be consistent with the man and the promise that his presence in the United Nations implies.

FBI-Pentagon

Taylor, with his position at the right hand of power, may offer advice contrary to that sponsored by the Army or the Pentagon. In fact, this already appears to be happening. Gen. Taylor is known to have questioned the feasibility of the Army's plans—approved by McNamara—to step up reserve readiness and to have two reserve divisions ready for deployment in three weeks and eight others in five to eight weeks. Gen. Taylor, while Army chief of staff, was instrumental in the creation of the present pentomic division; he has questioned the advisability of scrapping in the near future the present division organization and creating a new divisional organization, a step already approved by McNamara.

THE PRESIDENT's relationships with the chiefs of staff are also affected by the Taylor appointment and recent developments. One of the chiefs who was in office at the time of the Cuban invasion has retired, as scheduled, at the end of his term; another is about to do so, Gen. Thomas D. White, chief of staff of the Air Force, left office last week and was succeeded by Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, former vice chief and commander of the Strategic Air Command. Gen. LeMay was not the first choice of Pentagon civilians to fill the top job; Gen. F. H. Smith Jr., now the vice chief of staff but the Air Force Commander in Europe, was the candidate of the Secretary of the Air Force, Eugene M. Zuckert, and other civilian officials. On the other hand, Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., former commander of the Sixth Fleet and now Chief of Naval Operations designate, was selected by Secretary of the Navy John B. Connally, McNamara and the President to succeed Adm. Arleigh A. Burke when he retires Aug. 1.

Gen. George H. Decker, Army Chief of Staff, completes a two-year tour in October 1961, or he could retire, at the pleasure of the President, when he reaches age 60 next February. Gen. Lemnitzer's two-year term as chairman of the joint chiefs expires Sept. 30, 1962.

The President's relationship with his military team was changed materially since last January and is subject to considerable additional change.

Rockefeller

and Truman administrations, and would not be stamped a "me-too" opponent to Mr. Kennedy.

IN PUTTING this strategy to work, the Governor is trying continuously to shape his views over the whole range of public policy, keep in contact with the Republican party everywhere, and build a sound vote-winning record in public office.

His organization for this job is not a tidy one. Some members of the team play two positions, and some are called on for placekicks only. But by squinting a little to blur confusing details, the outlines of a pattern can be seen.

The Rockefeller-staff may be analyzed as three rings: A personal circle, concerned with grand strategy and broad policies; a political circle, concerned with tactics and attitudes on specific questions, and an executive circle, concerned with running the state government.

In the center of the personal circle stands Emmet John Hughes, a 40-year-old former Democrat, who is employed by all of the five Rockefeller brothers as a senior adviser on public policy.

HUGHES, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Princeton University, wrote speeches for President Eisenhower in his 1952 campaign. He originated the "I shall go to Korea" speech, which led to Gen. Eisenhower's visit to that war-torn country.

After the election, Hughes stayed briefly in the White House as a speech writer. Then he returned to Time, Inc., and eventually became chief of foreign correspondents for both Time and Life. He helped Rockefeller in his campaign for Governor in 1958 and joined the Rockefeller brothers' staff last year.

At the center of the political circle is George L. Hinman, 55, a Binghamton lawyer whom Rockefeller made the Republican national committeeman for New York, handling national politics.

Hinman, another Princeton graduate, has extensive connections in upstate New York. He is close to William H. Hill, the political satrap of Binghamton, and to the Watson family of International Business Machines Corp. He is also retained as a part-time special counsel to the Rockefeller brothers.

AT THE CENTER of the executive circle is Dr. William John Ronan, secretary to the Governor. He is 48 years old, a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Syracuse University, a former professor of government and former dean of the graduate school of public administration at New York University.

Dr. Ronan was politically non-partisan until he became, as he puts it, "a Rockefeller Republican." He still is not much concerned with politics, except as it affects the state administration. His philosophy of government is a positive one.

"If an administration does not take active steps to go forward," he said once, "it slides backward. We must be dynamic. We must have a planned, intelligent aggressiveness."

SEVERAL OTHERS appear in the personal circle with Hughes, although probably none are as close to Rockefeller.

One is Roswell B. Perkins, a young lawyer who was assistant secretary of health, education and welfare in the Eisenhower Administration. He practices law privately, but on the side supervises the research staff at the Governor's New York City office.

Another is Dr. Stacy May, a former professor of economics at Dartmouth College, the Governor's alma mater. For many years he has been the principal economic adviser to the Rockefeller brothers. In World War II he was director of the bureau of planning statistics for the War Production Board.

On his personal staff Rockefeller also has Hugh Morrow, a former Washington reporter who now specializes in speech-writing. Malcolm Moos, a former professor of political science who followed Hughes as a White House speech writer, is joining the Rockefeller brothers' staff later this month.

connection between the failure of the world organization to reflect changes in the world—and Russia's plan for hamstringing the secretariat.

If some fundamental changes in the organization of the secretariat were made—including steps that would make the secretariat reflect more exactly the present state of the world—it would be possible to strengthen confidence in the U.N. as an independent force in the world?

ONE OBVIOUS move would be to bring into the secretariat a greater representation of the new nations and the neutralist nations as a counterpoise to the great powers, diplomats believe.

Hammarskjold has said that the Communist countries generally are not represented in the secretariat to the extent that their present weight in the scales of world power would seem to indicate. The reasons, he has said, are "historic." It has not always been easy to integrate qualified Russians in the U.N. secretariat.

On the other hand, United States influence in the world organization has from the beginning been strong. Andrew W. Cordier has been the number two man in the secretariat since the U.N. was founded. He is an American, as are Ralph J. Bunche and Paul Hoffman, two other highly placed and influential members of the secretariat.

Cordier, though a highly respected American citizen, has been able to function as an "international civil servant" whose objectivity has never been seriously questioned. Soviet citizens, by the nature of the Communist system, are Russians first. Hence Khrushchev's assertion that there are "no neutral men."

It has not served to allay Russian suspicions that the U.N. was stacked against their interests, that Cordier has been on the inside of every U.N. operation while the highest ranking Russian in the secretariat, Under Secretary Georgy Petrovich Arkadev, has not enjoyed the intimate confidence of the Secretary General.

Some diplomats have tried to dismiss the problem by saying, "You can't work with the Russians" under any circumstances. Hammarskjold, despite being the target of much Russian abuse, does not say this. The future of the U.N. is at stake and he intends to keep trying.

Tomorrow: The Hammarskjold plan for reorganizing the United Nations.

HEARING AUG. 15 ON PROPOSED ICC BAN ON BUS BIAS

By A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6 — The Interstate Commerce Commission will hold public hearings beginning Aug. 15 on a proposal by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy that the ICC issue regulations specifically banning racial discrimination in interstate bus transportation and stations. The Attorney General's request, an outgrowth of the rioting and other disturbances resulting from the rash of Freedom Rides to Mississippi and Alabama by bi-racial groups, was sent to the I.C.C. May 29.

The ICC, following its established procedure, decided June 19 it would consider issuing such rules. It issued an order calling on interested parties to submit written statements on the Attorney General's proposition by July 20, with oral arguments to be heard the next month. The ICC then will decide whether to accept, reject or modify the proposed regulations.

In his request to the ICC, which has jurisdiction under the Interstate Commerce Act over all interstate transportation, Attorney General Kennedy said that "the lack of rules has given rise to confusion on the part of motor carriers as to their duty to their passengers and has contributed, and will continue to contribute to unrest and civil disorder."

Quick Action Urged.

Kennedy urged the ICC to act "expeditiously as possible," asserting that it is the "unquestioned right" of all persons to travel between the states without being subjected to discrimination.

Kennedy asked that the ICC adopt regulations making clear that the Interstate Commerce Act forbids discrimination in bus travel or in waiting room and dining facilities in bus stations on regularly scheduled routes and to post the regulations in all busses and stations.

The ICC action was urged on the basis of a section of the Interstate Commerce Act which states that "it will be unlawful for any common carrier by motor vehicle engaged in interstate commerce to make, give or cause any undue or unreasonable preference or advantage to any particular person . . . in any respect whatsoever; or to subject any particular person . . . to any undue discrimination or any undue or unreasonable prejudice or disadvantage in any respect whatsoever."

The Negro and white 'Freedom Riders' arrested in Alabama, Mississippi and more recently in Florida, were charged with breach of peace for attempting to enter racially segregated waiting rooms and other facilities.

Precedent in 1955.

There is precedent for the ICC to regulate against racial discrimination in terminal facilities on regularly scheduled runs.

In 1955, in a railroad case, the ICC found that the practice of directing Negroes into 'Jim Crow' facilities in train stations violated the Interstate Commerce Act. Also in 1955, in a case involving bus transportation, the ICC reached the same decision as to segregated travel aboard busses, but not as to bus stations.

Last December, however, the United States Supreme Court, throwing out the conviction in Virginia of a Negro bus rider who entered a white dining room in a Richmond bus station, held that under the commerce act, if the bus company volunteered to make restaurant facilities available to all passengers, it must provide such service without discrimination.

Since the issuance of its 1955 order against 'Jim Crow' seating on busses, the ICC has obtained one court conviction against a Georgia bus company and one of its drivers for violation. The Department of Justice brief in support of its request for the new regulation is being prepared by Burke Marshall, Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Civil Rights Division.

Austria Seeks More Summits. VIENNA, July 6 (AP)—Chancellor Alfons Gorbach says Austria is willing to play host to more summer meetings. "We will be glad to provide our installations also in the future for international conferences," he said.

COUPLES REPEAT MARRIAGE VOWS AFTER 25 YEARS

LOS ANGELES, July 6 (AP)—About 200 couples married from 25 years to six months repeated their wedding vows for a second time recently.

"You are invited to your own wedding," read the invitations sent out before hand from Christ Church, Unity. Each enclosed a white label ribbon to identify the "bridegroom." Each "bride" received a small cluster of artificial flowers as couples were ushered to a reserved section at the rear of the 1800-seat church. Some carried young children. The organ played the wedding march and they came down all four aisles for the mass remarriage, an annual June custom at the church.

"This time we really heard the ceremony," was their most frequent comment afterward to the pastor, Dr. Ernest C. Wilson. He had officiated at their original weddings.

Count Off: One, Two...

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 6 (AP)—When City Councilman Charles McCabe recites the ages of his children, it sounds something like a count-down at Cape Canaveral. Mrs. McCabe recently gave birth to the couple's fifteenth child.

In any state...in every state you're in Marlboro country

Marlboro is first in all 50 states in the Flip-Top box...and now you'll find the King-size soft pack wherever you travel, too.

More than 25,000 smokers are switching to Marlboro every month, and if you wonder what's behind the switch you probably haven't tried this cigarette lately.

Marlboro is the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste. The secret of the flavor is the famous Marlboro recipe from Richmond, Virginia...and just the right filter to go with it. If a regular Marlboro smoker tells you this cigarette has been still further improved lately, he's right. Try today's Marlboro in the Flip-Top box or the King-size soft pack. You get a lot to like.

THE MARLBORO "FILTER FLOWER"

This snowy white material—combed out for the photographer—is the filter from one Marlboro cigarette. It is processed from pure vegetable fiber, recognized now as the finest of all filter materials.

This filter is made by Tennessee-Eastman, a subsidiary of Eastman Kodak Company, manufacturer of filter material for the cigarette industry, at its plant in Kingsport, Tennessee, where pure basic ingredients of nature and fresh water are especially plentiful.

This filter, teamed up with the famous Marlboro recipe, delivers the goods on flavor.

Amazing New Quick Tanning Discovery!

Tans You in 3 to 5 Hours With or Without the Sun!

"Q.T." Quick Tanning Lotion is guaranteed by the makers of Coppertone. Tans you indoors or out—night or day! Gives best sunburn protection, too!

It seems like magic—but revolutionary "Q.T." Quick Tanning Lotion works by a safe, scientific new principle. Actually tans your skin, whether you use it indoors or out, with or without the sun! Contains absolutely no dye, paint or makeup to give you an artificial tan look!

Without sunshine—"Q.T." gives you a glorious golden tan in only 3 to 5 hours! With sunshine—you tan even quicker! With extra protection from sunburn and the ugly drying effects of sun and wind!

Tube (2 oz.) only $1.25
Money-Saving Bottle (4 oz.) $2.25
Large Economy Size (8 oz.) $4.00
(plus tax)
Coppertone is a Reg. U.S. Pat. & Tm. Off.

"Safe for all normal skin types!" "Q.T." has been clinically proved safe for all normal skin. Contains no iodine or irritating chemicals. No alcohol to dry your skin or give you a streaked, blotchy tan. A pure white lotion, its special moisturizing formula protects your skin from roughening and drying out. Use it to condition your skin and to keep a stunning tan all year!

"Q.T." is guaranteed by the makers of Coppertone to give you a gorgeous, even tan—with or without sunshine—or money back! Get it at drug and cosmetic counters today.

Make the Most of Summer Vegetables

And Old-Fashioned

Tangy Relishes

By DOROTHY BRAINER

Post-Dispatch Food Editor.

VEGETABLES rushed from farm to retail store so rapidly that they are virtually garden-fresh are one of the many pleasures of summer.

Although fresh vegetables of excellent quality are now available around the calendar, there is still something special about their flavor in mid-summer. That is why they are featured so prominently on this page, as a marinated salad and in crisp relishes. Do plan to make the most of them by serving them in such ways as these, in addition to the usual vegetable course.

It is good to note that heavier supplies, including home-grown and southern Illinois offerings have brought prices down to the "good buys" category on cucumbers.

Potatoes also come in this bracket, along with carrots, turnips and celery.

There are plenty of cheap beets around town, but the good ones are commanding moderate prices. The same condition exists with cabbage; small heads of poor quality are very low in cost, but that worth buying is bringing a little more money. Lettuce also is moderately priced, but quality is questionable; check it very carefully.

Other vegetables in this reasonable price range include spinach, cauliflower, endive and escarole, onions and green onions, and most green peppers, with the small ones cheap.

High in cost are beans, eggplant, corn and tomatoes—although the flavor of the Arkansas tomatoes makes them worth the price.

THE HEAT in Michigan seriously damaged the strawberry crop, so we are now depending largely on California supplies, which means prices will be higher.

All other berries with the exception of red raspberries are moderately priced. These include blackberries, blueberries, gooseberries, huckleberries and black raspberries. The red raspberries are not excessively high, but always cost more than other berries.

Bing cherries are bringing fancy prices; the locally grown sour pie cherries are, of course, less expensive.

Very small sized peaches are cheap; the highly colored large ones high; those midway between moderately priced.

Rounding out the list of moderately priced fruits are apricots, bananas, grapefruit, oranges with the exception of the low-priced small ones, pineapples, plums, grapes, limes and nectarines.

Incidentally, watch for "good buy" offerings on nectarines from here on. This is a fruit you will be hearing more about. Conditions have been favorable for a large crop this year and the bearing acreage is the highest on record.

As supplies of cantaloupes pick up, prices are creeping downward but they are not yet in the "good buys" lineup.

Watermelons rates as moderately priced. Normally they would be cheap at this time of year, but lighter plantings in Florida, Alabama and Georgia cut down on the over-all supply picture; then floods in Texas took a toll. Honeydews are more expensive than other melons, but not high for them.

MEATS in general continue to be an excellent investment, with the exception of veal and spare ribs; demands for the latter are just too heavy to be met without paying a premium. In fact, you may expect higher prices on pork.

Beef is a real value, lamb not a luxury meat although not a downright bargain.

Poultry is truly a boon to the budget-minded. The new-crop turkeys are coming to market and you will find excellent values on any size you want.

Chickens—well, what more can we say about them than that they continue to be a truly amazing buy?

Supplies of eggs have fallen off a little which means that prices may be slightly higher; quality is still good.

The art of marinating foods is an old, old one which has been given impetus by the current interest in outdoor and rotisserie cooking. Most familiar use of the marinade is for meats, but the flavorful mixture also works wonders with vegetables to be used in salads or for the relish tray. Shown above are a Marinated Vegetable Salad, and spiced beets, mushrooms and carrots.

Why Marinate Foods?
For Flavor, Tenderness

THERE IS a great deal of discussion these days about marinating foods—so much, in fact, that it may well make the uninitiated wonder what the fuss is all about. After all, why marinate foods? The answer is twofold; for tenderness, for flavor.

Certainly the whole idea of a marinade is not new; quite the contrary. Perhaps it is the vogue for grill and rotisserie cooking that has focused attention upon this way of making flavors sing. Whatever the reason, it is a form of food preparation well worth investigating. Start exploring its possibilities, and you will soon discover that there are countless marinating agents (wine, fruit juices, vegetables, soy sauce, combined with olive or peanut oil) and literally scores of ways to season the mixtures.

Today's story is a sort of primer of the art of marinating planned to illustrate how, by placing meats or vegetables or fruits in a spicy vinegar or combination of vinegar and oil, they are given a chance to slowly absorb the liquid's flavor.

For instance, a chicken or leg of lamb brushed with a sauce during cooking picks up a surface flavor, but if it has been marinated that flavor lasts to the last forkful.

Marinades add flavor to meats, seafoods and poultry; they provide the piquancy for vegetable salads and antipastos; they give zing to fruits served as garnishes for meats and poultry.

Here are a few suggestions for putting the marinade to work in your own kitchen.

Perhaps its most familiar use is for kabobs of lamb, beef or shrimp before broiling.

There is no set rule for skewer companions—mushroom caps, onions, green pepper, tomato, pineapple, even pickles and olives may provide flavor and color. It's fun for guests to assemble their custom-made kabobs. Just provide bowls of marinated beef, lamb and shrimp plus vegetables, and let them spear away to suit their whims.

Kabob Marinade.

One-half cup vinegar.
One-half cup water.
One-fourth cup salad oil.
One small onion, finely grated.
One clove garlic, split.
One tablespoon salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper.
One teaspoon oregano leaves.
One-fourth teaspoon ground allspice.

Combine ingredients. Use as a marinade for lamb, beef or shrimp, allowing the meat or seafood to stand in the liquid eight to 10 hours in the refrigerator. Turn occasionally. Retain marinade for basting while cooking.

Lamb Kabobs: Use two pounds boned leg of lamb cut into one and one-half inch cubes.

Beef Kabobs: Use two pounds round steak, cut into one and one-half inch cubes.

Shrimp Kabobs: Use two pounds cooked shelled whole shrimp.

Assemble meat or seafood and your choice of vegetables on skewers. Grill over hot coals or broil until crusty and tender (about 25 minutes for meat, 10-15 minutes for shrimp), basting oc-

Easy to Make Relishes
With Blender

THE TERM "old-fashioned" may be unflattering when used in connection with a dress or a hair style, but it has a certain endearing, nostalgic ring when applied to food.

Take vegetable relishes, for example. Old-fashioned indeed; so old-fashioned, in fact, that the memories associated with them frequently add to their enjoyment.

They have lost none of their appeal since great-grandmother served them as tangy accompaniments to meats and fish, but they are far easier to make nowadays with the aid of an electric blender.

Here are six savory combinations made with the fresh vegetables which fill the local markets:

Hot Pepper Relish.

Two green peppers, seeded and chopped.
Two sweet red peppers, seeded and chopped.
One stalk celery, sliced.
One-half large onion, chopped.
Three-fourths teaspoon salt.
One-fourth cup sugar.
One-fourth cup vinegar.

Put all ingredients into the container of an electric blender. Cover and blend on high speed for two seconds. Empty into a saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer for 20 minutes. Cool and serve, or pack while hot into a hot jar and seal for future use.

Yield: One pint.

Cucumber Relish.

Eight cups coarsely cut cucumbers.
One cup coarsely cut onions.
Two cups seeded, diced sweet red peppers.
One tablespoon turmeric.
One-half cup salt.
Two quarts cold water.
One tablespoon mustard seeds.
Two sticks cinnamon.
Two teaspoons cloves.
Two teaspoons allspice.

sugar.

Four cups vinegar.

Fill container of an electric blender three-fourths full of vegetables. Cover with water. Cover container and blend on high speed not more than six seconds. Drain and empty vegetables into a large bowl. Continue until all vegetables are chopped and drained. Sprinkle with turmeric.

Dissolve salt in two quarts cold water and pour over vegetables. Let stand three to four hours. Drain.

Cover again with cold water and let stand one hour. Drain.

In a saucepan combine spices tied in a bag, brown sugar and vinegar. Bring it to a boil. Pour over vegetables and let stand overnight or for 12 hours.

Next day bring vegetables and liquid to a boil. Pack into hot jars and seal at once.

Yield: Three pints.

One-half tablespoon celery seed.

One-half tablespoon mustard seed.

One teaspoon turmeric.

One package (10 ounces) frozen corn kernels.

Fill the container of an electric blender with onions, cucumber and tomatoes. Add hot pepper and remaining ingredients, except corn. Cover and blend on high speed for two seconds.

Empty into a saucepan. Add corn. Bring to a boil and simmer for 30 minutes.

CHEESE IS ONE of the most adaptable of foods, equally at home at a simple meal served on a kitchen table spread with a checkered cloth, or in an elegant setting of damask and candlelight.

One may approach it in a practical manner, as a highly nutritious basic food, or, as an epicurean delight. In either case, a wider knowledge of the varieties, their proper care and uses, opens up new fields of enjoyment.

A most worth-while addition to the kitchen library is a booklet just released by the United States Department of Agriculture entitled, "Cheese Buying Guide for Consumers, Marketing Bulletin No. 17."

In concise, usable form, a chart tells the shopper the flavor, texture and color of each of 28 varieties of natural cheese, how long each ripens or cures, the form in which it sells at retail, and the more customary ways of serving. A helpful feature is a guide to the pronunciation of the names.

Explanations also are given of various types of process cheese and products such as cheese spread and cheese food, including descriptions of the manufacture of these blends.

Consumers are urged to read the labels on packages or containers to avoid confusion of different cheeses and cheese products which are packaged alike or sell under the same brand name.

Homemakers frequently inquire whether cheese may be frozen. The guide lists 10 varieties that freeze successfully in small pieces, and gives detailed instructions for freezing.

Proper care of cheese in the home is outlined; the guide advises that all natural cheese be kept refrigerated but served unchilled (remove from the refrigerator 20 minutes to an hour before serving) to bring out distinctive flavor and texture.

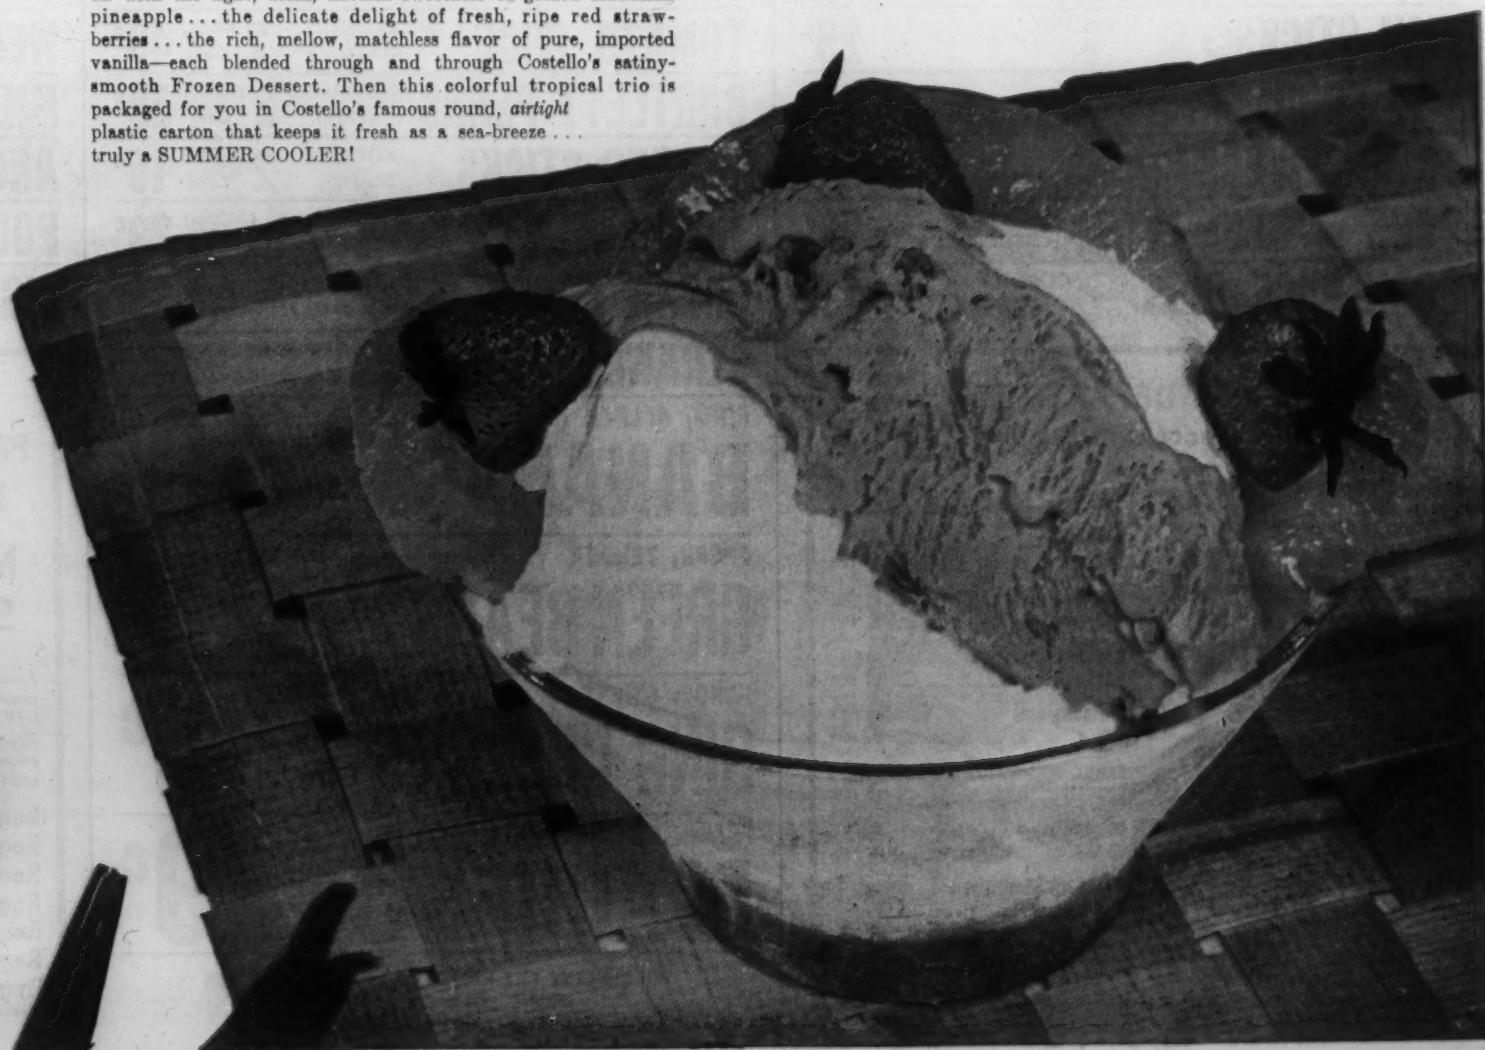

Single copies of "Cheese Buying Guide for Consumers" may be obtained without charge upon request to the Office of Information, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D.C.

oil. Here's a trick to make a thick cut of round come out tender and juicy.

Steak Marinade.

One cup salad oil.
One cup wine vinegar.
One medium onion, grated.
Two tablespoons minced parsley.

Two cloves garlic, split.
One tablespoon salt.
One-half teaspoon pepper.
Combine ingredients in jar; shake well. Let stand two hours. Marinate one to two inch thick steaks or chops in mixture 18-24 hours. Steaks and marinade should be at room temperature before cooking.

To retain juices, brown meat quickly on both sides on charcoal grill or broiler. Basting frequently with marinade, continue cooking to desired degree of doneness. Heat remaining marinade to serve as sauce with steak.

Yield: two cups

From out in the Rocky Mountains came this suggestion for marinating a leg of lamb in vinegar seasoned with spearmint and cloves, then roasting it until crackling brown on the outside, tender and juicy inside.

Serve slices of the lamb with cooked carrots, peas and a tossed salad of Bibb lettuce, a few tender leaves of spinach, cucumbers and wafer-thin rings of onion.

Marinated Leg of Lamb.

Three cups apple cider or salad vinegar.

One-fourth cup crushed dried spearmint leaves.

One teaspoon (about 30) whole cloves.

Five to five and one-half pounds boned leg of lamb.

Salt.
In large mixing bowl combine vinegar with spearmint leaves and cloves.

Trim excess fat from lamb; season meat with salt.

Place lamb in spiced vinegar; cover. Chill in refrigerator 12 to 24 hours, turning occasionally. Remove from marinade.

Tie meat securely; place on spit of rotisserie, following manufacturer's directions. Consult instruction book for heat control setting and time.

Yield: six to eight servings.

ALTHOUGH MARINADES are most frequently used for meats, they also work their special wonder with salad ingredients and vegetables to add interest to the relish dish or appetizer tray.

Here green beans, cauliflower, celery and pimiento are marinated in tarragon vinegar and oil, then tossed with bacon. The mixture, well drained, is served in crisp lettuce cups. (Pretty extra touch: invert the lettuce cups and dip the edges of the leaves in paprika).

Marinated Vegetable Salad.

Two-thirds cup salad oil.
One-third cup tarragon vinegar.

Two tablespoons sugar.

Two teaspoons salt.

One-half teaspoon paprika.

Dash pepper.

One-half pound fresh green beans, cut into one-inch pieces.

One small head cauliflower, cut into flowerets (one pound).

One cup diagonally sliced celery.

One-fourth cup thinly sliced green onions (including tops).

Two tablespoons chopped pimiento.

Three slices bacon.

Blend oil and next five ingredients with rotary beater.

Cook beans in boiling salted water until crisp-tender; drain.

Combine beans and next four ingredients with marinade. Chill at least two to three hours, stirring occasionally.

Saute bacon until crisp; drain; crumble. Toss bacon with vegetables. Serve, drained, in lettuce cups.

Yield: six servings.

Note: One package (10 ounces) frozen cut green beans may be substituted for fresh green beans, if desired.

Here are four examples of vegetables given the marinade treatment. Note that the liquid of sweet or dill pickles has been used as the marinating agent.

Spicy Sweet Beets.

One can (one pound) sliced or small whole beets.

One-half cup sweet pickle liquid.

One-half teaspoon ground allspice.

Drain beets; reserve three-fourths cup beet liquid. Combine beet liquid with pickle liquid and allspice in saucepan; bring to a boil. Pour over beets. Refrigerate overnight.

Dilled Beets.

Drain one pound can of sliced or small whole beets; retain one-half cup liquid. Add three-fourths cup dill pickle liquid to beet liquid; pour over beets. Refrigerate overnight. Excellent for relish trays.

Spiced Mushrooms.

Marinate button mushrooms in sweet pickle liquid for two days in refrigerator. Serve as part of relish tray or as hors d'oeuvre.

Spiced Carrots.

Cut carrots into strips three inches long and one-fourth inch thick. Cover with liquid from sweet or dill pickles. Let stand overnight in refrigerator.

Defrosting Meats

The methods of defrosting or thawing most frequently used are (1) in the refrigerator, (2) at room temperature, (3) during cooking.

The method used does not materially affect the flavor, tenderness or juiciness of the cooked meat. Therefore, the method you choose depends mainly upon its convenience.

Four cups coarsely sliced cabbage.
Eight cups cooked corn kernels.
One cup water.
Two tablespoons dry mustard.
One tablespoon mustard seed.
One tablespoon celery seed.
One tablespoon salt.
Four cups vinegar.
One to two cups sugar.
One tablespoon turmeric.

Fill container of an electric blender three-fourths full of onions, red pepper and cabbage. Add water just to cover. Cover container and blend on high speed for just six seconds. Do not overblend. Drain and empty vegetables into a bowl. Continue until all vegetables have been chopped.

Mix chopped vegetables and corn in a large saucepan. Add the one cup water and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil and simmer for 20 minutes.

Pack while hot into hot jars and seal at once.

Yield: Four pints.

Green Pepper Relish.
Eight green peppers, seeded and sliced.
Three large onions, coarsely out.
Cold water.
Boiling water.
One-half cup sugar.
One tablespoon salt.
One and one-half cups vinegar.

Fill container of an electric blender three-fourths full of green pepper and onion. Add one cup water. Cover and blend on high speed for six second only. Do not let pieces get too small. Drain and empty into bowl. Continue until all peppers and onions are chopped.

Cover chopped vegetables with boiling water and let stand 15 minutes. Drain, cover again with boiling water, and let stand 15 minutes. Drain. Add sugar, salt and vinegar. Bring to a boil and simmer for 30 minutes.

Pack into hot jars and seal at once.

Yield: three pints.

Beet Relish.
Four cups coarsely cut cooked beets.
One cup coarsely cut onions.
One green pepper, seeded and sliced.
Four cups coarsely sliced cabbage.
One tablespoon horseradish.
One and one-half cups sugar.
Three cups white vinegar.
One tablespoon salt.

Fill container of an electric blender three-fourths full of beets, onions, green pepper and cabbage. Add water just to cover. Cover container and flick motor on and off high speed two or three times, until vegetables have been chopped into small pieces.

Drain and empty vegetables into a bowl. Repeat until all vegetables are chopped. Combine all ingredients in a saucepan or preserving kettle; mix well and bring to a boil. Simmer for 10 minutes. Pack while hot into hot jars and seal at once.

Yield: three pints.

servings, a dry sauce mix and four cunning little aluminum foil shells in which to bake and serve. Only things you need to have on hand are butter, milk and water.

Procedure is simplicity itself: prepare the instant potatoes and pile into the individual shells. Then stir the dry sauce mix (take your choice of cheese or sour cream) into boiling water, spoon over the potatoes and place in a pre-heated oven or under the broiler for a few minutes.

Newest addition to the growing family of frozen dinners is one that should have wide appeal, judging by the popularity of shrimp. Deep-fried shrimp (cut butterfly style), a tangy cocktail sauce, green peas and crisp French fried potatoes comprise the seafood dinner. Slip these frozen meals into the oven, then while they heat toss a green salad, hull some strawberries or peel some peaches to be served with store-bought cookies, and dinner is ready.

Tuna is the third entry in this week's parade of new products. So what's new about tuna, that good old standby? Solid white-meat tuna is now being packed in salt and water, rather than in soy oil or vegetable juices.

Result: A substantial difference in calories, plus emphasis upon the natural taste of the tuna.

Timely indeed, with the picnic season well under way and with more and more shop and office workers carrying a packed lunch, is the introduction of a new plastic food wrap. Of special appeal is its exceptional "stretchability," a real convenience feature for wrapping items of irregular shape. Other practical factors are its economical price, and its happy faculty for capturing the bloom of freshness on the foods it protects.

On the less practical but none-the-less important side, it adds to the eye appeal of wrapped foods. It is hard to understand, but many a homemaker who takes great pains to set an attractive table gives little thought to how a packed lunch will look when it is unwrapped. Yet the carried lunch is monotonous at best, and often is eaten in surroundings which are less than ideal. Because of the exceptional clarity of this food wrap, such things as cherry tomatoes and pickles sparkle gaily and invitingly when the lunch is opened—and don't underestimate the difference that can make.

TWO KILLED AS HELICOPTER CRASHES IN VIRGINIA WOODS
EAGLE ROCK, Va., July 6 (AP)—An Army officer and a United States forest ranger were killed yesterday when a helicopter crashed in a wooded area two miles northwest of this community.

The dead were Lt. Col. David Edward Condon of Fort Eustis, and Elbert J. Lester of New Castle.

Authorities said Condon was demonstrating a new type of spraying to Lester when the helicopter hit some power lines.

The helicopter belonged to the Central Virginia Electric Co-operative of Lovington. Employees there said Condon was on terminal leave from the Army and was to join the co-operative soon.

Proposals to Increase Seats In House Rejected by Leaders

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—House leaders have quietly but firmly rejected all proposals to increase the size of the House to prevent some states from losing seats because of population declines.

The effect of the decision may be that the House elected in 1962 will contain dozens of members chosen in state-wide rather than district voting.

Of the 25 states whose congressional delegations will increase or decrease in the next House if the size of that body is not 'enlarged, only 13 have enacted redistricting laws. In two of those 13 states the legislative action has not become final.

The others presumably are waiting to see what Congress will do, or have encountered political obstacles in their redistricting efforts. Among them are Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Illinois, with a total of 63 seats in the new Congress if the size of the House is not changed. All may be elected in state-wide contests.

Several plans to save some states from losing seats have been proposed in the House, but the current outlook is that none of them will get anywhere.

One proposal, by Representative Frank Chelf (Dem.), Kentucky, would increase the size of the House starting in 1963 from the presently fixed 437 to 469. That would not protect all states from losing seats, but would save many of them. To prevent any state from losing seats, and at the same time keep the size of congressional districts relatively uniform, would require an increase to more than 500 members. House leaders consider that number too unwieldy.

Chelf is trying to force House action on his bill, but has made little headway. If 219 House members signed a petition, the bill would be voted on automatically, but the petition now is almost 100 short of the required number.

Another plan would add only three seats and thus save several big states from at least one of their prospective losses. It, too, has been turned down by the leaders. They fear that any legislation dealing with the size of the House would be amended beyond reason by coalitions of members from states slated to lose seats.

Congressional leaders believe that once the state legislatures are convinced that there will be no action by Congress, they will move swiftly with redistricting legislation rather than take political risks which normally accompany state-at-large congressional elections.

In states losing seats, all members must run at-large unless their legislatures enact redistricting laws. In those gaining seats, only the added seats would be contested on an at-large basis in the absence of redistricting.

Senator Everett M. Dirksen (Rep.), Illinois, today described the Illinois reapportionment situation as a real muddle, from which Republicans stand to gain the most political benefit.

Dirksen told a reporter the General Assembly's failure to redraw the state's congressional district lines has "put a lot of steam" into G.O.P. organizational efforts.

The General Assembly's failure to reduce the state's 25 congressional districts to 24 will throw 48 Democratic and Republican candidates into a state-wide race for the 24 seats, unless the Assembly redistricts in a special session this fall.

The Illinois House delegation now includes 14 Democrats and 11 Republicans.

The Legislature's redistricting compromise committee failed to agree when Democrats refused to eliminate any one of 10 Democratic-held Chicago seats. The Democrats wanted to reduce to 24 seats by throwing Republican Representatives Robert B. Chipfield and Paul Findley into one unit, he said.

HUGE PHILIPPINE CROWDS TURN OUT FOR M'ARTHUR

MANILA, July 6 (AP)—Huge crowds stood for hours in monsoon rains today to catch a glimpse of General of the Army Douglas MacArthur as he retraced the route his troops took to liberate Manila from the Japanese in World War II.

It was the fourth straight day that Filipinos have shown their affection for the 81-year-old soldier, here on a sentimental visit for 10 days.

MacArthur went from Manila by special train and drove to Lingayen, where his troops landed in 1945 for the assault on Manila. Then he went southward from Lingayen to Tarlac, San Fernando, Makolas and Bulacan, historic sites in the American drive toward the capital.

Crowds slowed the motorcade and it was nightfall before Mac-Arthur's party reached Manila on the highway that has been renamed in his honor. On the way the General unveiled a highway marker, and his wife laid the cornerstone of a triumphal MacArthur Arch.

NEW CITY MANAGER NAMED BY FERGUSON CITY COUNCIL

John Robertson, city manager of Northville, Mich., for five years, was appointed city manager of Ferguson last night by the Ferguson City Council. The appointment is effective Aug. 7.
He will receive $11,000 a year.
Robertson, 35 year old, will succeed Robert C. Storey, whose resignation will become effective July 31. Storey served as city manager from 1954 to last January, when he resigned under pressure in the midst of an intra-council dispute, and was rehired May 1. He has accepted a position in the municipal relations department of the Missouri Public Service Co. in Kansas City.

Storey's assistant, Ellwood L.
Koch, also submitted his resignation today. Koch, who served as Ferguson city manager from late January to the end of April, will become city manager of Marceline, Mo., effective July 24.

377 SAFETY DEPOSIT BOXES LOOTED IN MONTREAL BANK

MONTREAL, July 6 (AP) — Burglars who robbed 377 safety deposit boxes last weekend in a downtown bank apparently were interested mainly in cash.

Bank officials said yesterday large quantities of negotiable bonds and stock certificates were discarded by the burglars.

Unconfirmed reports have put the total loss as high as $2,000,000 in cash and $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 in stocks and bonds. Claude Travers, manager of the Nova Scotia Branch Bank, said it was still impossible to set any figure, "but we hope that even the figure of $1,000,000 the police used at first may be high."

Canadians to Aid Ghana Army.

OTTAWA, July 6 (AP)—Twenty-five Canadian officers will leave for Ghana in about two weeks to spend about 18 months as instructors to the small army of the West African commonwealth country.

MOTORCYCLIST DIES OF INJURIES, COMPANION HURT

Richard Jacober, 16, of Highland, Ill., died at Barnes Hospital early today of injuries suffered when the motorcycle on which he was riding was struck by an automobile on Illinois Route 160, one mile south of Highland. The accident occurred shortly after midnight.

State Police said Jacober was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Roger Zimmerman, also 16, of Pocahtonias, Ill. It was struck from behind by a car driven by Cletus Fohne, 25, of Highland.

Zimmerman, who was also injured, and Jacober were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital in Highland, and Jacober was later transferred to Barnes. Fohne was uninjured.

Mrs. Paul J. White, 724 Rosedale terrace, Manchester, suffered a fractured left arm last night when her automobile skidded in the rain and struck a utility pole on Manchester road, one mile west of Ballas road.

St. Louis County Police said Mrs. White, 36, was going west and apparently lost control of the car as she rounded a curve. The car skidded on the shoulder of the road, and struck a utility pole head-on. She was taken to Jewish Hospital.

Three St. Louis area persons were injured yesterday in a three-car accident near Effingham, Ill., in which another person was killed and four others injured.

Those injured were Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Becker, both 55 years old, 705 Rayburn avenue, Crestwood, and Mrs. Margaret Young, also 55, 723 North Center street, Collinsville.

Harold Baker, of St. Clair Shores, Mich., was killed, and his wife and father, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rogers of Terre Haute, Ind., were injured.

Illinois State Police said the accident occurred on U.S. Highway 40, about seven miles west of Effingham. The Beckers were in one car, the Bakers and Mrs. Young were in another car, and the Rogers were in the third car, police said.

All were taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Effingham.

NINE NEGROES SEIZED; TRIED TO INTEGRATE WAITING ROOM

JACKSON, Miss., July 6 (AP)—Police arrested nine teen-aged Negro youths yesterday when they attempted to integrate the white waiting room of a bus terminal and buy outgoing tickets as Freedom Riders.

Officers jailed them along with four other Negroes arrested yesterday after they refused to move from a bench restricted to white use in a city park. The four were among 12 Negroes who held a picnic in an area of the park usually used by white persons. They were turned away from the ticket booth to the park swimming pool.

Police arrested the six youths in the Trailways bus depot last night when they made an impromptu integration attempt. They caught police off guard at first but were arrested moments later when they refused to leave the white waiting room. Earlier in the day police arrested three 18-year-old Jackson youths who entered the Trailways white waiting room.

A.M.A. DENIES BOWING TO DRUG MAKERS ON ADS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, suggested today the American Medical Association altered advertising standards in its publications in response to complaints from drug manufacturers. A.M.A. spokesmen vigorously denied it.

Dr. Ernest B. Howard, Chicago, assistant executive vice president, said any implication that there is a connection between advertising revenues and activities of the A.M.A.'s Council on Drugs is false.

Kefauver, chairman of the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, raised the issue at a hearing on his bill to tighten government regulation of the drug industry.

Key Features Ordered.
At the start of the hearings yesterday the A.M.A. opposed some of the key features of the bill, which Kefauver contended would help force down the prices of prescription by fostering competition.

Testimony at today's session veered away from the provisions of the legislation when Kefauver said the A.M.A. had a survey made by a Chicago firm in 1953 as to why it was not getting more advertisements in its Journal and other publications.

He said the survey showed some drug firms were very critical of the A.M.A.'s Council on Drugs and that in late 1954 or early 1955 the council was stripped of its "life and death" over advertisements that would be accepted.

Admits Cut in Power.
Dr. Howard agreed that the council had a greater control over advertisement acceptance prior to 1955. He testified, however, the change was not the result of advertisers' pressure but because the council's job of evaluating drugs and keeping physicians informed about them was expanded.

He said the council still has a "close relation" with a department which handles the acceptance of drug advertisements and can appeal any difference to the A.M.A.'s Board of Trustees.

Howard testified the A.M.A. has the most rigid advertising medical organization in history. Kefauver said more than half of the association's advertising revenues in 1960 came from the 22 largest drug manufacturers.

RAISES QUESTION
He added that this raises a question whether the A.M.A. would be "a free agent, an objective agent," in passing on the merits of drugs.

Dr. Hugh H. Hussey, Washington, chairman of the A.M.A.'s Board of Trustees, was told he would be given a chance later in the day to reply to these and other figures on advertising revenues offered by the subcommittee.

In yesterday's hearing Kefauver asked if it would be fair to say the A.M.A. had found no provision of his bill which the association supports. Hussey agreed that was the case, though he said the A.M.A. takes no position on some of the anti-trust aspects of the measure.

Dr. Hussey, dean of the Georgetown University school of medicine, said doctors do not want useless drugs cluttering the market and the medical profession itself is a powerful barrier to the sale of such drugs.

Tear off the bottom—Pevely's carton still won't leak

Pevely's new milk cartons are plastic coated inside and out, topside and bottom—and are "heat sealed" into strong and sturdy solid units. Even the bottom of the carton is interlined to give you double leak-proof protection. In fact, if the paper bottom of the carton is gently torn off (although we advise you not to try this in your living room) just the inner liner itself makes the carton leak-proof.

Pevely "Homogenized Vitamin D. Milk" and Pevely "2% Ho-Mo" are now available in Pevely's No-Wax No-Leak milk cartons at no increase in price.

Enjoy Pevely's perfect milk in a perfect milk carton.

BUSINESS HEADS ON PROTECTIVE TARIFFS

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—growing number of American business leaders are firmly opposed to protective tariffs, a new survey showed today.

Dun's review which questioned the presidents of 260 major American companies, reported that four of every seven are against such tariffs as a protection against foreign competition. The magazine called this a truly marked departure from past views.

At the same time, Dun's review said a third of the executives questioned are deeply concerned by competition based on a lower wage scale and feel there may be "no alternative to raising tariffs."

Most of the presidents believe the United States will win the economic race with Russia if new life is injected into the free enterprise system.

The consensus was that business leadership can aid the comeback of free enterprise and help check spreading federal regulation and interference by helping solve the pressing economic problems of the day.

A sizable minority of the presidents, however, accept Government's expanded role as a foreign force.

The executives felt Government regulation has become oppressive in the railroad industry, agriculture, utilities, gas and oil, communications and broadcast and drug and tobacco industries.

POWER OUTPUT GAINS

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The nation's production of electricity rebounded last week from an earlier slump, the Edison Electric Institute said.

Power output for the week was 15,183,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 14,870,000 the week before and 14,646,000 in the corresponding week of 1960.

The only area of the country to produce less electricity than in the same week a year earlier was the south central division. Its production was down 4.4 per cent.

ODD LOT TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The New York Stock Exchange reported today these odd lot transactions by principal dealers for July 5: Purchases of 388,741 shares; sales of 310,828 shares including 1310 shares sold short.

BANK CLEARINGS.

St. Louis bank clearings for July 6 were $67,400,000 compared with $73,900,000 a year ago.

Demand for Credit at Area's Big Banks Far Below Year Ago

Decline Cuts Institutions' Earnings, but Upturn Is Expected for Next Six Months.

By William H. Kester
Post-Dispatch Business Correspondent.

The demand for credit at large St. Louis banks in June and in the first half of the year was substantially less than in the comparable periods of 1960. The decline has been accompanied by lower bank earnings, but both loan demand and earnings in the last half of the year are expected to improve.

Loans outstanding (excluding those to other banks) by the 10 weekly reporting banks in St. Louis fell $6,300,000 in the week ended June 28, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported today.

In the comparable week of 1960, loans increased $4,700,000. For the four weeks ended June 28, total loans adjusted declined $800,000, compared with an increase of $12,300,000 in the similar weeks last year.

In the six months ended June 28, loans by the 10 banks fell $14,600,000 compared with an increase of $29,100,000 in the corresponding period of 1960.

Commercial and industrial firms reduced their borrowings $2,300,000 in the first six months compared with an increase of $20,300,000 in the first half of 1960. The difference largely reflected the decline in inventories this year with an accompanying reduced need for bank financing.

Metal and metal product producers and retail trade firms accounted for a large part of the trend.

However, commercial and industrial firms borrowed more in June than in June 1960, largely because of heavier demands for bank credit to meet June 15 tax payments.

Sales finance, personal finance and business credit companies continued to reduce their bank borrowings in June, bringing the first half net payment to $19,600,000. Other non-bank financial institutions reduced their borrowings by $8,200,000 in June and by $4,600,000 in the first half of the year.

Bank earnings in the first half will be lower than in the comparable period last year, bank officials said. The decline resulted from the reduction in loan volume and the lower rates of interest on loans and investments.

The prime rate on bank loans in the first half of the year was the current 4½ per cent, which has been in effect since last August 23. In the first half of 1960, the prime rate was 5 per cent.

Although investments have been higher than they were a year ago, yields have been reduced by the easier credit conditions prevailing this year. Three-month Treasury bill rates in the first half were about one-third less than in the first six months of 1960. Banks concentrate their investments in short-term securities.

Bank earnings in the last half of the year are expected to improve, officials said yesterday. Loans probably will rise with the expected advance in business activity. Yields on investments may compare more favorably with year earlier periods than they did in the first half of the year.

No change in the prime rate is expected in the last half of the year. The expected rise in short-term borrowings probably will lag the business recovery as it has in the last three economic cycles. Monetary policy is not likely to tighten credit conditions as long as unemployment continues relatively high and prices show no inflationary trend.

The improvement in earnings expected in the last half of the year will not be sufficient to offset the smaller earnings in the first six months. For the year, net operating earnings may range from 5 to 10 per cent below 1960 profits, bankers said.

Despite the lower earnings, market quotations for most bank shares have increased this year. Bid prices rose as much as 15 per cent for some shares.

The rise in quotations reflects investors' expectations that the decline in earnings has ended.

Lyle T. Culbert has been appointed manager of the St. Louis branch of the Merchants' Exchange, July 6. Culbert was formerly plant manager in New York City.

J. F. Goodson, superintendent of the St. Louis division of R. E. A. Express, has been named superintendent of the company's New York City terminal division.

HOMEGROWN TOMATOES
The first homegrown tomatoes of the season arrived on Produce Row and sold for $5 to $6 a bushel wholesale. The tomatoes were from the Chesterfield area in St. Louis county.

MIXED INFLUENCES FELT IN GRAIN PITS

CHICAGO, July 6 (AP)—Rain, drought, and reports of government selling of wheat imparted mixed influences in the grain futures trade today and prices were mostly both above and below previous closes.

The rain was credited with some of the pressure in corn and soybeans while the drought brought some support in wheat and rye.

However, a report at mid-day that the government was selling a considerable volume of wheat stored in the northern great plains brought out some liquidation.

RAILS BESTER INDUSTRIALS FOR 4TH RISE IN ROW

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—The stock market closed higher today, rallying for the fourth straight session. Trading was moderately active.

Late profit taking trimmed some gains, most of which came from fractions to about a point. Some of the leading rails came to the fore late in the afternoon, bolstering the rise by industrials. The rise was marred by some sizable losses. Polaroid dropped about 5, Bethlehem about 2 and Gulf Oil more than a point.

The list was higher at the start, reached its peak in mid afternoon then slid away from its best gain.

Some Wall Streeters talked of the "summer rally" but to others the recent market strength was merely a technical recovery from the June decline.

Some of the past spring's speculative favorites were in the limelight, working higher under renewed demand.

Volume for the day was estimated at 3,400,000 shares compared with 3,270,000 yesterday.

Prices rose on the American Stock Exchange. Paddington "A" gained more than 3. Up around 2 points were Gulf Industries, Gulf American Land, and Hydrometals. Advances of a point or better were made by Barnes Engineering, Giannini Controls, National Research and Virotec Instrument.

LONDON INDEX IS HIGHER
LONDON, July 6 (AP)—The Financial Times daily index of London stocks today was 3112, up 3.1.

FIRST NAT. CITY BANK OPERATING INCOME DROPS

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Net operating income of the first National City Bank of New York for the first six months of the year fell behind the similar 1960 period.

However, the bank's quarterly report showed today an increase in deposits and total assets during the latest three months.

Operating earnings of the city's 2nd largest bank to the $35,448,000, equal to $2.48 a share, from $37,929,000, or $3.04 a share.

June 30 total resources were $8,630,000 and deposits $7,456,000 compared with assets of $8,163,000 and deposits of $6,875,000 on March 31.

During the second quarter net operating earnings equaled $18,314,000 or $2.03 below the second quarter of 1960.

MAY BUSINESS INVENTORIES INCREASED BY $100 MILLION

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Business inventories increased by $100,000,000 in May for the second straight month, largely because auto dealers built up their stocks of new cars.

The Commerce Department said that inventories rose to $92,100,000,000 at the end of May. Business sales also increased. Deliveries of manufacturers averaged 2 percent, to $31,500,000,000, with steel and autos leading the way. Wholesale activity increased 3 percent to $12,900,000,000. Retail sales were up about 1 percent to $18,600,000,000.

BUYS INTEREST IN U.S. FIRM

NEW YORK, July 6 (AP)—Purchase of a 200,000-share interest in Minerals & Chemicals Phillips Corp. by Montecatini, Italian chemical firm, has been announced by the United States company.

Purchase of the 3.8 percent interest was announced after Piero Giustiniani, Montecatini managing director, was elected a Minerals & Chemicals director.

CLASS I RAIL INCOME SLUMPS IN 5 MONTHS

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—The Association of American Railroads estimated the net income of the nation's Class I lines at only $17,000,000 in the first five months of 1961. This compares with a net of $195,000,000 in the same period last year and $234,000,000 in the like period of 1959.

The low earnings figure for this year reflects operating deficits in the earliest months which continued to plague many Eastern lines into the spring.

CARDS FIRE HEMUS, ST. LOUISAN KEANE NEW MANAGER

Devine Announces Surprise Move Made On Busch's Order

By Bob Broeg
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, July 6—Solly Hemus was dismissed today as manager of the Cardinals and was replaced by coach Johnny Keane, 49-year-old St. Louis-born organization man.

Keane was appointed for the remainder of this season and for next season as well.

The surprise came at an 11 o'clock press conference (St. Louis time) at which General Manager Bing Devine, who had slipped into town late last night and registered at another hotel, appeared in the suite of traveling secretary Leo Ward at the Billmore to announce that Hemus, manager for two and one-half seasons, would be supplanted immediately by a man for whom he had played and later sought as an aid. Keane has been a player, manager, scout and coach in the Redbird organization since 1930.

Hemus manfully attended the press conference at which it also was announced that Red Schoendienst and Vern Benson have been added to the coaching staff. Schoendienst, though still on the active player list, succeeds Keane as coach, and Benson, who has been managing the Cardinal farm club at Portland, Ore., replaces Darrell Johnson. Johnson will be offered a job in the Cards' minor league organization.

Harry Walker and Howard Pollet, two long-time organization men, will be retained by Keane, who has been passed over five times as Redbird manager in the last ten years, in favor of Marty Marion, Eddie Stanky, Walker, Fred Hutchinson and Hemus.

Although the 37-year-old Hemus' dismissal came following one of his club's infrequent impressive triumphs—a 9-1 game in which Bill White hit three home runs last night—the decision to dismiss him had been made previously by Owner August A. Busch Jr., on recommendation of his baseball lieutenants.

Busch had been quoted as indicating just last weekend that Hemus would finish out this season, but that it was "premature" to think about next year. The brewer-sportsman, acknowledging then considerable affection for the former hustling little infielder he had hand-picked off the Phillies' bench when he fired Hutchinson late in the 1958 season, had described himself as "terribly upset" by the Cardinals' poor showing this season.

Discontented Fans.

The ball club, given an outside pennant chance, has stumbled along in sixth place almost from the start, and was flirting with seventh place when Busch and his assistants apparently took heed of the increased discontent of the Cardinals' fans, as evidenced in the mail and also orally.

Hemus was booted in Tuesday's doubleheader with Philadelphia at Busch Stadium as loudly as Stanky ever had been.

Keane, former St. Louis sandlotter and student for the priesthood who has lived in Houston for years, took over the youngish St. Louis team with no experience as a major league player, but a lengthy background of handling players, which Hemus lacked.

Keane, after playing infield as high as Class AA from 1930 to nearly 15 years, managed 17 years in the Cardinal organization from Class D through AAA before moving up to the majors as a coach under Hemus in 1959. Keane's teams won five pennants.

Devine Sympathetic, Says Change Was Called For

In a prepared statement Devine had expressed sympathy for the injuries that had handicapped Hemus but had said, "Nevertheless, we feel a change is called for before an extended losing pattern becomes fixed and established. We most certainly are not quitting on the Cardinals. On the contrary, it is because we must look to the future as well as to the present that this change is being made. We are committed to a policy of going with young players."

Although in agreement with a youth movement, Keane, describing himself as "excited and happy," said he planned to use veteran players a bit more to stabilize the team. He said specifically that he would try to bring Joe Cunningham back, presumably platooning with Charley James or serving as Stan Musial's off-day replacement, and stressed that he planned to give Don Taussig a chance in center field.

"I think Carl Warwick will make it and I plan to let him play tonight, but, the way Taussig has swung the bat in limited opportunities, I've got to get him in the lineup," Keane said.

Keane said he planned to make even more use of Ken Boyer as captain. "I don't intend to be out on the field all the time," said the new manager.

"The important thing is to boost the morale," Keane went on. "The morale isn't apparent in the mechanical effort, but

The only discordant note at the press conference, where Hemus praised both Busch and Devine, and also posed for photographers with his successor, was an obvious coolness toward Keane. At first Solly declined to discuss at all his relations with Keane. Then, asked specifically if his silence meant that he felt Keane had undermined him, he said:

"No comment."

Keane, pressed for an explanation, said he felt Hemus' coolness could only be a reciprocal reaction to his own. He said he had felt earlier that Solly had not taken advantage of his baseball experience and had by-passed him.

"I did the only thing I could do then—my job and no more," Keane said.

The impression has existed among close observers that Hemus had leaned increasingly on former third string catcher Johnson, whom he was instrumental last year in adding to the coaching staff, and had made decreasing use of more experienced men such as Keane, Walker and Pollet. Keane, incidentally, said that Pollet would immediately go to the bullpen and that he planned to make more extensive use of his coaches.

"Eventually," he said, "I'll go to the bench and would like to have a good man like Walker there to remind me in case I overlook anything."

some players are down—a Jackson, a Broglio and even a Boyer."

"Jackson definitely goes back into the starting rotation and will have to pitch out of his own jams," Keane said.

He added that as soon as Broglio overcame his arm tenderness, last year's 21-game winner would rotate with Bob Gibson, Ray Sadecki and Jackson.

Hemus Disagrees.

Hemus seemed to resent any suggestion that the club's morale might have been affected, preferring to blame the incapacitation of Hal Smith, Julian Javier and earlier injuries to Bill White and Jackson. "The pitching has bogged," Hemus said, "but it will come back, I know."

Hemus and Keane agreed on one important point. Both felt that even though the ball club was eight games below .500 this morning when the managerial reins changed hands, it could win "at least" as many games as it loses this year. Both expressed belief fourth place or possibly better was within the scope of the Cardinals. Hemus said he felt that Milwaukee and Pittsburgh were the most vulnerable clubs ahead.

Further, both men especially saluted 40-year-old Musial, the club's 20-year veteran who was named to the All-Star team for the eighteenth time. "We need

Bill White's 3 Homers, 4-Hitter By Bob Gibson Win for Cardinals

By Bob Broeg
Post-Dispatch Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES, July 6—If William Dekova White suddenly has found it—the ability to combine power with batting average—the Cardinals just might put down their banjos and begin banging bass drums.

White, chosen National League All-Star first baseman even though he had hit just five home runs in nearly half a season, suddenly has produced power the Redbirds desperately needed.

After walling one Independence Day at Busch Stadium, the 27-year old Hiram College athlete last night became only the sixth member of the Cardinals ever to hit three home runs in a game. The club's history goes back to 1876, the National League's charter season.

And with White's road roommate, Bob Gibson, hitting as well as he pitched the laboring Redbirds scored one of their infrequent easy victories. Gibson, a four-hit pitcher, socked his first major league homer and a double as sixth place St. Louis lapped second place Los Angeles 9-1, ending a five-game Dodger winning streak.

Between them the roommates hit one more homer than the Cardinals had collected in any previous game this year. Twice before the Redbirds had hit three in a contest, both times at the Coliseum, too.

Mize Did It Six Times.

This time though, the Redbirds didn't need that ridiculous screen in left field. White took aim three times on the distant right field barrier as he joined a select list of St. Louis National League players who hit three in a game, beginning with one Frank Shugart in 1894 through Stan Musial in 1954. George Harper belted three one afternoon in 1928, and George Watkins three in 1931. Johnny Mize, the record breaker with six three-homer performances in his career, whacked three in four different games as a member of the Cardinals, twice each in the 1938 and 1940 seasons.

White is the third player to hit three home runs in one game in Memorial Coliseum, and the only one to hit all three over the long right field fence. As a Dodger, Don Demeter hit three in 1959 and in 1958 Lee Walls of the Chicago Cubs had three, but all were over the modest distance of the left field screen.

With Solly Hemus shaking up his batting order last night and resting Musial, the Cardinals clobbered Johnny Podres and successors Roger Craig and Jim Golden for 14 hits. And White teed off on each pitcher.

The lefthanded hitter, after grounding out in the first inning, slugged a full-count high and inside fast ball over the chest-high right field fence in the third inning. The ball came down near the foul line, which is 330 feet from the plate at the cyclone wire barrier.

Doubles on Fourth Try.

White had a one strike count when he connected in the fourth off righthander Craig's high change-up. That drive, after Wally Moon had muffed a two-out fly ball, went far beyond the

Gautt, Anderson and Others Come Here

John Roach, regular quarterback of the football Cardinals last season, has been traded to the Cleveland Browns for veteran fullback Prentice Gautt and rookie offensive end Taz Anderson, it was announced today by Walter Wolfner, managing director of the St. Louis professional football club.

The deal, in the making for some weeks, was concluded this morning. In addition to obtaining Gautt and Anderson, the latter an outstanding player as a half-back and end at Georgia Tech the past three years, the Cards have rights to four other players on the Cleveland squad for a draft choice. These players cannot be placed on waivers or traded by the Browns until the Cards have accepted or rejected them.

Gautt, a native of Oklahoma City, Okla., where he was born Feb. 8, 1938, was the first Negro to play at the University of Oklahoma. He did such a good job with the Sooners that he was named the Most Valuable Player in the Orange Bowl in 1959 when they beat the Syracuse team, and Coach Paul Brown made him his fourth draft choice in 1960.

Prentice played behind the great Jimmy Brown at Cleveland and didn't see much action. The six foot, two inch, 200-pound Gautt carried the ball 28 times for 159 yards.

Anderson, who is 6-2, weighs 220 and is 22 years old, is a versatile player who performed at halfback, fullback and end, playing the latter position last year.

Roach, a defensive halfback for the Cards in 1956 after being a third draft selection from SMU, was in service the next two years. He returned in 1959 and was used both offensively and defensively, getting a shot at the quarterback job due to injuries. Prior to coming to training camp last year he let Coach Frank "Pop" Ivy know that he was after the No. 1 signal-calling job.

He made good his threat to win the position, and completed 87 passes out of 188 attempts, and for 1423 yards and 17 touchdowns, the latter tying a previous season touchdown passing record held by Paul Christman and Jim Hardy. In addition John is a good punter. He was born in Dallas, Tex., Mar. 26, 1933, is a very good competitor and was a favorite with the Cards.

After completion of the deal, Coach Ivy said:

"We feel we are helping our team with Prentice Gautt, an offensive back who is a fine ball carrier and an exceptionally good blocker. Anderson is an outstanding rookie prospect, either as an

Mary Ann Eisel Beats Top-Seeded Girl in Valley Tennis

Burrus Wins on Upset

OMAHA, July 6 (AP)—Three unseeded players took the spotlight yesterday in the second day of play in the Missouri Valley Junior tennis tourney.

Mary Ann Eisel, a 14 year old from St. Louis, ousted top-seeded Marjorie Ringwalt of Omaha, 6-2, 6-2, in the girls' 15 singles.

Then Harry Burrus Jr., Missouri State Champion from St. Louis, dumped sixth-ranked John Grantham of Topeka, in the junior boys singles, 6-2, 6-4.

The other top upset was the 6-0, 7-5 win of Jerry Sobczyk of Omaha over third-seeded Dale Hendrickson, Winfield, Kan., in the boys 15 singles.

Much of the day's play was staged with the temperature on the courts over the 100 degree mark.

Hoffmeisters Beat

Villas, Tighten Race

The Hoffmeisters, getting a sparkling three-hit performance from Frank Williams, shut out the league-leading Red Villas, 3-0, to tighten the Heine Meine League baseball race. Williams also singled home the winner's two runs in the fifth. The second-place Hoffmeisters have an 8-5 record, the Villas 10-3. The two teams meet again Sunday.

Wednesday's Fight

By Associated Press.
ROMA, Italy—Dave Charley, 134½, England, stopped Raimondo Nobile, 133½, Italy, 6 (Charley retained European lightweight title).

Boyer, Musial Join White on Star Squad

CINCINNATI, O., July 6 (UPI)—Manager Danny Murtaugh, ducking the controversy that surrounded selection of the American League team, abided strictly by the players' votes today in naming National League pitchers and reserves for the All-Star game at San Francisco July 11.

Murtaugh also gave a semi-sentimental choice to Stan (The Man) Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who thus will surpass his own record by appearing in his twentieth All-Star classic.

Third baseman Ken Boyer of the Cards was chosen by Murtaugh, who will manage the National League. First baseman Bill White will be the only Redbird to start the July 11 game, having been chosen for that honor in a vote of the league's players.

The 25 players named for the July 11 game also will be members of the squad for the second All-Star game at Boston July 31. In addition, Murtaugh may pick three more players to boost the total to 28 for the second game.

Dispute was stirred yesterday in the American League when A.L. pilot Paul Richards ignored the votes of the players and bypassed in his reserve choices five of the eight men who finished runner-up at their positions in the balloting.

Jimmy Piersall of the Indians, one of the overlooked five, denounced Richards yesterday for "favoritism" and "stupidity." Murtaugh, however, included on the N.L. squad every one of the eight players who were runners-up in the voting for their positions. These eight, plus eight pitchers, plus Musial made up his 17 choices.

These 17, plus the eight players voted into starting positions by the players themselves, make up an N.L. squad that includes four players each from Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee and San Francisco, three each from St. Louis and Los Angeles, two from Chicago and one from Philadelphia.

Richards had one problem in selecting his squad that Murtaugh did not have—because of A.L. expansion, Richards had to include players from each of 10 teams; Murtaugh had to include only players from eight.

Richards Agrees:

Piersall Deserves

Place on A.L. Team

WASHINGTON, July 6 (AP)—Paul Richards says Cleveland outfielder Jimmy Piersall, on the basis of his performance, deserves to be on the American League All-Star team. Piersall is batting .340.

But the Baltimore Oriole manager indicated there are several other players in the league he would like to see on the squad also.

Richards, who will manage the team when it meets the National League next Tuesday and again July 31, was criticized yesterday by Piersall for leaving him off the team.

The manager of the team selects the remainder of the 25-member squad after the starters, excluding pitchers, are picked by the players in the league.

Richards said, "After thinking it over, I can understand why Piersall feels like he's been slighted. He's a fine player."

"On the basis of his performance, he deserves to be on the team. Unfortunately, it didn't work out that way this year."

"I wouldn't play now if he picked me," snapped Piersall when informed that Richards still might select him for the second All-Star game in Boston, July 31.

Piersall said he felt Richards didn't like him "because I once said what I thought of him as a manager."

Birds Say Pinson Was By-Passed

LOS ANGELES, July 6—Surprise that Vada Pinson wasn't selected and that Mike McCormick was chosen marked the Cardinals reaction to the National League All-Star selections.

The Redbirds thought the Cincinnati center fielder belonged on the team, but that on the basis of performance, not ability, the San Francisco southpaw didn't.

Even though the Cards quickly kayoed Johnny Podres last night, they thought the Los Angeles lefthander merited the honor on the basis of an 8-1 record and 2.88 earned-run average at the time.

In tonight's final of a two-game series at the Coliseum, the Cardinals' Bob (1-2) Miller will oppose Los Angeles' Don (6-5) Drysdale.

BYRON M. (BITSY) GRANT, Atlanta's gift to tennis, thinks the game has gone to pot. "Let's have some noise and enthusiasm. That's what tennis needs—people who will boo and cheer and players who'll shout and cuss." Grant said "this boom-boom stuff—serve, take the net and put it away" has hurt the game.

BOB SCHEFFING, Detroit manager, is convinced his Tigers are in the American League driver's seat. A favorable schedule is his reason. "Of our next 28 games (21 at home), 25 are against the second division clubs and Baltimore," he said.

The Milwaukee Braves made room on their roster for southpaw JOHNNY ANTONELLI by sending reliever CLAUDE RAYMOND to their Vancouver team.

The Pirates' VERN LAW arrived in Pittsburgh for further treatment to his pitching arm. He may be put on the disabled list. The Bucs got more bad news when they learned that third baseman DON HOAK may miss several games because of an injured groin muscle.

CLINT STARK hurled a seven-hitter in Portland's 3-0 victory over Spokane. BOB BURDA's triple sent home two runs in the fourth and Burda scored on GENE OLIVER's single. Winnipeg errors caused the Goldies a 5-3 loss to Grand Forks. A misjudged fly by DAVE FRITZ put one runner on base in the fifth. Then GENE ORF walked and RUDY WELCH hit a home run.

SAM BURNS, manager of TERRY DOWNES, renewed his bitter feud with referee IKE POWELL when he protested against the official's appointment for the July 11 bout in London between Downes and middleweight champion PAUL PENDER of Boston. Powell disqualified Downes in a bout last September.

Shot-putter JAY SILVESTER of the United States Army set a stadium record with a throw of 59 feet, 10½ inches and high jumper BOB AVANT of Southern California leaped 6 feet, 10½ inches for United States victories in the track and field "World Games" at Helsinki, Finland.

Britain's Miss Truman, Miss Mortimer Reach Wimbledon Net Final

WIMBLEDON, England, July 6 (UPI)—Angela Mortimer of England upset top-seeded Sandra Reynolds of South Africa, 11-9, 6-3, today and set up an all-English women's singles final in the Wimbledon tennis tournament.

Christine Truman of England won the other semifinal from Renee Schuurman of South Africa, 6-4, 6-4, on a sunny, warm day.

Miss Truman, seeded sixth in the tournament, and Miss Mortimer, seeded seventh, meet Saturday for the championship. England has not won the women's singles title since Dorothy Round in 1937.

This year, for the second straight year, there were no United States women in the singles semifinals.

Chuck McKinley of St. Louis kept the United States' hopes alive in the men's singles yesterday when he beat Britain's Mike Sangster, 6-4, 6-4, 8-6, to reach the final round with Rod Laver of Australia. McKinley and the favored Laver will meet for the title tomorrow.

Karen Hantze of Chula Vista, Calif., and Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., attempted to further U.S. prestige today when they faced Sally Moore of Bakersfield, Calif., and Lesley Turner of Australia in the semifinals of the women's doubles.

Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., and Justina Bricka of St. Louis were pitted against Jiri Javorsky and Mrs. Vera Sukova of Czechoslovakia in a mixed quarterfinal doubles match.

The two Americans advanced to the quarterfinals yesterday with a 6-2, 7-5 victory over Adrian Bey, Rhodesia and Lynne Hutchings, South Africa.

Froehling and Miss Bricka worked well together in the first set and Froehling won many points with his fine covering close to the net. After going to a 4-1 lead in the second set, the Americans relaxed temporarily and this allowed Bey and Hutchings to win the next four games for a 5-4 lead. However, the Americans came back well to take Bey's service in the eleventh game and held their own to take the set at 7-5.

Cardinals

360-foot mark in right center field. Bill drew an intentional walk in the fifth and the count once more was "3-2" in the eighth when he arched one off Golden's slider near the 360-foot sign.

With a chance to join the extremely select set of four-homer hitters White gave it a good try in the ninth when he pulled a let-up pitch off Golden to the base of the wall near the foul line for a double.

The delightful touch is that White, who hit three homers in a game for Dallas against the Dodgers' Fort Worth club in 1955, actually was trying to pull the ball, a result of his recent conclusions that (1) the club needs the power and (2) he's now a sound enough hitter to be able to go for the long ball without losing his timing.

"Stan (Musial) can do it, but he says you don't get the knack overnight, and I haven't," said White. "I hope I'm not just being lucky now, but the truth is that I took the extra batting practice last Monday, our open date, determined to practice getting out in front of the ball because I believe the club expects it of me—and because I like to think it can hit for both average and distance now."

Could Inspire the Club.

White, besides boosting his average to .303, almost doubled his home run total in just two playing days. The game isn't that easy, of course, but as Hemus said:

"With the short right field in St. Louis, Bill can help himself and the ball club even more if he'll take a shot at the roof more often."

The bass drum of power does make a lot more noise than the batting banjo.

These Predictions Are Based on Normal Water and Weather Conditions

Black river below Williamsville is muddy and not fishable. The upper portions above Clearwater Lake and the stretch below the dam are clear. The Big Piney and the Nangua rivers are cloudy, but will be O.K. if there is no heavy rainfall. The James river is dingy and doubtful. The Osage below Bagnell dam is on minimum flow and off color. Our informant there reports large catches of hefty carp and "white" catfish below the dam. All other streams are clear and some are at a low water stage for this time of year.

The Lake of the Ozarks is one and one-half feet minus full reservoir. Norfolk is five feet above power pool level, and Bull Shoals is approximately 25 feet above normal. Crab Orchard in Illinois is cloudy but clearing. The Lake of the Ozarks is slightly off color. The arms are clearing and should be ready. All other lakes are clear. Limit catches of trout are reported from Taneycomo. Bluegill are the No. 1 fish at Duck Creek. Reelfoot is producing good stringers of bass. Outstanding catches of channel and flathead catfish are reported from many of the lakes and streams.

Top fish of the week: F. A. Stepp, Sikeston, landed a seven-pound, four ounce largemouth at Lake Norfolk. Two St. Louis anglers, David Williams, Sr., and Bill Schmidt, caught bass of identical weight at the Pontiac area of Bull Shoals. Each fish weighed seven pounds, 12 ounces and both were taken on spoon-type lures.

Weekend prediction: High temperatures are sending the fish down to the cool strata and trolling of deep running bait best. Early morning and late evening fishing will be the most productive. Crawfish best live bait.

Defenders in the Desert

On guard against threatened invasion from Iraq, Kuwait army soldiers squat in desert for briefing by their officers. The presence of a large, well-equipped British force, landed on request of the ruling shiek, apparently has eased the threat of Iraqi Premier Kassem to annex the oil-rich shiekdom as part of his nation.

Half a Ton of Turtle

Center of attraction at Long Beach, Calif., is 1000-pound sea turtle captured yesterday by crew of fishing boat Hornet. On returning from an albacore trip, the Hornet's crew spotted the turtle about two miles off the San Pedro breakwater. Caught by grappling hooks, the turtle was towed to the harbor. It is described as the largest sea turtle ever seen in Southern California waters.

John Crosby 'Birdie' Producer Full of Ideas

NEW YORK, July 6.
EDWARD PADULA is the producer of that very large, very American, very smash musical "Bye Bye Birdie" which has recently opened in England. He came back from England full of enthusiasm and, I think, very sound thoughts.

JOHN CROSBY

will produce it here next fall.)

"The English have a lot of good topical revues and some good old-fashioned bawdy musicals like 'Fings Ain't Wot They Used To Be.' We switched to the reception of his own production. 'It was tumultuous—even though the daily papers were a little rough. I auditioned everyone in London for the part of Birdie. We brought over the two leads but everyone else was English. I picked their leading rock 'n' roller, Marty Wilde.

"Rock 'n' roll is still big in London, though slightly on the wane. It's even bigger now in Paris and Australia. We had no trouble with it. The English started laughing at the opening shots and stopped the show cold about three times. In Manchester, at the end of the performance they banked the stage with flowers.

"The only place I think 'Birdie' lost a little is with the English kids. They are not as strong and blatantly vulgar as ours. They're cultivated. When they were rehearsing the rock 'n' roll numbers, they were doing the Charleston and the Big Apple. We had to yell at 'em—'no, rock!'

Padula considers himself an "idea producer" rather than a "merchandiser" like some producers who shall be nameless. The idea for "Bye Bye Birdie" was his own. He'll tell you, though he grants that the author and director and lyricist developed the idea. His next musical, "All American" from Robert Lewis Taylor's book "Professor Fodorowski," was also his idea.

"It's the story of the Americanization of a foreigner," said Padula, who feels strongly on that subject. "My father was an immigrant Italian who was a bricklayer and went on to become a successful banker in New Jersey. Because of him I have always loved and admired this country. And I believe the culture of America needs the values of all countries. We've got to keep being progressive and young and to do this we should utilize the brains and manpower and culture of other countries. I satirized America in 'Birdie' because I feel we need to laugh at ourselves. I believe you have to love something before you can laugh at it.

"I wish I could blow open racial prejudice in this country. But it's got to be done—like 'Birdie'—in palatable terms. We must do this. It's shocking the things that are happening in this country and we should wake up and come to grips with it.

"I always try to work on a show from a theme. 'Birdie's' theme was going steady and rock 'n' roll. 'All American's' theme is Americanization; the one I'm doing after that will be a satire on space. I'd like to do something on that order with racial prejudice. I would like to do it in jazz terms—something that had the primitiveness of the subject. If anyone has a story, please let me read it. I don't want the usual cliché stories; I want something we could sing and dance and satirize. . . ."

Ann Landers

Can a Dog Sing?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My sister-in-law gets on my nerves with her constant bragging. Last night did it. We had several couples to our home and Della started to brag about her dog. She said he sings.

ANN LANDERS

I took her aside and told her she'd better not make such statements because people would think she had lost a bolt. She became very annoyed and said "I don't claim Spotty will sing just anything. He has favorites. He just loves to sing along with Mitch."

Now I've heard lots of stories about smart dogs, Ann, but I have never heard of a dog that sings. Will you please tell me if this is possible? I'm beginning to think maybe I'm the one who is nuts. TOODIE.

Dear Toadie: Apparently Mitch Miller's magical spell has slopped over into the animal kingdom. It's very possible that Spotty is singing along with Mitch. Don't knock it if you haven't heard it.

DEAR ANN: I've found a wonderful girl whom I wish to marry, but I have nothing to offer her right now. We have agreed it would be best to wait until she finishes college. This will be in four years. I am a couple of years older than she is and did not have a chance for a college education.

I want to give her a little engagement ring when she graduates from high school. Some of my friends say a four-year engagement period is too long. If we love each other (which we do) what's wrong with it? I can't see that being engaged will interfere with her studies. In fact, it may even be a settling influence. What's your opinion? IN LOVE.

Dear In: What's your hurry to tie this girl up? Can it be that you're afraid she'll meet a fellow in college who may be a threat to you? An 18-year-old girl fresh out of high school should be free to date others. If it's love, it will survive comparisons. Wait for at least a year (maybe two). Then, if she is eager to wear your engagement ring, go ahead and buy her one.

THE AUDIENCE was still applauding the first number rendered by the Wappingdale Falls Marching and Chowder Club band when the trombonist leaned over and asked the flute player, "What number do we do next?" Bells from France To Ring Here

Being Cast for Campanile at Webster Groves Christian Church

Bells in the Paccard Bell Foundry at Annecy, France, like those that will be cast for the Webster Groves Christian Church.

By John Stewart

Church Editor
of the Post-Dispatch.

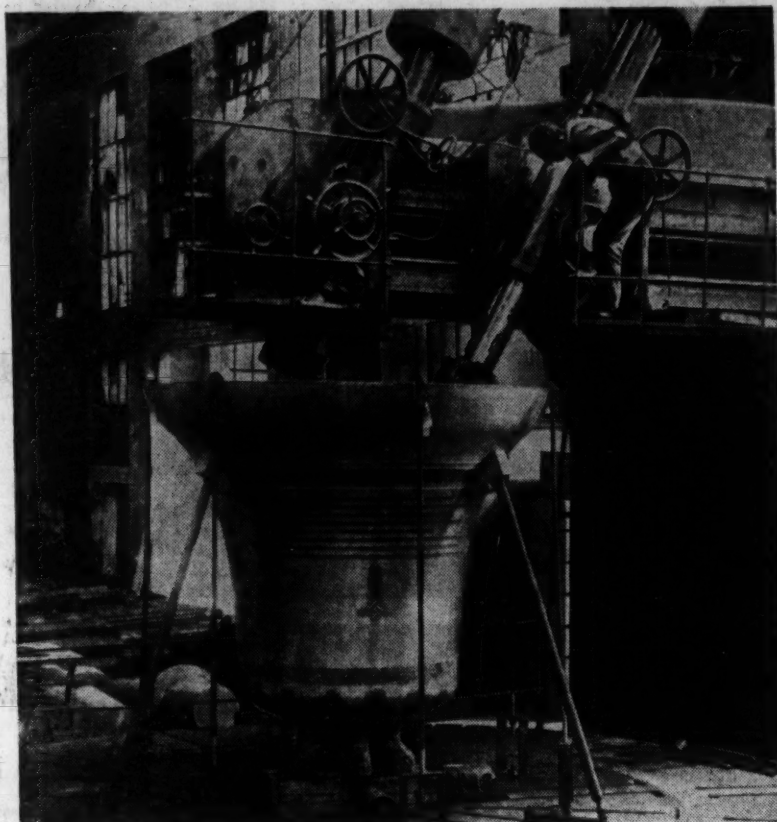

FOR MORE THAN 1000 years the far-reaching tones of bells have proclaimed the presence of a church—calling the faithful to worship, ringing for happy events, tolling for the dead. The three-times-three strokes of the Angelus, morning, noon, and evening, are among the most familiar bell calls.

Church bells should possess tonal excellence, true pitch, and correct overtones, and the sound must have depth and intensity. If bells are to inspire the religious mood, there must be no harsh, clangy, metallic sounds.

A bell may weigh 25 tons, or it may be as small as a teacup. But if properly cast it will have a beautiful quality of tone. The larger bells will have mellow, full-bodied tones, rich in harmonics. Smaller bells will possess clarity and brilliance. And in a set of bells all should be perfectly in tune with one another.

Three swinging bronze bells for Webster Groves Christian Church will be cast at the Paccard Foundry in Annecy, France, which has been casting bells for six generations. The three bells will weigh a total of 4205 pounds. The largest will weigh more than a ton and will be four feet in diameter. They will be installed in an 85-foot-high, $105,000 campanile now under construction at the church, Lockwood avenue and Berry road, Glendale.

The bells are a gift to the church by Mr. and Mrs. James F. Whitehead and family, 514 Wilcox avenue, Kirkwood. Cost of the bells, including installation, has been estimated at $15,000. The contract is with Paccard and Wannemacher Co. of Bloomington, Ill., American branch of the Paccard Bell Foundry. The bells will be electrically operated and clock controlled to strike the hours and half-hours, also to ring individually or together as a peal at designated times in the week.

Today's Worst-Dressed Women

By Gay Pauley

NEW YORK, July 6 (UPI).

SOME GIRL WATCHERS consider today's young career women candidates for anybody's best-dressed list. But not Alvin Handmacher.

Handmacher, who for 25 years has been a clothing manufacturer, says most of them are the world's worst dressed.

"It's my business to watch women," said Handmacher in an interview. "I walk down Fifth avenue and think this should be the world's most sophisticated street. But what a mess."

Handmacher chides us for scarves tied around our head—"a girl going to the office should wear a hat." He chastises us for turning the tan poplin raincoat into an all-purpose wrap—"it started out being a raincoat. It should remain so. It is not a street fashion."

He also criticizes us for not wearing girdles, for carelessly-applied makeup, for "do-it-yourself" hairdos, for appearing on the street in slacks, treader trousers or shorts and for general "indifference" to how we look.

But before every working girl reading this starts writing Handmacher hate notes or hammering on his office door, let us add that the manufacturer said there are exceptions. There also is a trend toward improvement of appearance.

"More young women are starting to look at themselves, to dress up, to pay attention to the whole composite of their appearance," he said.

"I've noticed the change in the last year. And there's been a big improvement since Jackie Kennedy became first lady. Certainly in six months she has done more than anyone else to make women clothes-conscious."

To the argument that dressing up dips deeper into the budget, Handmacher replies, "Nonsense." The girls can afford the clothes. A handsome suit costs very little more than a cashmere sweater and skirt which has been the office uniform. And it is far more versatile."

It should be pointed out here that Handmacher is prejudiced toward suits—his firm, Handmacher-Vogel, Inc., makes them. Why did working girls acquire this "indifference" to clothes? Handmacher said it grew from the "everything casual" trend after World War II.

Returning service men hurried to settle in homes of their own, so there was a great rush of young marrieds to suburbia. "The focus of pride changed," said Handmacher. "The young couple was interested only in showing off the new house, the new car, the new television set. They went native. There was no pride in dress."

"Pants became the uniform of the girl at home; the skirt and sweater, for the office."

"But after a while," said Handmacher, "the man found he couldn't outshine his neighbor in cars; the woman found the glow from the new home wearing off. They started looking at themselves."

That is why, he said, that both sexes are devoting more attention to dress. But as for the women, he added, "Unfortunately more than half of them still aren't on the bandwagon."

THE BACKWARD FINESSE is a play rarely used in bridge. The chief reason is that it runs definitely contrary to percentages.

Nevertheless, there are times when the backward finesse is the only right play. When the proper circumstances exist, its use becomes mandatory.

West led three rounds of spades, declarer ruffing the third one. South then played a heart to the queen, and East took the ace and returned a diamond, won in dummy.

Having lost three tricks, South now had to avoid a club loser. The normal way of playing the North-South club combination would be to lead a low club to the ace and return a club toward the K-J and take a finesse.

If South had done this, he would have gone down. But declarer realized that this course of play was bound to fail, for a number of reasons. He therefore called upon the backward finesse as his only hope of making the contract.

After drawing two more rounds of hearts and cashing two diamonds, ending in his hand, South led the jack of clubs. West covered with the queen—it would have done him no good to duck—and dummy took the ace. When East then played low on the club return, South finessed the eight. He thus avoided a club loser and made the contract.

Both the bidding and play indicated that this unusual treatment of the clubs was correct. West was practically certain to have the queen of clubs for his opening bid, and this was clearly confirmed by East's pass of one spade.

The possibility that West might have been dealt a doubleton queen of clubs (in which case cashing the A-K would catch the queen) was disregarded by him. East had shown up with three spades, three hearts and three diamonds, and hence could not have been dealt as many as five clubs.

The backward finesse therefore offered the only reasonable chance of making the contract.

DEAR MARTY

Her husband
hates vegetables!

by Marty Mayrose,
the helpful butcher

Dear Marty:
My husband says vegetables are too bland for his taste and won't touch them. I discovered he'll eat wilted lettuce because of the bacon flavor. Is there a similar dressing for any other vegetable?

Marian

Dear Marian:
Yes, here's a delicious bacon dressing for vegetables that is probably quite similar to your wilted lettuce recipe:

Brown 1/4 lb. bacon lightly in a skillet. Add 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion and cook over low heat until tender. Add 1/4 cup vinegar, 1/4 cup water, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, and salt and pepper to taste. Simmer 5 minutes. Serve over hot, cooked green beans, broccoli, red cabbage, or lima beans.

Marty

P.S. To be sure of the most delicious bacon flavor, get lean, sweet-smoked Mayrose Bacon. One taste will tell you why it's St. Louis' favorite bacon.

If you have a question of any kind concerning meat, write to Marty Mayrose, Box 477, St. Louis 10, Mo.

Clarissa Start New Homemakers Haven't Got It Made

THE FUTURE HOMEMAKERS OF AMERICA are convening here in St. Louis this week and we who are the present homemakers wish them well. Their 1150 delegates meeting at Hotel Chase are reporting on state projects ranging from family fitness and better breakfasts for teen-agers to helping the handicapped and citizenship. The latter is Missouri's project and state adviser Neola Pollard and state president Kay Gonnerman will tell of their workshop camp in leadership training.

Having met the FHA in smaller numbers before, I know they're an alert and pretty group who are smart enough to be learning something about the profession most of them will follow regardless of what careers they may choose. Many of us, limping along in the job of homemaker, started out, hopelessly inept and untrained.

Writer Alma Chesnut Moore says the woman contemplating marriage and a family "should be primed with elementary courses in plumbing, electrical engineering and household chemistry." Instead she tries to follow the manufacturer's directions, the TV commercial's promises on products that "work like magic," or her own intuition.

The popular concept of today's homemaker is that she's a carefree play girl with a job that's a cinch. "Push-button living" and "automation" have taken "all the drudgery out of housework." It says here.

The young mother with three small children, one of whom refuses to eat the oh-so-delicious crunchies, the second of whom has a talent for picking up indelible grass stains and the third of whom just pushed the wrong button and wrecked the washing machine, finds it hard to put herself in this picture.

The homemaker needs not only those talents Mrs. Moore mentioned but more and more she needs to be a full scale purchasing agent with a knowledge of fabrics, food and fashion.

There has been a lot of hoop-de-do over packaging lately and with good cause. Every homemaker knows the disillusion that comes from opening a frozen pie pictured on the package as family size to find a pot pie big enough for two (it admits in fine print).

My latest shock came from buying a can of frozen oysters, $1.25 for the "select" size as opposed to $1.10 for the "standard" size. What I found inside was a block of ice surrounding 18 of the smallest oysters ever taken from the cradle. Not one would have covered a dime.

"They call them 'select,'" a friend said, "because it's hard to select them that small."

My other homemaker gripe of the moment concerns my new and beautiful stainless steel stove top. What do they mean, stainless? That thing stains more than a mahogany breakfast and is impossible to clean with the product recommended in the dealer's book or anything else I've discovered. The boys who talk about the drudgery being gone from housework should see my ground-down fingernails. Grandma had it easier with her jar of stove blacking.

Don't let any of this discourage you, Future Homemakers. It's a big job with compensations. May all your troubles be little ones. They grow up.

New Products for Home

EASY INFLATION: Plug a handy little air pump right into the 12-volt cigarette lighter in your car and you can inflate air mattresses, beach balls, backyard pools, balloons, floats, rubber boats and other items for summer and outdoor fun in a few seconds. Weighing only two pounds and compact enough to go into the glove-compartment, the pump is equipped with a six-foot cord, sealed bearings and nylon pistons which never need lubrication. A rubber adapter converts it for use with all sizes and types of valves.

A SHEET OF SHADE: Any ordinary window can be made to admit sunlight without glare by covering the glass with a new vinyl sheeting. Custom cut to required size, it's applied simply by wetting the window pane, then pressing into place. It sticks as long as desired, yet is quickly stripped off by merely prying up one corner, and can be stored for re-use. Washable and resistant to tearing and cracking, the sheeting comes in a variety of colors, ranging from filtered white to olive green transparent. Some of the colors absorb heat as well as glare.

NEW TOOLS FOR DO-IT-YOURSELFERS: A new four-inch portable electric belt sander, weighing just 33½ pounds, will sand under its own weight without ripples or gouges, eliminating all need to "bear down." In addition, a special bench attachment converts it instantly for use as a table sander, vertical stand sander, and tool sharpener. There's also a dustless sanding kit to remove all dust during operation. . . . A new one-quarter inch electric drill features a flat base that serves as a guide for more accurate drilling and also simplifies bit changing. Another feature: vertical positioning of the motor, making the drill compact enough to let you drill straight holes in tight corners—between joists and close to walls.

ADD INGENUITIES: Not only self-polishing but "wash and wear" as well, a new floor wax keeps its shine through four warm water and detergent washings. . . . Resembling a pocket watch, a new device is actually a chromed cigarette lighter—plus a calculator for math problems, speed and distances—plus a calendar showing day of the week for any date for 28 years. . . . Book size, a new two-speed transistorized tape recorder operates in its case in any position—even while walking. It records 68 minutes on one tape, uses economical penlight batteries, comes with microphone and earphones. Available accessories include foot switch, telephone pick-up, adapter for operation on household current.

If you like further information on any of the above items, write Lawrence Galton in care of this newspaper, identifying item, giving date of appearance and inclosing stamped and self-addressed envelope. Inquiries must be sent no later than two weeks after the appearance of the item.

Beneath the Riverfront Stadium Site Wreckers Will Find Dark, Silent Spring-Fed Caverns of Once Busy Commercial Area

Cupples Station, one-time center of freight-loading activity, now stands idle and deserted beneath the city.

By Jack Rice
Of The Post-Dispatch Staff

THE OTHER DAY I sat in left field of the riverfront stadium, probably about where the foul line will meet the last row of bleachers. Left field still is a restaurant in an old building but nobody was hurrying lunch for fear a bulldozer would come crashing through, announcing the stadium financing was completed.

The riverfront stadium casts a long paper shadow though, and many buildings in the area of the restaurant, on Seventh near Spruce, have the blank look of vacant old age. A sign behind the restaurant bar announced a farewell party for an office force moving to the county. There was talk about the party's chances of equaling the success of St. Patrick's day when the friendly neighborhood chemists dyed a pig green. Everyone complimented the pig.

I admired the job time had done, putting a dark finish on the wood bar, and asked what the place had been 75 years before. A rich merchants' club? A hotel competing with the Planters?

"A Greek boarding house," a man said. "That's what it used to be. The place next door was a hotel but I don't think it worried the Planters much."

The restaurant owner introduced the man as W. R. Taylor, owner and operator of the Cupples Station Maintenance Co., and a neighborhood historian. Taylor is interested mainly in the underpinnings of the city. He is at his best below street-level, poking at the foundations of an old building and admiring the way progress first came to the area, when Chouteau's Pond was drained. That was in the 1850s and Taylor didn't see the job done, but he has been snooping, inspecting the evidence of it for almost 30 years.

For 25 years he maintained Washington University's property in the area, from Seventh to Eleventh, Poplar to Spruce; from Eighth to Ninth, Clark to Spruce, and a scattered parcel or two. He does the same job now as an independent operator. He likes the job because he meets so much of old St. Louis in it—below street level. The buildings he serves will remain standing, neighbors to the stadium, but the ground they are on is similar to the terrain the wreckers and diggers and builders will work over.

"Wait until they begin digging for the stadium and the new highway," Taylor said. "This whole country around here is layers of stuff the old-timers threw away."

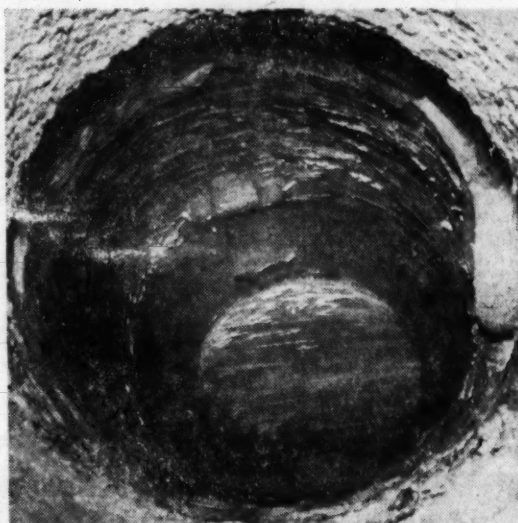

Taylor refers to his patch of the city as "country," possibly because he has been exploring it so long. The buildings he maintains are at the east end of Chouteau's long-drained pond. When excavation work has been necessary to doctor a building foundation Taylor has been able to acquire a notion of what the pond really was. A waste-can. Citizens came from miles around to throw their empty ink bottles in it.

"I've found maybe 800 old ink bottles while digging around here," Taylor said. "Most of them are alike; some fellow was a fine ink salesman."

"The bottles hold about a pint. The ink was made in England. Clean 'em up and they look pretty good. I've given them away by the hundreds and I gave a couple to the Missouri Historical Society, too. I don't know what all will be found in the big digging that will go on, but, next to ink bottles, the things that seem to keep best are old shoes and bones. Animal bones, I think most of them are."

Taylor got up. He said, "Have you ever seen a spring flowing on Seventh street?"

I had not seen a spring flowing on Seventh street. I doubted Pierre Laclede, sober founding father that he was, ever saw a spring flowing on Seventh street. Maybe river-boat captains saw flowing springs there on Saturday nights but they left town long ago and took their imaginations with them.

This walled-in clear-water spring once fed Chouteau's Pond. Now its waters are carried off into the city's sewer system.

Taylor walked out of the restaurant and I followed him. Never let a good story-teller get away; the market for fiction may come back again.

He walked down Spruce, past four men unloading a truck, past 712 Spruce. "Washington University Real Estate Properties," and through a low arched entry. He went into a small office, chose a ring of keys, and led me deeper into the building, to a workshop. He chose a crowbar from a rack, picked up a flashlight and indicated the expedition was equipped. He led the way to a flight of iron stairway and we went down one level to another cool corridor. Daylight showed dim at the end of it. The expanse of old brick wall changed pattern in the middle and I felt it. The substance felt like box-car siding. For a good reason. It was a box-car, so snug to the wall it seemed part of the building.

"This whole country was known as the Cupples Station area," Taylor said. "When I first came here in the early 1930s we had 120 freight cars a day coming in here. Now—I don't know if it's 120 a year. Trucks, and business moving . . . Well."

He bent above a manhole cover and lifted it. Air, almost cold, rose from the opening and a sound of water in a hurry came up, too. Taylor shone the flashlight into the opening. Twenty feet below, gushing strongly and country-clear, was a spring.

"There it is," Taylor said. "Don't ask me where it comes from or where it's going. I don't know and the city maps don't show 'em, either."

Chouteau's Pond as it appeared in 1850, three years before it was drained and filled to make way for commercial progress in St. Louis.

They capped it with an iron base and then went back to wooden strength, massive columns of pine and 20-by-14 inch girders of pine.

We went down two levels, into the empty basement and sub-basement of a warehouse eight stories high and pine-skeletoned all the way. We were standing at the bottom of a forest of pine and until Taylor's thin beam of light found a light switch it was

By, for and about WOMEN

Smith College Girls To Study Abroad

TWO ST. LOUIS STUDENTS at Smith College have been chosen to spend next year studying in Europe on the Smith Junior Year Abroad Program, one of the oldest college programs of its kind in the country. The young women are Miss Sheila Morrin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kevin C. Morrin, 5251 Westminster place, and Miss Anne Scherck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Scherck, 31 Oakleigh lane, Ladue.

—Julius Klarer Photograph.
MISS BLACK... Visiting classmate.

Oct. 20, the girls will have a holiday in Spain, and then will enroll at the Sorbonne in Paris to study until next June 5.

At Christmas time Miss Morrin will be in London, the guest of Mrs. Sybil Seawright, who lived here during World War II and has several friends here including Mrs. Morrin, Mrs. Hiram Norcross and Mrs. Robert E. Meyer.

Last summer, Mrs. Seawright gave a ball at Wentworth, country home of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Agar-Robartes, near London, for Miss Anne Seawright. Mrs. Agar-Robartes was Miss Margaret Carter, daughter of Mrs. L. Ray Carter, 8 Portland place.

Miss Morrin and Miss Scherck are both graduates of Mary Institute and both are on the dean's list at Smith.

MISS SUDIE JORDAN BLACK, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Black, 5235 Lindell boulevard, left St. Louis July 3 to visit Miss Diane Muckerman Howard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Howard, former St. Louisans now living in Kenilworth, Ill. Miss Black, a 1961 Mary Institute graduate, will spend two weeks with Miss Howard, who attended Mary Institute when the family was here. In August she will be with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Jordan of the Frontenac Apartments, at the Broadmoor Hotel, Colorado Springs.

Miss Diane Waring Desloge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Desloge, 24 Foreway drive, St. Louis Country Club Grounds, Ladue, and Miss Denna Anne Alfring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Alfring, 8 Colonial Hills drive, Ladue, will also be the guests of the Howards. They will go to Kenilworth early next week.

At the end of July, Miss Desloge will spend two weeks in Nantucket with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold P. Mills. She and her sister, Mrs. Clifford P. McKinney (Loriel Desloge), will fly Aug. 14 to Harbor Point, Mich., where they will meet their parents. The family will remain in Michigan through Labor Day.

Miss Alfring, a former classmate of last month's Mary Institute graduates who has since received her diploma from Westover School, Middlebury, Conn., plans to spend a part of August in Estes Park, Colo., with her parents.

WORD HAS BEEN RECEIVED of the arrival of Mrs. Hugh Nelson Johnson, 6806 Kingsbury avenue, University City, in Paris, where she flew to join her daughter, Miss Florence Bradford Johnson. Miss Johnson has been studying there at the Sorbonne for the past year.

After a week together in Paris, Mrs. Johnson and her daughter will travel through Switzerland, France and Italy. They will spend a week each in Florence, Rome and Naples and will visit Malta. The travelers will go then to Greece and the Greek islands. Returning to Rome, they will continue to Venice, the Italian lake country, Heidelberg, Brussels, Amsterdam and London.

They will sail for home from Southampton on the Liberte Aug. 2. In September, Miss Johnson will return to Smith College for her senior year.

Susan Marriott Guest of Honor at Picnic

A PICNIC in the country followed by tennis, horseback riding and swimming is on today's calendar for a group of this season's debutantes. Miss Susan Marriott is to be honored at the party for her contemporaries at the George D. Frazier farm near Pevely, Mo.

Tables set on the terrace. Vases of summer garden flowers provided table decorations.

Joining the three hostesses at one table is to be the honoree's mother, Mrs. Walter E. Marriott. The guest list includes Miss Gay Armstrong, Miss Anne Baldwin, Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Miss Kathleen Diehr, Miss Christy Hornsby, Miss Carol Willis, Miss Charlotte Johansen, Miss Sara Schlapp, Miss Jane Childress, Miss Marget Breckner, Miss Suzanne Macdonald, Miss Ada Morey, Miss Susan Simmons and Miss Barbara Berkeley.

MR. AND MRS. HARTLEY B. COMFORT of 9750 Ladue road, Ladue, have recently returned from a month's cruise aboard a yacht chartered from Louis Prima and Keely Smith, husband and wife team of night club entertainers. Mr. and Mrs. Comfort, who sailed June 6 from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., were accompanied by their children, Miss Kathryn and Hartley B. Comfort Jr., and two of the children's friends, Miss Sally Spencer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Nelson Spencer Jr., 3 Picardy lane, Ladue, and Edward Elsey of Lake George, N.Y. Their first stop was Nassau, after which they visited Harbor Island, Eleuthera, Andros and Cat Cay.

MRS. DEWEY B. HUTTON and her daughter, Miss Clare Anne Hutton, 63 Clermont lane, Ladue, are on an extensive European tour. They will travel through England, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France. They will spend a month in Paris so that Miss Hutton may attend the summer session at the Sorbonne.

At the end of August, they will return to New York on the Queen Elizabeth and will then visit Mrs. Hutton's daughter, Mrs. James R. Rauch (Beatrice Hutton), in Boston.

MISS BARBARA MacLEOD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas MacLeod, 7446 Melrose avenue, University City, is a member of the first freshman class to enter Antioch College, Yellow Springs, O., under a new year-round plan of operation. She has begun a week of orientation for new students before classes start Monday. She was graduated from University City High School last month.

Officers of Hospital Auxiliary

MRS. JOSEPH A. KIRKWOOD, left, has been named president of St. Vincent's Hospital Auxiliary. Vice presidents are MRS. WILLIAM McBRIDE LOVE, MRS. EDWARD E. AMMON and MRS. CICARDI A. BRUCE. Not present for the photograph were Mrs. Otto S. Krebs and Mrs. Edwin L. Lopata, secretaries, and Mrs. Edwards L. Thaman, treasurer.

Miss Schiff Heads Business Women

MISS HULDA SCHIFF, 4412 Blair avenue, was installed as president of the Business Women's Chamber of Commerce of Metropolitan St. Louis at the group's eighteenth annual dinner recently at the Park Plaza Hotel.

Other new officers are: Mrs.

Herbert Mueller, Mrs. Henry Koch and Mrs. Pierre Jacques, vice presidents; Mrs. Julius T. Meyer and Miss Clare Ilges, secretaries, and Miss Bertha Steinbruegge, treasurer. Mrs. Herbert Bier, Mrs. Arthur Grolan, Mrs. Clarence Hensley and Mrs. Frank Nagel are directors.

Good Housekeeping's Dieters' Complete Calorie Booklet

Remember when Harper's Bazaar Nine-Day Wonder Diet thrilled the nation of weight-watchers and every one else interested in nutrition?

Now you may have it PLUS a complete calorie guide and hundreds of other aids to help you prepare the most nutritious and delicious meals for the family.

It's all thanks to Good Housekeeping magazine bringing out a smart little booklet called "Good Housekeeping's Complete Calorie Guide."

To help every housewife prepare and serve healthful meals, Good Housekeeping magazine has prepared and issued this new guide and combined it with the Harper's Bazaar Nine Day Wonder Diet.

The booklet costs 50 cents and is available by writing direct to Book Enterprises, Inc., Dept. E&P, 310 East 44th St., New York 17, N.Y.

Specifically this 48 page booklet contains information on what foods you should eat, how much and how often and why you should select these foods; a chart of the approximate daily calorie requirements of men, women and children, according to age.

A chart of desirable weights for men and women over 25 years old; a daily normal meal pattern for breakfast, lunch and dinner; a list of basic foods and their calorie values according to measured quantities. And of course the Harper's Bazaar diet that will enable you to lose a pound a day while allowing meat with the proper combination of other high proteins and vitamins.

Wedding of Miss Rawlins To Be July 15

THE WEDDING of Miss Judith Susan Rawlins, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Grove Allen Rawlins of Fairmount, Alton, to Willard Wheatley Livingstone, also of Alton, is scheduled for July 15. The ceremony, at 7 o'clock, will take place in Alton's Twelfth Street Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Dr. Paul Krebs officiating. The reception will be held at the Rawlins home.

The title of special maid of honor, created by the bride-elect, has been given to her sister, Miss Linda Ann Rawlins. Maid of honor will be Miss Carole Lintzenich, St. Louis, and bridesmaids are to be Miss Clara Livingstone, sister of the bridegroom-to-be; Mrs. Benjamin Hilliker, Miss Ruth Ann Bandy, Hillsboro, Ill.; Mrs. Hugh Neilson, who was Miss Patricia Douglas until her recent wedding; Mrs. Robert Cox, Alton, and Mrs. Charles Augustus Livingstone, the prospective bridegroom's sister-in-law.

Charles A. Livingstone will be best man for his brother, and John Nixon Livingstone, another brother, is to be an usher. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Wheatley Livingstone, who lived in Atherton, Calif., until four years ago.

Other ushers will include Robert Allen Rawlins, brother of the bride-to-be; Thomas Stephens, Pekin, Ill.; Arthur Friedman, Allen Clawson and Benjamin Hilliker.

A few pre-wedding parties are still on Miss Rawlins's calendar, among them a dinner Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Akin of Alton; a luncheon Saturday by Mrs. R. M. Ostertag and Mrs. Thomas Ostertag at the University Club; a similar party Sunday with Mrs. Charles A. Livingstone as hostess at her home in Alton; the spinster dinner July 13 by Miss Linda Rawlins, who will entertain the bridal party and the mothers of the bride and bridegroom at her parents' home, and the rehearsal dinner the night of July 14. Mr. and Mrs. Livingstone will give the party for friends of the families at their home in Fairmount.

The party series began in May with a luncheon and stocking shower by Mrs. Katherine Wilkinson Wooten at the Park Plaza Hotel. Next was a china shower at Washington University with Mrs. Neilson, Miss Bandy and Miss Mary Beth Patton, Pi Beta Phi sorority sisters of Miss Rawlins, as hostesses.

A dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Burdett E. Bassett of Fairmount was followed the next day by a luncheon at which Mrs. Joseph Lintzenich was hostess at her home in Moseley Acres, Creve Coeur. Parties were also given by Mr. and Mrs. Edson P. Waterhouse, uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, at their Fairmount home; a "snack pack" shower by Mrs. Wilbur T. Morke at her home in Godfrey, Ill.; a lingerie shower by Mrs. Edmund Alvis of 5 Exmoor drive, Ladue, and a shower of gifts for both kitchen and bathroom by Mrs. Robert Cox of Alton.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD of the Morning Etude Music Club will give a breakfast and orientation program for new officers Monday at 11 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Erwin W. Mitchell, 226 Woodburne drive, University City. Mrs. Oliver W. Dunbar, program chairman, will discuss the theme of next season's meetings, "The Worlds of Music." Mrs. Roger Walworth Jr., is president.

Martha Carr's

Dear Martha:

I AM A YOUNG MOTHER, 24 years old. I have an aunt who is 36. Whenever we have a family get-together, this aunt always bakes pies and brings them for our meal. She slices the pies herself into very thin pieces and as soon as everyone is served she takes the remains, about one whole pie and one-fourth of the other, and wraps them up and later takes them home. She takes home more pie than she gives out. We feel that if she baked the pies for us she should leave them at the person's home where the celebration is. Everyone else in the family does this with food they bring. My sisters and I are getting tired of this and our husbands are getting mad because they keep getting such small pieces of pie.

DISGUSTED NIECE.
Have your husbands brag on auntie's pies and ask her for larger slices. Nothing prompts generosity like fulsome praise.

Dear Martha:

WE HAVE TWO CHILDREN, one 9 and one 7. When the children were small and we had to attend some meeting or supper connected with my husband's work we had to get strangers to mind the children even though my husband's mother lived just a 10-minute drive from us. Neither she nor my father-in-law would ever mind the children. They always said that the children were ours and it was our duty to care for them. Now my father-in-law has passed away and my mother-in-law is afraid to be alone at night. She comes to our house and stays until we go to bed and hints that she wouldn't mind sleeping on the sofa if she could stay all night. My husband turns a deaf ear. I am willing to forgive her but my husband said it hurt him twice as bad as it did me when she wouldn't take care of our children because she was his mother, not mine. Now she begs us to let the children take turns sleeping at her house but the children aren't used to sleeping at her house and cry and don't want to go. My husband says his mother is getting only what she deserves.

LOST.
Your mother-in-law is going to have to learn to live alone and she may as well start right now. Your children should be in their own beds at night. Staying at grandma's interrupts their regular schedule and sleeping away from home does not give them the complete and full rest they got in their own familiar beds. It isn't a question of giving your mother-in-law what she deserves for not babysitting for you when the children were little; it is a question of what's good for the children now. If grandma is afraid to stay alone at night, perhaps she could take in a roomer or pay some needy person to stay with her at night.

Dear Martha:

I would like to write to John Wayne and Richard Widmark. Can you tell me how to go about it? THANK YOU.

You can write to John Wayne, care of Famous Artists Corp., 941 Wilshire boulevard, Los Angeles, Calif., and to Richard Widmark, care of M.C.A. Artists, Ltd., 9370 Santa Monica boulevard, Beverly Hills, Calif.

Dandruff Treatment

DEAR DR. MOLNER: How can I prevent dandruff? Everywhere I go people stare at me. My hair is just filled with it.

B. S.
"Dandruff" is the result of a skin (or scalp) disease called seborrhea. It can affect the eyebrows, the skin behind the ears, or other parts of the body. It isn't as a rule too hard to treat, but the treatment has to be continued indefinitely, because it's the sort of ailment that can be suppressed but isn't so readily cured.

Various preparations for the scalp usually contain different combinations of salicylic acid, sulfur, resorcin and tar extracts.

My best advice is not to be in too much of a hurry: Permit your doctor to establish a treatment program that will really work and will be safe for you, so thereafter you can carry it on by yourself.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: I have worn contact lenses for almost nine months. I wear them about 16 or 17 hours a day and feel no discomfort.

Recently, however, the lenses seem to become blurred after I wear them several hours, and though I wash them four or five times a day, they don't clear up. Will such a condition correct itself, or is it something that can't be helped?

A. Z.
This type of problem is generally due to one of two things: Either the cornea (the surface of the eyeball) is becoming sensitive to the plastic of the contact lenses; or the plastic has taken on fluid and become thicker, and is touching the cornea.

Go to the fitter and see if the lenses can't be adjusted.

DEAR DR. MOLNER: Where can I purchase an infra-red lamp? On my doctor's advice I purchased one for my back. Now I have moved to a different city, and the lamp has burned out.

E. K.
You can buy one from any medical or hospital supply house.

Count your calories the easy way! To receive a copy of his pamphlet, "The Calorie Chart," write Dr. Molner in care of the Post-Dispatch, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Hollywood Gossip

JANE FONDA, on the sound stage next door for "A Walk on the Wild Side," was positively slinky in her green low-cut sheath... Jane gave me news of her father, Henry Fonda: "He plans to live in Hollywood for a year." The pictures are piling up for Henry: Otto Preminger's "Bunny Lake Is Missing," a cameo in "How the West Was Won," and Jerry Wald is after him for the father role in "Adventures of a Young Man."... Richard Zanuck also wants Henry for "The Chapman Report," but, as of now, the answer is "No."

Barbara Stanwyck and I discussed her TV show which, in spite of Barbara winning an Emmy this year, has been canceled by NBC. "I made 39 segments. Was it hard work? The first three weeks I thought I'd lose my mind, then I got used to it and when it was over I didn't know what to do with myself. You get used to not seeing your friends, to not seeing the sun. So I was delighted when this part came along in 'A Walk on the Wild Side.'" Barbara hopes to get her 39 TV segments into syndication. "I'll wait a year, then start another series," she said.

IT'S TRUE that, today, the film is the thing—not the star. Or how would you account for the startling sight of seeing the Clark Gable-Marilyn Monroe movie, "The Misfit," playing the second half of a local bill?

Those Underrated Vegetables

By Hoyt Alden

JUST ABOUT this time every year, as a matter of principle, we take up the cudgel for sadly underrated vegetables. Two good examples are eggplant and squash. Whether we're making any headway or not is hard to say, but we keep on trying.

The average American housewife, when perambulating through the supermarket, shies around the eggplant as though it were something that might explode. Most men, on the other hand, like eggplant. At least, most of the men I encounter do, provided they can get it properly cooked. Or, for that matter, just get it at all.

But even if the Little Woman can be persuaded to buy it, she approaches it with an attitude of defeat. "I just never seem to be able to make it taste like anything," she says, never stopping to think that it isn't supposed to taste like anything but what it is. So she usually tries to make it taste like something else.

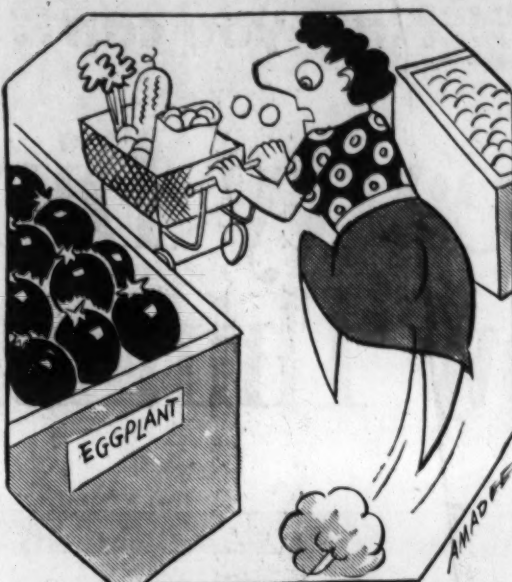

Passing up, for the time being, some of the more obvious ways to prepare eggplant, such as frying it, we'll suggest the following:

Slice enough onions to cover the bottom of a shallow baking dish. Peel the eggplant and cut it in slices. Salt it and put a layer of sliced tomatoes and, while you're at it, fill the corners and crevices with hunks of tomato.

Now another layer of thinly sliced onions. Between each layer sprinkle a little salt and a few whole peppercorns. Pour on cooking oil or olive oil until the whole thing is pretty well saturated. Cook it for three hours in a very slow oven, basting now and then with oil. If you don't like this then go back to your meat and mashed potatoes.

Of course you can't have good fried eggplant if you just dredge with flour and toss it in a greased skillet and let it turn black. You have to do it like this:

Peel the eggplant and cut it in quarter-inch slices. Sprinkle it with salt and pepper and dredge it with flour. Then dip it in egg which has been beaten with a little milk. Then roll it in fine, dry bread crumbs. Have enough grease in your skillet to just about cover the slices and have it good and hot—380 degrees.

And here, now, is one of the secrets. The eggplant is a tender and sensitive vegetable, regardless of what you may think of it, and it cooks very quickly. So fry only two to four minutes, or until it is golden brown. Not black. Drain it on paper and sprinkle it with salt and pepper.

THE NEXT TIME you cook steaks in the backyard, make this salad a little ahead of time and put it away to chill:

Bake one large or two small eggplants, whole and unpeeled, in a slow oven until done. Then remove the skins. The best way to do this is to hold the eggplant by the stem and pull the skin with a sharp knife from the other end.

Put it in a salad bowl and dice it. If there is too much liquid, drain some of it. Now cut up a large tomato and add it to the eggplant. Follow this with four tablespoons of good olive oil, one and a half tablespoons of wine vinegar, a dash of chopped parsley, a touch of garlic, a half teaspoon of oregano, and one large onion, chopped fine.

Using a wooden spoon, mix the salad, but no more than necessary, then add salt and pepper to taste.

WELL, AS THE OLD saying goes, summer squash and some are not. Most people feel strongly one way or the other about squash, and it probably all traces back to the cooking. Personally we have a strong affinity for plain stewed squash with salt and pepper and butter.

But when we say stewed we don't mean to be too literal. Squash, if it's going to be cooked with water, should be steamed and not drowned. The delicate flavor is lost if you boil it in a tub of water.

Unless the squash is big and tough, leave the skin on. Cook it with as little water as possible. When its tender, toss in a generous hunk of butter and stir it around. Then season it with salt and pepper to taste. Or, you can bake them, like this:

PARRISH

Shown Friday at 12:15, 3:15, 6:40 and 9:15 p.m.

This is PAIGE... the quiet girl who made love a dream.

This is ALISON... the rich girl who made love a command.

This is LUCY... the bold girl who made love too easy.

He was more than a boy. He was not yet a man. Dangerously in-between... and between three girls!

Don't peel them. Cook them until they're tender in a little salted water and then drain them. Scoop out the centers, leaving a substantial wall.

Now mix what you scooped out with a cup of cream cheese, a minced green onion, a half teaspoon of minced parsley, a tablespoon of cream, a half teaspoon of salt, an eighth of a teaspoon of pepper and a dash of paprika.

Fill the shells with the mixture. Arrange them in a well-greased, shallow baking pan. Pour in a little milk and bake them for 20 minutes in a very moderate oven.

WEIGHT WATCHERS! Now you can...

Eat a Good Hearty Dinner And Still Grow Thinner!

Here's the Secret of the remarkable Vi-Pro-Min Weight-Control Plan

One can of VI-PRO-MIN makes three 6-ounce glasses filled with Vitamins, Proteins, Minerals and Nutrition. These three glasses replace breakfast, lunch and snack... supply most of your day's basic nutrition... but a total of only 236 calories.

ALL 3 GLASSES TOTAL ONLY 236 CALORIES

1 THIS IS YOUR BREAKFAST

Your first glass contains the basic nutrition of a hearty bacon-and-egg breakfast*—but less than 80 calories.
*Fruit, 2 strips bacon, 1 fried egg, toast, coffee.

2 THIS IS YOUR LUNCH

Your second glass contains the basic nutrition of a good soup-and-sandwich lunch*—but less than 80 calories.
*Bowl of vegetable soup, chicken and lettuce sandwich, gelatin dessert, coffee.

3 THIS IS YOUR SNACK

Your third glass contains the basic nutrition of a satisfying afternoon snack*—but less than 80 calories.
*Apple, 6 soda crackers with cheddar cheese, tea with lemon.

... and then for YOUR DINNER!

Every night, you can have a good, hearty dinner like this nourishing and satisfying 1,000-calorie meal... and still grow thinner!

Hearty Cream of Chicken Soup with Saltine Crackers..... 107 cal.
Sizzling Sirloin Steak Smothered in Mushrooms..... 519 cal.
Fluffy Baked Potato..... 98 cal.
Tasty Snap Beans..... 14 cal.
Fresh Dinner Roll..... 81 cal.
Mixed Salad Bowl with Dressing..... 43 cal.
Angel Food Cake..... 110 cal.
Coffee with Sugar..... 18 cal.
TOTAL: 990 cal.

Never Before A Scientific Weight-Control Plan Like This!

Not a fad diet. Not a crash diet. Not a liquid diet. The VI-PRO-MIN PLAN is a balanced, realistic weight-control program. It reduces your daily caloric intake according to a safe, medically approved principle.

Why Your Doctor Will Approve

The VI-PRO-MIN PLAN provides a delicious 236-calorie liquid nutritional supplement by day plus a hearty, 1,000-calorie dinner each night. Check with your doctor. Ask him why one good meal a day is so important, both physically and psychologically. (He may recommend an even bigger meal in your particular case!)

How The VI-PRO-MIN PLAN Works

One can of VI-PRO-MIN—a new kind of natural vegetable concentrate—makes three delicious 6-ounce glasses, brimming with Vitamins, Proteins and Minerals. Most of the day's basic nutrition... but only 236 calories! At night, you eat a good, substantial dinner. And your weight will go down, as your doctor will tell you, if your daily caloric intake is lowered.

No Hunger Pangs... No Intestinal Discomfort

Little if any hunger at first; none after a day or two. Looking forward to a big dinner every night makes dieting pleasant and sure. And since dinner provides necessary bulk and roughage, there is no fear of its absence causing intestinal discomfort.

Frozen To Retain Natural Flavor

Not a synthetic powder. No "dietetic" taste. VI-PRO-MIN is frozen by Minute Maid to retain all its fresh, natural taste... all the high quality of its proteins.

Incredibly Low Price

VI-PRO-MIN is priced far below ordinary dietary supplements. About half the price of most! Get new Minute Maid VI-PRO-MIN from your grocer's freezer!

Dangerous Bird

By Ramon Coffman

SOME NATURALISTS regard the cassowary (CASS-oh-WARE-ee) as the "most dangerous bird in the world." We might suppose they would choose the ostrich as the worst, and it is true that an ostrich can deliver a highly damaging kick.

The cassowary also can give a powerful kick, and has dangerous claws as well. The middle claw (or toe) of each foot suggests the blade of a knife; when it strikes a human being or a furry animal, it is likely to cause a severe wound. Sometimes the wound leads to death.

Cassowaries live chiefly in New Guinea, but also in a limited section of northern Australia. Not being able to fly they make their nests on the ground.

As if to make up for their lack of flying power cassowaries are expert runners and fast swimmers. They can run faster than any human champion in the 100-yard dash. While running, they make bounds taking them six or seven feet above the ground.

Q. Which are the largest of all birds, past or present?
A. Although an African ostrich, a distant relative of the cassowary, is the largest living bird, we know about birds of larger size in times past.

These were the moas and elephant birds. The moas lived in New Zealand even in the modern age. Their bones and eggs have been found, and it is believed that they existed less than 300 years ago, possibly less than 150 years ago. The bones indicate that some moas were 10 or 12 feet tall.

Equal in height, and much heavier were the elephant birds of Madagascar. It is believed
